Consultation

Miss Sara Studer (left), Head Start community aide, is the "link" between the families and the Head Start center. By keeping in touch with the parents, she can inform them of their children's progress in learning and nutritional habits. Here, Miss Studer discusses a nutritional form with Mrs. Alberta Lewis, 116 South Stewart, and her pre-schooler, C.W., 4. Even though C.W. doesn't care for tomatoes, he does like Head Start so much "he even wants to go on Saturdays," Mrs. Lewis said. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Sedalia lags behind

Local Head Start volunteers needed

By MARY LOU VOSSMEYER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

With 60 pre-schoolers under its wing, the Sedalia Head Start program is the largest in the six-county Missouri Valley Human Resources Development Corp. area. And yet, its quota of volunteer manpower leaves much to be desired.

In fact, according to Miss Sara Studer, Head Start community aide, "Sedalia always has been low man on the totem pole with volunteer services."

Miss Studer explained that Head Start receives 80 per cent of its budget from the department of Health, Education and Welfare "only if we earn the other 20 per cent through volunteer services."

"In other words, if we don't make the 20 per cent, they can and will take away the 80 per cent," she added.

This puts Sedalia in a precarious position because in its eight years of existence, the Sedalia Head Start program never has reached the 20 per cent quota. Rather, it has depended on smaller communities in the six-county area to exceed their own quota in order to "carry" Sedalia, Miss Studer said.

"How can we let little towns like Henrietta and Salisbury exceed their quota when Sedalia has four or five times the number of potential volunteer services?" she asked.

Miss Studer said she "can't figure out" why Sedalia always has been on the bottom, but stressed there definitely is a "volunteer shortage" here.

"How can we let little towns like Henrietta and Salisbury exceed their quota when Sedalia has four or five times the number of potential volunteer services?"

"We have had to cancel field trips because we didn't have enough volunteers," she said. "When you take 20 pre-school children out, you need extra adults along."

Miss Studer said she feels the apparent apathy is due to a lack of information. "I don't think people understand Head Start," she said, "and we've been trying to get out information on it during Head Start Week."

Miss Studer, who began working as a community aide in August, has taken it upon herself to begin addressing local groups. She said that through her recent campaign of speaking engagements, she has discovered that many people have misconceptions about the Head Start program.

"They think that because it is federally funded, we don't need any help," she said.

She added that since she has been talking with local groups, the volunteer service has improved somewhat, but that as far as reaching the 20 per cent quota, Sedalia "is still in the minus column for the month of September."

According to the semi-monthly report, Sedalia was only $29.20 in the red for the reporting period of Oct. 1-15. However, the year-to-date total shows Sedalia to be short of its quota by $821.80.

By comparison, towns such as Henrietta and Salisbury have far exceeded their quotas. Henrietta's program includes 40 preschoolers and has a semi-monthly quota of $360. For its last reporting period, Henrietta exceeded that goal by $119.20. Salisbury, which handles 16 children, likewise exceeded its goal of $180 by $204.80.

In order to achieve the 20 per cent goal, Sedalia Head Start must acquire $540 in volunteer services every two weeks. Sedalia's goal is higher than any other program in the corporation, but Sedalia also handles more children than any other town.

Mrs. Vivian Ford, Henrietta's community aide, said that some of the volunteers in her program are parents and brothers and sisters of the pre-schoolers enrolled in Head Start. She said "you really have to work at it" to get enough volunteers and that a lot of them are her friends or people who come in contact with the Head Start teachers. School groups, scouts, and home economics classes from Richmond also volunteer.

"Most of our volunteers come from Richmond," she said. "That's where we started out ... but we had to move to Henrietta" because the school building was no longer available in Richmond.

Mrs. Bertha Gooch, Salisbury's community aide, suggests working through the parents, school and church groups, and the Jaycee wives in order to get volunteers.

"We are in particular need of men because a lot of kids don't have fathers ... and need a man to look up to."

"Teenagers are really good medicine for these kids," she added, "and I've had as many as five and six at one time."

Mrs. Gooch also said that if a local group of 10 or 12 volunteers come at one

Confusion over tapes said to bother Nixon

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon was described by aides Saturday as concerned over confusion surrounding the Watergate tapes issue but confident it can be cleared up.

Meanwhile, presidential assistant Stephen V. Bull, a key witness in the case, was at the Florida White House after a day of testimony at a Washington hearing on the tapes. Bull is to return to the witness stand Tuesday, when the hearing resumes before Judge John J. Sirica.

A White House spokesman said Nixon had not met or talked with Bull since he arrived Friday. He said Bull came to Florida to handle routine duties as presidential appointments secretary.

Bull testified Friday that Nixon was aware Sept. 29 that recordings of two Watergate conversations could not be located. This was one month before the White House said publicly that the conversations were not recorded.

The spokesman said the President had conferred by telephone with his chief Watergate counsel, J. Fred Buzhardt, and would talk to him again during the weekend.

"The President realizes and understands there is confusion about the issue and is concerned," said one aide who talked with Nixon Saturday. "He wants to be sure that we do everything we can to clear this matter up ..."

This aide said "the information the judge needs will be provided." But he did not say whether Nixon might accede to a suggestion that he turn over a recording of himself listening to other Watergate recordings.

Before the tapes hearing recessed Friday, the special prosecutors suggested that Nixon turn over any tape which was recorded last June 4, when he spent 12 hours listening to recordings of his own conversations with Watergate figures.

Nixon's lawyers objected, and Sirica sustained their objection because the June 4 tape is not covered by a court order that Nixon produce recordings of nine conversations.

The latest furor arose when the White House told the court that two of the nine conversations were not recorded.

One was a telephone conversation between the President and then-campaign director John N. Mitchell on June 20, 1972 — their first known talk about the Watergate break-in. The White House said the Mitchell call came in on an unbugged phone in Nixon's living quarters.

The second was a meeting in Nixon's office on Aril 15, 1973, with since-fired White House counsel John W. Dean III, who says Nixon implicated himself then in the Watergate cover-up. The White House says an untended recorder ran out of tape before the Nixon-Dean meeting.

Changing American lifestyle suggested as one possible answer to energy crisis

Mounting problems with energy supplies have led to calls for dramatic changes in the American lifestyle.

In Miami Beach Saturday, Federal Highways Administrator Norbert Tiemann said his office would recommend an increased excise tax on gasoline, reduced speed limits on all federal highways and a coupon rationing plan for gas similar to that used during World War II.

The Nixon administration said it was considering such measures as extending Daylight Savings Time all year round, a reduction of operating hours by non-essential industries, suspension of anti-pollution controls and other emergency procedures to meet whatever fuel crisis develops.

"The crisis is much worse than all of us anticipated a week ago," said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee. He said Arab oil cutbacks have amounted to a loss of 3.3 million barrels of oil a day, not 1.2 million barrels as originally thought.

And Canada, the main foreign source of U.S. oil, announced Friday it was increasing the tax on its crude oil exports from 40 cents a barrel to $1.90 a barrel.

"Undoubtedly, recommendations will be made on speed reductions on the federal highways. We have already written to the state governors calling their attention to this problem."

The foreign squeeze has pushed prices up on available supplies of gasoline and heating oil. And several states are taking steps to anticipate what they feel could be a serious shortage this winter.

The price of some brands of gasoline went up again last week, sending the price of premium gas soaring to the 50-cent-per-gallon mark in such areas as New York and San Francisco.

Appearing at the American Trucking Association's convention in Miami Beach Saturday, Tiemann told a news conference, "Undoubtedly, recommendations will be made on speed reductions on the federal highways. We have already written to the state governors calling their attention to this problem."

He said an increased tax and rationing were necessary steps in helping ease the energy crunch.

Three persons killed in head-on collision

Three persons were killed, apparently instantly, in a tragic head-on collision in the southbound lane of North Highway 65 near the Ohio Street business exit, Route 750, near the north city limits about 10 p.m. Saturday.

The three fatalities, reportedly two men and one women, were occupants of a 1970 Mercury. Details of how the accident occurred could not be obtained by Democrat-Capital presstime, but it appeared the collision took place in a lane reserved for northbound traffic where Highway 65 branches into a dual lane facility. Initial reports indicated all three of the dead were not from the Sedalia area and were reported to have Kansas City addresses.

Two other persons were injured in the apparent two-car crash.

Roberta Ekstrand, 16, Route 2, Sweet Springs, and Duane Phillips, Marshall, were taken by ambulance to Bothwell Hospital

Miss Ekstrand, suffering severe head injuries and other unknown injuries, was immediately transferred to the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia, for further treatment.

Phillips was being treated in the Bothwell emergency room as of Democrat-Capital presstime and was expected to remain there, it was reported.

Several ambulances were dispatched to the scene as well as firefighting equipment, which was answering an initial report which indicated that one of the two cars was on fire. Upon arrival, however, neither vehicle was found to be ablaze.

Wreckers were called to the scene after it was discovered that at least three persons

Fatalities

At least three persons were killed as a result of an apparent head-on collision near the north city limits on North 65 Highway about 10 p.m. Saturday. Involved were a 1970 Mercury and a 1969 Chevrolet. The Chevrolet was apparently occupied by two teenagers from Marshall and Sweet Springs. All three of the dead were occupants of the Mercury, which overturned after impact. (Democrat-Capital Photo by Dave Hamby)

Disease protection rate low in county

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

In an age of increasing medical technology, with vaccines now available for anything from the common flu to yellow fever, today's youngsters are probably better protected against disease than any generation in history. Right?

Wrong. According to a nationwide survey recently, of the nearly 14 million pre-school-age children in the U.S., about 5 million are not protected against either polio, measles, rubella, pertussis (whooping cough), or diphtheria.

And, local health experts say, Pettis County is no exception.

"Only 38 per cent of the pre-school-age children in the county are properly immunized, according to state Division of Health mailback surveys," said Pettis County Health Nurse Mrs. Dianne Pilant. "This sounds low, I know, but it is accurate."

The survey referred to by Mrs. Pilant is an inquiry by the health department in which returnable questionnaires are mailed to the parents of all children in the state who are one to four years old. The questionnaire covers such areas as immunization records, Mrs. Pilant explained.

The present minimum immunization program required of each pre-school-age child by the state calls for four combined diphtheria-pertussis-tetanus vaccinations, three doses of oral polio vaccine and separate rubella and rubeolla innoculations.

One factor cited by Mrs. Pilant as contributing to this low local immunization level is the inability to enforce the state requirements.

"Technically, you aren't supposed to let kids enter school unless they have received these immunizations," she said. "But," she continued, "What can you do? You can't throw out every child who doesn't have his shots ..."

Parental neglect is a great factor in the problem, Mrs. Pilant believes.

Mistaken ideas

"Too many of the mothers and fathers think that their kids will get all the immunizations they need when they get to school," she said. "What they don't realize is the importance of starting the immunization program for their child in infancy. It's just as important for him to have these shots as to have the other ones later on."

Local pediatrician Dr. Robert Edmonds is acutely aware of what he firmly feels to be another reason for the low immunization level among pre-school youngsters — poverty. This factor, he said, led him to initiate efforts leading to the establishment of Project WESTCEMO, a pilot program designed to provide health care services for children in rural regions in the Mid-Missouri area.

"One of the primary reasons we were able to get the project located here was the fact that we could prove that an excessively high percentage of area children were not being immunized," Edmonds said. "We found this to be primarily in lower socio-economic family conditions. Virtually nine out of every 10 children living under these conditions were not properly immunized."

From their mobile medical van, WESTCEMO staff physicians and nurses administer necessary immunizations to all children on a sliding scale fee system in which the cost of the immunization depends on the income of the child's family.

"We're trying to make inroads," Edmonds said. "WESTCEMO exists, of course, to help all area rural children regardless of their economic situation, but, we are particularly concerned with providing immunizations to pre-school children whose parents can't afford them."

Pre-school-age children can receive free immunizations at her office, Mrs. Pilant said, providing parents bring an authorization card certifying they are unable to pay for the treatment.

Like Mrs. Pilant, Edmonds also mentioned apathy as a primary ingredient in the combination of reasons behind the low immunization level and expressed his fear "that it may take an epidemic of major proportions to awaken these people and it may even then be too late."

While pointing out that there hasn't been a polio epidemic since about 1960, Edmonds said that "apathy and a corresponding rise in the level of improperly immunized children may harbor a hidden threat."

Although emphasizing that he is not expecting any immediate local outbreak of any diseases, Edmonds did not completely rule out the long-range possibility.

"There was a major epidemic of diphtheria in West Texas several years ago and it is not impossible that something similar could happen here if immunization levels remain the same," he said.

Have suspect under arrest in theft case

Michael A. Smith, 19, Route 1, has been taken into custody by Sedalia police in connection with the Oct. 5 theft of more than $1,000 in musical instruments from the Wilken Music Co., 3100 West Broadway.

Smith was being held in the Pettis County jail on a second degree burglary charge in connection with the break-in.

Law enforcement officials indicated Saturday that another person would also be apprehended and charged "on a joint count" of second degree burglary with Smith. No bond has been set for Smith yet.

Taken in the music store break-in were an electronic piano and an electric synthesizer. A plate glass window was also broken in the front of the building. Another musical instrument in the store was damaged, apparently by a rock thrown through the window, police said.

Smith was arrested at 4:32 p.m. Friday, according to police.

A police spokesman said investigation of another theft eventually led to the uncovering of the music store break-in.

were pinned inside the 1970 Mercury. The dead were taken from the overturned car before wreckers arrived, however, by ambulance attendants and bystanders.

The area immediately became clogged with spectators, which had to be dispersed by investigating Highway Patrol Trooper Charles Pieper.

Earlier Saturday, Warren Barrow, 47, Green Ridge, suffered multiple bruises, abrasions and facial lacerations when his southbound vehicle went out of control on Route ZZ one and onf-half miles south of Route B near Green Ridge.

time, it is an immense help in raising the volunteer service count.

In addition to a volunteer shortage, Head Start may soon be short one school building, due to Sedalia's purchase of St. Patrick's, Fourth and Washington, for the Sedalia Community Center. The school presently houses the program.

Miss Studer said she wasn't sure when Head Start would have to move out of St. Patrick's but "it may be as soon as 90 days."

She said that Head Start originally was included in plans for the Community Center, but "they didn't plan on our being this large. We have 60 kids," Miss Studer added, "and we can't have them all cramped. We also need full use of the kitchen."

Miss Studer said there has been talk of using a local church or perhaps buying a house. However, St. Patrick's classrooms are donated to Head Start and "I just don't know how our budget would work if we tried to buy or rent a house."

Miss Studer explained that volunteer hours are tallied every two weeks from forms that each volunteer completes. The guideline for determining how much each volunteer is worth is $1.60 an hour for non-professional volunteers, up to $6 an hour for someone with a college degree, if they work in their field, and as high as $25 an hour for doctors.

The three teachers, three teacher's aides, two cooks and two community aides who work here are salaried through the 80 per cent of Head Start's budget that is federally funded, she added.

Miss Studer said the only requirement for being a volunteer is that the individual like children.

"We desperately need your help. It's not only a matter of helping these children — it's a matter of pride."

"We are in particular need of men," she said, "because a lot of kids don't have fathers ... and need a man to look up to. Basically, you just have to play with the children ... and the amount of time donated is up to the individual."

Presently, Head Start has full use of St. Patrick's and three classrooms are being used, with 20 pre-schoolers in each class. But the center still needs educational and recreational supplies, Miss Studer said.

Other ways to reach the 20 per cent quota are through donations of money, dress-up clothes, educational or playground equipment.

For those who can't spend time at the center as a volunteer, Miss Studer suggests several "at-home" projects that will help Head Start and will count toward the 20 per cent quota.

The center always can use costumes, puppets, doll clothing, bean bags, small table cloths and colorful curtains for classroom windows or "make-believe" windows in the housekeeping area.

Another at-home project includes collecting and mounting pictures of animals, food, people, transportation, weather, color, holidays, expressions and shapes. These should be mounted on approximately 8½ by 11 posterboard.

The center also needs scrap items that could be used for art projects, such as plastic Clorox bottles, large buttons, scraps of lace and ribbon, empty baby food jars and cardboards from shirts and hose packages.

"We desperately need your help," Miss Studer said. "It's not only a matter of helping these children — it's a matter of pride."

Neihardt dead at 92 in Columbia

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Dr. John Neihardt, 92, Nebraska's poet laureate, died Saturday afternoon at the home of a daughter in Columbia. He had been in poor health since he returned to Columbia two weeks ago after visiting in Nebraska.

He had been living with the daughter, Mrs. Hilda Petri. Two other daughters live in Columbia — Mrs. Oliver Fink and Mrs. Alice Thompson.

Mrs. Petri said she called for an ambulance to take her father to the hospital, but the ambulance attendants said he had passed away when they arrived.

John Gneisenau Neihardt was designated Nebraska's poet laureate by the state legislature more than a half century ago.

Born near Sharpsburg, Ill., Jan. 8, 1881, he had come to Nebraska as a 10-year-old.

Dr. Neihardt received his bachelor's degree from Wayne, Neb., State College, later worked as a country school teacher, as a trader among Omaha Indians, and as editor of a country weekly, the Bancroft, Neb., Blade. But he had written his first book, "The Divine Enchantment," at age 16 and was soon devoting most of his time to his writing.

He was litterary editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch from 1926 to 1938, and poet in residence and lecturer in English at the University of Missouri in Columbia from 1949 to 1965.

He was the author of more than two dozen volumes of poetry, fiction and philosophy, many dealing with American Indian culture and customs.

'Money bag' is returned by students

Christmas may have come a little early this year for a local insurance agent, thanks to the consideration of two high school girls who decided to play Santa Claus when they found a "money bag" Friday.

A pouch filled with $90 in cash and checks was found by Janet Lamb, 1205 South Prospect, and Glynda Moore, 1513 Cedar Drive, both 15 and both students at Smith-Cotton High School. The green cloth bag was found by the girls in a parking lot at Broadway and Massachusetts while they were on their noon break from classes.

Rather than keep their find, the girls called the Pettis County sheriff's department and turned over the money. Sheriff's officials determined that the pouch had been lost by a representative of the National Life and Accident Insurance Co.

A quick call was placed to the company alerting them to the whereabouts of the "lost" money, immediately bringing a sigh of relief from Jay Thomas, an agent of the firm who had lost the pouch.

Harold Hughes, a representative of the company, said Saturday that both Thomas and other members of his company will give rewards to the two girls. Hughes also indicated that he would refer the matter to the local Optimist Club, of which he is a member, to see whether they might also recognize the girls' honest effort.

"You always hear about the bad things kids are doing," Hughes said, "and we just want to recognize the majority who are fine kids," he added.

Seek youths after theft

A 15-year-old Sedalia girl and two friends are the subject of a police search after stealing hypodermic needles and syringes from the home of a local woman.

The needles and syringes were taken from Mrs. Harry Ditzfeld, 1209 South Kentucky, who told police that a girl she knew came to her home asking to use the restroom.

After the girls left, Mrs. Ditzfeld said, an inspection of her bathroom revealed that 12 hypodermic needles and at least one syringe were missing. Mrs. Ditzfeld, a diabetic, said "they cleaned me out" and that she would need to acquire more needles before she could take her daily dose of insulin.

Police reports indicated that at least one of the girls "is involved with narcotics" and that the girls left the Ditzfield residence "running north" on Kentucky.

William Dennis Martin, 15, 1501 South Moniteau, was the subject of an assault by four black youths late Friday evening, police reports indicated.

Martin has reportedly been at Bothwell Hospital and had started home when he was apprehended by the four persons near 15th and Washington. Martin told police he was beaten and that $6 was taken from his billfold.

Police discovered a theft late Thursday or early Friday at the Conoco bulk plant, 301 North Park, where a lock was tampered with and thieves apparently had ciphoned off about 50 gallons of gasoline.

Earl D. Thompson, operator of the plant, told police that the pump to the tank was locked at 5 p.m. Thursday. Also damaged was an automatic gas nozzle and a padlock.

4-H members recognized for efforts

Pettis County 4-H members shared an evening of ribbons, medals, and numerous awards Saturday at the 4-H Member Recognition Night at Smith-Cotton High School Auditorium.

Among awards presented were those for leadership, membership, dress review and public speaking. Awards also were presented to the winners of the poster contest which was held during 4-H week, Oct. 7.

Lee Pope, representing Stamper Feed Co., Moberly, presented the Purebred Gilt Award to 4-H member Duane Rieckhoff. Pope explained that in recent years Stamper has sponsored a youth auction but that it "became too commercialized." This year, Stamper is donating a voucher toward the purchase of a purebred gilt.

Mary Agnes Simon, Pettis County 4-H Council president, presented the "Friend of 4-H Award" to George Roy, of Central Missouri Electric Co-op.

Miss Simon explained that this award is given each year to a company or organization that has been particularly helpful in sponsoring 4-H activities.

In keeping with this year's theme "4-H gets it all together," members, leaders and parents enjoyed a round of recreation led by Allan Smith, state youth recreation specialist.

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored Regocnition Night, provided refreshments for the group.

Jones murder story retold in magazine

The Aug. 13 murder of Mrs. Karen Jones, 16, in her east Sedalia apartment has surfaced again with the appearance of a seven-page article in a nationally circulated detective magazine which hit news stands in Sedalia this week.

The story describes the murder and incidents relating to the ensuing investigation by the Rural Missouri Major Case Squad. The article was written by Priest Collins and appears in the December issue of "Front Page Detective."

A spokesman for a local magazine retailer said that their supply of the magazine had been sold out by Tuesday but that more issues of the detective magazine would be available Monday morning.

Pettis County Deputy Sheriff Jim Lawson said he was told by one area magazine dealer that route distributors were "picking up" the magazine throughout Missouri. The Pettis County Sheriff's department has written to the publisher of the magazine asking for copies to be used for their records, it was learned.

The article begins with an account of incidents leading up to the early morning murder and describes how the investigation proceeded.

Mrs. Jones was stabbed and strangled while at her apartment at 1218 East Fifth. She was also raped, officials said. She was found by her landlord, Joseph Neel, the next morning.

Following a four day investigation, Pettis County Sheriff's officers arrested Kim Eugene Phillips, 21, and charged him with second degree murder. Phillips had been recently given a "general discharge" from the U.S. Air Force. He had been stationed at Whiteman AFB prior to his discharge. Phillips was charged with strangling Mrs. Jones with a belt "from which she died Aug. 13." He remains in the Pettis County jail, with bond set at $25,000.

Prosecuting attorney Gary Fleming said the case would not be set for trial until the next term of the Circuit Court, which begins Nov. 26.

Transportation problem snags delivery of gas

Several Sedalia service stations were without "regular" gasoline Saturday as a result of what was termed transportation problems along pipelines from Tulsa, Okla., to Columbia, which is a major terminal for oil jobbers and suppliers in Missouri.

Gary Smith, terminal operator at Williams Bros. Pipeline Co., Columbia, said that his firm serves as a major terminal for pipe-fed gasoline from Oklahoma. Williams Bros. simply ran out of gasoline "around 10 p.m. last (Friday) night," Smith said.

Smith said the problem was only temporary and that a re-stocking supply of gas was being received Saturday afternoon. The first benefits of this shipment would be received by individual stations by late Saturday, Smith hoped.

"We haven't had any problems on a shortage," Smith said, "it's just getting it here since the stations are buying it (gasoline) so fast."

"It runs in spurts and we may not have this problem again for a couple of years," Smith added.

Question

Our family is confronted with a serious problem: Should we tell our critically ill Father that his disease is incurable and that he has only a limited time to live?

Answer

A symposium probed the topic "Death and Dying: Attitudes of Patient and Doctor." Perhaps in their conclusions you may find an answer to your problem.

Psychologist claimed that "69% to 90% of the physicians are in favor of not telling the patient he is dying, whereas, 77% to 89% of the patients want to know."

Medical Doctor, "I cannot agree that the acceptance of death eases the conflict. I don't have any idea how we can help a person to die, but I am sure we can do much to help a person live until the time of death."

Psychiatrist, "Since I don't think we are able to distinguish accurately between patients who are ready to die and patients who are not, it is perhaps best for the physician to structure his statements so that the patient can make his own choice between denial and acceptance of death."

Two firms plan to fight city law

At least two local vending machine owners are planning to contest a new city ordinance requiring them to purchase city license stickers for their machines.

The Sedalia Democrat Co., which operates 34 newspaper dispensing machines throughout the city, and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., which owns or leases approximately 10 soft drink machines and has sold some 190 additional machines throughout the city, have contacted attorneys to assist them in their efforts. Henry Salveter is representing The Sedalia Democrat Co., and Robert Wesner Pepsi-Cola.

The two firms are opposing the vending machine ordinance primarily on the grounds that it permits double taxation of some businesses. They argue that once a local company pays the city for its basic business license, authorized under state statute No. 94.110, that it shouldn't be required to pay an additional tax for other items, such as vending machines, through which it does business.

City Counselor Bob Fritz, who drew up the new vending machine ordinance at the request of the City Council, maintains that such vending machines can be legally taxed under a portion of the state law covering "merchants of all kinds."

The deadline for purchasing stickers for all vending machines operated in the city, as prescribed by the revised city ordinance, passed by the City Council Aug. 20, was set at Oct. 30 by City License Inspector Bob Brown.

Under the terms of the revised ordinance, all vending machines must prominantly display a city license sticker. The cost of the sticker ranges from $1 to $5, depending on the amount of business handled by each machine.

The new city vending machines ordinance amends an earlier one that levied a flat $5 fee on all machines, regardless of their gross receipts. The new ordinance covers amusement machines, all of which are taxed at $5, as well as vending machines dispensing such things as soft drinks, candy, newspapers, novelties, ice, cigarettes, foods and other items.

The Sedalia Democrat Co. newspaper vending machines, and all others, were assessed a $1 sticker fee. The cost of individual soft drink machine stickers was set at $2.

Brown indicated Thursday that he has begun inspecting machines in the city and will mail the owners of "non-complying" machines a 10-day notice.

If owners have still not complied at the end of the 10-day period, Brown said, the owners of the machine can be arrested and the machines confiscated as evidence.

Both Salveter and Wesner indicated that, in addition to contesting the legality of the vending machine license law itself, they are also questioning the legitimacy of the city's expressed intent to pick up all machines not bearing the proper license sticker.

Wesner said Friday that the seeking of an injunction to forbid the confiscation of the machines or arrest of machine owners "is a possibility." City Counselor Fritz, however, Thursday expressed confidence that the matter could probably be resolved short of that.

Brown reported Thursday that approximately 600 license stickers have been sold to 82 different firms during the 30-day enforcement period, with a total of $1,666 collected. Added to the $668 in sticker fees collected earlier in the year, the total amount of revenue collected was $2,334, Brown said.

Statement concerns new city ordinance

(The following statement regarding the new city vending machine ordinance was issued by K. U. Love Sr., president and publisher of The Sedalia Democrat Co.)

"Because it represents double taxation, The Sedalia Democrat Co. opposes the new vending machine tax imposed by an August ordinance of the City Council and approved by Mayor Jerry Jones.

"In support of its position, The Sedalia Democrat Co. calls attention to the fact it is licensed by the City of Sedalia to operate a newspaper business in Sedalia in accordance with enabling state law. The company contends that a license to operate a newspaper business must include the production and distribution of newspapers. Vending machines and honor racks located on private property by arrangements with the owners, or managers, is one method of convenient distribution to readers. The cost of newspapers purchased from these racks is the same single copy price charged at the newspaper office, or across the counter of a newsstand.

"The Sedalia Democrat Co. recognized the need of the city for additional revenue from city licenses a couple of years ago when Mayor Jones and Councilman Leo Letourneau and George Dugan Jr., along with other members of the City Council finance committee, held meetings with Sedalia business people to acquaint them with such need and The Sedalia Democrat and Capital actively supported an increase and helped to bring about nearly unanimous voluntary support. As a result the city license of The Sedalia Democrat Co. was increased 133 per cent.

"Like most firms in Sedalia, The Sedalia Democrat Co. is not opposed to tax increases that provide needed city services, and it expects to pay its fair and equitable share. It stands ready at all times to lend its support to help educate the business community if a true need exists. These newspapers have a total of 34 vending machine and honor racks in use in Sedalia, and at the tax rate of $1 per unit this is not a cost that will hurt the company, nor help the city, to any appreciable extent. So, it isn't the cost, but the fact it is double taxation. If not opposed now, where will it lead?

"In 1968 The Sedalia Democrat and Capital did not endorse the proposed city charter for the City of Sedalia, not because these newspapers were opposed to a city charter form of government — which they had supported in concept — but because of a poorly-written provision for the levying of licensing taxes which would have created up to as many as 10, 15, or even 20 separate licensing taxes that could have been levied against one business. At that time, the proponents admitted the tax provision portion was poorly written, but they explained that, "double taxation would not take place, that a business would only be required to pay one licensing tax."

"Experience teaches that in the political arena when the law offers an opportunity for additional taxes, there is a strong likelihood there will be additional taxes.

"Section 94.110 of Missouri Revised Statutes, 1969, provides that city councils 'shall have power and authority to levy and collect a license tax' on (numerous businesses, including) 'newspaper offices,' and such a tax has been levied through the years and has been promptly paid by this company. These newspapers oppose the action, a right not given in this statute, to levy double licensing taxes on the same business, either against The Sedalia Democrat Co. or any other business firm.

"If there are vending machines in operation in Sedalia that are owned by businesses based outside of Sedalia that do not pay city license taxes, then the problem may be different, and exacting a tax under these circumstances may be justified.

"We have no quarrel with the city administration, nor with any member of the City Council. We believe that an error was made in passing this vending machine tax ordinance, in creating an opportunity to levy a double tax, and we sincerely urge that serious consideration be given to correction by the city fathers."

History of labor is topic

Local union members were given a history of their working heritage Friday as the Institute of Labor Studies from the University of West Virginia presented a "multi-media" film geared to inform and unite young and old union members in a common bond.

The presentation, sponsored by the various labor organizations in Sedalia, stressed the history of the labor movement. "We want to educate our people and the public as to what the labor movement is all about," said Charlie Morris, local union representative and coordinator of the program.

Highlights of the program, attended by an estimated 300 persons, was a multi-screen slide show, tape recordings, narration, and the singing of 19th century labor songs — all combined into a portrayal of the labor movement from the coal mines of Appalachia to the ghettos of Los Angeles.

"Labor groups represent a triumph and not a problem," according to George Boyle, director of Labor Education at the University of Missouri. Boyle also said labor history has often been excluded from the educational systems and that workers should be aware of their heritage, as well as their problems.

Some 20 local labor groups were represented at the gathering, according to Ray Hendricks of the Sedalia Federation of Labor.

The film presentation ended with the entire audience at the Smith-Cotton auditorium standing and singing "Solidarity," an old labor song.

Also included in the program was the drawing of six winners of $25 grocery certificates from local supermarkets.

Loss that hurt

Cattle farmer Sherl "Jake" Elenbaum, left, talks with Huron County, Mich., Sheriff Richard Stoken, center, and Det. William T. Gill about the loss of 106 feeder cattle from the Elenbaum farm. The loss, estimated at $62,000, is believed the largest due to rustling in Huron County history. It was discovered after a detailed audit by an accountant. The loss was not readily apparent because Elenbaum keeps between 1,500 and 1,800 feeder cattle on his farm. It is believed the cattle were stolen in June or July. (UPI)

Egg-throwing championship is claimed

FARMINGTON, Mo. (AP) — Two brothers have gone down in the record books Friday for their efforts in a contest in this southeast Missouri community, but it's doubtful that many will scramble to laud their success.

Dave and Jim Johnson emerged from a splattered street in the Farmington business district Friday to claim the national egg-throwing record after successfully throwing a raw egg 192 feet, 9 inches and catching it in tact. A spokesman for the sponsoring Farmington Parks and Recreation Department said the throw broke an American record of 189 feet.

The Johnsons' record-setting egg was among only seven of 132 eggs thrown by 11 teams taking part in the contest. The remains of the others covered the pavement.

An official of the egg-hurling event said the contest will become an annual affair, accepting challengers from anywhere in the country.

Reinstatement, cash payment are ordered

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Circuit Court judge here has ordered Barnes Hospital to reinstate a former staff surgeon and pay him $45,000 in damages for lost private practice income.

Judge John O. Casey issued the order Friday in upholding the appeal by Dr. Burl Dillard of his dismissal from the hospital in 1969.

Dillard was fired after he was dropped from the medical school faculty at Washington University, to which Barnes is affiliated.

Dillard said he was dismissed after he refused to turn over his income from private practice to the university, as faculty members had traditionally done, he said he was then dropped from the faculty and subsequently from the hospital staff.

Casey ordered Dillard reinstated without requiring him to be a member of the medical school faculty, as other doctors at the hospital are.

William Brown

Sedalia attorney is named chairman

Sedalia attorney William Brown, 1102 New England Drive, has been named honorary chairman of this year's annual fund-raising drive for the Children's Therapy Center, according to Roger Garlich, Center director.

About 600 volunteers will participate in the door-to-door drive, which will be held Nov. 17 and 18.

Brown, who has been an attorney here since 1938, is one of the original members of the Center's board of directors. The Center was formed in 1955.

Garlich said the goal of this year's drive is $15,000, a total of $3,000 more than last year's goal. Garlich added that the extra money will be needed to defray expenses when the Center moves into its new facility later this month. He noted that the Center's budget will increase from about $98,000 annually to about $125,000 next year.

An open house at the new Center, at 14th and Ingram, will be held between noon and 2 p.m. Nov. 28.

Commenting on this year's drive, Brown urged all area residents to continue to support the Center. "All the people on the board are grateful for the wide support and acceptance the public has given us," he said. "As a result of this support, we have been able to extend the Center's services to a wider range of people than we ever originally anticipated."

The Center remains only one of two such therapy centers in the entire country which relies solely on community contributions to keep it operative. Parents of children attending the Center are not required to pay a fee for the Center's services.

Written language first for Indians

THE EVERGLADES, Fla. (AP) — The Miccosukee Indians have hunted and fished the Everglades for centuries. Now for the first time the tribe has a written language to recount its history.

The written language was introduced two months ago to Miccosukee chidren attending first grade classes on the reservation 40 miles west of Miami. They now know that "alligator" in their new dictionary is spelled "halpate."

A Miccosukee alphabet, system of grammar and dictionary were developed by Cy Maus, a 38-year-old white educator from Miami who was hired by the Indians under a federal education grant.

"This decision was arrived at by the tribe with a considerable amount of soul searching," says Maus. "These people have been cooperating with the white man only for the last four or five years."

Maus said he was able to use the English alphabet in transforming the spoken language of the 450-member Florida tribe into writing. But he had to introduce one new letter.

"We call it the crossed 'L,' which you pronounce by putting your tongue to the roof of your mouth like you do when you make the 'L' sound but blow instead," he said.

Maus said the tribe's decision to enter the project was both cultural and educational.

"They wanted to preserve the language," Maus says. "And it's an important educational tool. Kids who learn first to read and write in the language they speak first tend to do better with English."

But the project was not without its critics.

"We've walked a tightrope on this thing. There was a reluctance by the medicine men to having certain things written down. They felt that, if written, the language would lose some of its magical properties," Maus said.

Buffalo Tiger, chairman of the tribe, said some things, like religion and ceremonies, would never be written down. But he added:

"For the Indians to learn to read and write their own history in their own language is to help them remember they are Miccosukee.

"And as we learn English for us to understand you, so should we write down our language for you to understand us."

Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., gave newsmen copies of a letter he said the Associated Milk Producers Inc., (AMPI) sent to President Nixon in 1970 promising a $2 million contribution to his re-election campaign and urging immediate action on imposing import quotas on dairy products. McCloskey spoke to the Kansas National Education Association annual fall convention. (UPI)

Total Indochina peace seems a long way off

By DENNIS NEELD
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Total peace still seems a long way off in Indochina more than nine months after the signing of the Vietnam cease-fire in Paris.

The South Vietnamese government says that nearly 47,000 soldiers and civilians have been killed in skirmishes and sporadic fighting since the truce papers were signed on Jan. 27.

The war next door in Cambodia goes on, with no prospect in sight for a cease-fire, although it had been hoped the Vietnam truce would eventually bring one about.

But the fighting has stopped in Laos and the outlook for a lasting peace there is better.

Some officials here and in Phnom Penh say that signs over the past month indicate the possibility of even more fighting to come in South Vietnam and no letup of action in Cambodia.

At the same time, civilians took over rule from military men in Thailand on the edge of Indochina with its bases for the U.S. Air Force. The outlook there now is for a slow swing to the left but without any lessening of friendship for the United States.

South Vietnamese officials from President Nguyen Van Thieu on down are talking about the possibility of a North Vietnamese offensive once the dry season sets in again.

Up to now the cease-fire period fighting has taken the lives of 36,845 persons on the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong side and 10,183 persons on the Saigon side, according to South Vietnamese count.

No official figures are available for losses in Laos or Cambodia since Jan. 27 and the lack of information about them makes it impossible to give an estimate that would be anywhere near accurate.

The scale of fighting in South Vietnam seemed to increase in October and President Thieu is warning that a North Vietnamese offensive is a possibility early in 1974.

Some South Vietnamese military sources express a belief that it may come even sooner.

There are reports of at least two more North Vietnamese divisions moving from Cambodia into Military Region III of which Saigon is a part. The build-up is concentrated in Tay Ninh Province about 55 miles from the capital.

Some senior military personnel say the build-up may be in preparation for a thrust at Saigon itself — perhaps as early as December.

Government officials have said the rejection by North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho of the Nobel peace prize is another straw in the wind. Tho announced he would reconsider accepting the prize he shared with Henry A. Kissinger when peace really has been restored.

"He refused the prize in order to avoid embarrassing Hanoi should it decide to renew the war," declared the South Vietnamese government spokesman, Bui Bao Truc.

"His refusal is one more sign that the North Vietnamese are going to renew the war," Truc added.

Tho and Kissinger were named winners of the peace prize by the Nobel Committee in Oslo, Norway, last month because they negotiated the cease-fire in Vietnam.

Best estimates put North Vietnamese and Viet Cong combat strength in South Vietnam at 145,000 and military analysts figure they would need another 70,000 before they could launch a full-scale offensive.

A significant movement of troops down the Ho Chi Minh trail at the beginning of the dry season in November would be an early warning signal of Hanoi's intentions, they say.

There is not the faintest sign of any reconciliation between the warring factions, and the fragile machinery set up in Paris for maintaining the cease-fire already has ground to a halt.

President Thieu has ordered his forces to make preemptive strikes to forestall attacks, and field reports indicate the Saigon army is engaged in what the Viet Cong call "land-grabbing operations" in some areas.

For their part, the North Vietnamese are nibbling away at government positions, particularly in the central highlands around the cities of Pleiku and Kontum. Two big South Vietnamese camps were overrun in September.

The Viet Cong, meanwhile, is moving its infrastructure in its areas — in effect creating a third Vietnam — but in regions containing a small percentage of the country's 18 million people.

Saigon and Washington have protested the building of a dozen airstrips in Viet Cong areas, some of them protected by SAM antiaircraft missiles.

President Thieu also has a deepening economic crisis on his hands. The withdrawal of U.S. troops took away $300 million a year in foreign exchange earnings and 350,000 jobs.

Inflation has soared at least 27 per cent in the last year and perhaps has run as high as 50 per cent.

No one knows how South Vietnam is going to pay for its imports, and belt-tightening austerity seems inevitable.

In Cambodia, Marshal Lon Nol's regime has shown unexpected endurance since the end of U.S. air support for his force last Aug. 15.

A new offensive against Phnom Penh is forecast with the advent of the dry season in December, but the Communist-led Khmer Rouge insurgents reportedly are having supply problems which may diminish its impact.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, titular head of the rebel forces, has complained he no longer is getting the arms and ammunition he wants from China and North Vietnam. His forces have failed to make any significant gains since the American bombing halt.

In Laos, a cease-fire proclaimed Feb. 22 had held up with few violations and with agreement reached on establishing a coalition government in which the pro-Communist Pathet Lao will share power.

Negotiations are under way on a final peace settlement and there have been moments of concern.

Under the terms of the cease-fire agreement, several hundred Pathet Lao troops were flown to Vientiane, the administrative capital, and to Luang Prabang, the seat of King Savang Vatthana.

The Pathet Lao moved faster on this part of the agreement than they seemed to have on other provisions. And this alarmed Prince Souvanna Phouma, the Laotian premier. He immediately ordered a halt until the other provisions were complied with.

The Pathet Lao greeted this with no more than an angry growl. They apparently are prepared to bide their time.

The political agreement leaves 80 per cent of the country and about a third of its three million people under Pathet Lao control.

In Thailand, a student revolt toppled the military regime of Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn on Oct. 14.

The revolt strengthened the position of King Bhumipol Adulyadej, and the new premier, Sanya Thammasak, announced the country would maintain its former foreign policy of friendship with the United States and all other nations which are friendly to Thailand.

In the long term, a gradual swing to the left is possible with moves toward reconciliation with China and North Vietnam.

Thailand is not an Indochina country but what happens in Indochina is likely to have its effect on the Thais.

About 38,000 U.S. servicemen are in Thailand manning the air bases that once were used by the United States for launching air strikes in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

The change in government in Thailand is not expected to have any immediate effect on the U.S. bases. But they could become an issue eventually.

There is a movement among many to return to the land

By STRATTON DOUTHAT
Associated Press Writer

Ranger, W.Va. (AP) — Pete Shew and Margie Sayles were raised in upstate New York. They graduated from high school, went to college, and learned about such things as iambic pentameters, French verbs and algebraic equasions.

Today, they live in a little log cabin five miles up a winding hollow in southern West Virginia.

A few miles away, on a meandering little stream known as Cow Creek, is the home of Naomi and Harvey Cohen, a Queens-Brooklyn couple who met in law school at New York University. Instead of tussling with torts and arguing in courts as they once did, the Cohens now delve into such dilemmas as how to keep the septic tank from seeping into the well and what to do with a bumper crop of foot-long zucchinis.

The Cohens have never met Pete and Margie, but the two couples have a common bond. They are fellow travelers in a back-to-the-land movement that is sweeping thousands of Americans of all ages and from all stations in life out of the cities and suburbs and into the towns and onto the farms.

Some, like Pete and Margie, don't stop until they've reached the deep woods.

The current movement back to the land began as a trickle at the beginning of the '60s. It grew steadily through that turbulent decade until entering the '70s as an almost headlong rush that has sent rural real estate prices soaring and has helped make farm property the best investment on the market.

Like anything else that reaches public attention, the movement has its supporters and detractors. Perhaps, as some say, it is a romantic fantasy that will fizzle and fade as did the agrarian communal movement of the early 19th Century. Perhaps, as others hold, it has reactionary leanings and is peopled by misfits who can't keep up with today's drummer.

Or perhaps, as John Shuttleworth says, the land is the new frontier.

"In the '60s it was space and civil rights. Now it's the land," says the young founder and editor of The Mother Earth News, bible of the movement and a hip, organic cousin to the staid farm journals of a previous age.

Shuttleworth and his wife started the magazine—which each month features such articles as "Foraged Foods," or "How To Milk A Cow"—in 1969 with only a few dozen subscriptions and an idea whose time had come. Now, after a couple of shaky years, they print and sell 100,000 copies each month and the end is not in sight.

"There's no question that the movement is growing," says Shuttleworth. "And it's growing fast. Not just long hairs, either. We're getting letters from retired school teachers, from doctors and other professional men, from high salaried guys like IBM executives . . . people like that.

"in fact, there's now a hysteria that's not healthy for the movement. At first it was just a few people here and there opting out of the system in search of a more simple life. Now, we're beginning to hear from people who are afraid it's too late. And inflation and food shortages have just made matters worse. People are beginning to get scared."

Shuttleworth sees the movement in political terms.

"The people who are moving out onto the land are looking for self-sufficiency; it's a rebellion against a system that wants us to be such complete nerds that we can't do anything, not even entertain ourselves without being plugged into an electronic tube. Well, these people are changing the world whether they know it or not; revolution is not in bottles being tossed in the street, it's between the ears. Out there today we're seeing young city people — straights, freaks, you name it — living and working in harmony with country folks who never got sucked in in the first place. We're seeing former high-salaried executives discovering they don't need all that money and have to have all those things to be happy."

Pete and Margie were never executives and they feel they've turned their backs on politics. But they agree that they're happy.

The daughter of a corporation lawyer from Corning, Margie holds a degree in chemistry from Goucher College. After graduation, she took a flyer at the Teacher Corps in Baltimore, was turned off by what she found, and went to Heathcote, an experimental community near the Pennsylvania-Maryland border, where she met Pete.

Pete, a young man with a bushy mustache and ready grin, took a more checkered route. He spent two years in college, served an abbreviated hitch in the Navy and wound up at Alice's Restaurant, a Chicago coffee house that catered to draft resisters.

"We helped a lot of people and some of my friends ended up going to jail," he said. "But I'm not active now. I wasn't really that interested in politics even then. Now I'm doing what I really love to do."

Pete pours the pigs' breakfast into the trough and smiles as they snuffle up the sour milk and overripe vegetables. "We'll be all set before long. We just got a couple of bee hives and these pigs. All we needed was the cow. Then, what with our chickens and garden, we have eggs, milk, vegetables and honey . . . and I can butcher a calf and a pig each year. We won't need much money."

A two-story structure built of pine and oak logs, their cabin sits on a little shelf just under the western ridge of a natural ampitheater that slopes down to the tiny stream where Pete and Margie get their water.

Inside the tiny kitchen, a tall, brown haired girl wearing work boots and coveralls stands over a wood cookstove, turning griddle cakes with one hand while using the other to balance the bright-eyed infant riding her hip.

When they arrived in West Virginia, Pete and Margie had little more than $2,000 between them. They settled in Lincoln County, a rural county with less than 20,000 residents situated at the tip of a triangle along with Huntington and Charleston, West Virginia's two largest cities. In addition to the farm families who have lived in the county since their forebearers pushed across the mountains from Virginia, there are perhaps 200 of the new pioneers from all over the country. Many have college degrees and most come from urban, middle class backgrounds.

"We'll all get together every once in a while," says Pete, "and a lot of the local people come, too. We play a little mountain music and have a good time."

"You know," says Margie, "sometimes I just can't believe this place is really ours. When the sun is setting it's so beautiful here you just can't believe it . . . and when we arrived, there was nothing left of the old farm that used to be here except a caved-in well."

"Yes," adds Pete. "There used to be four farms between here and the road just a few years ago. They were all self-supporting. But now they're all gone and the people have moved away. That's what I'd like to do here, show the people that are still around that they can live off the land."

Like Pete and Margie, Harvey and Naomi Cohen get along well with their neighbors on Cow Creek.

"The fellow in the next place plowed our cornfield this spring and helped me fix our barn," says Harvey, a friendly young man with a neat Van Dyke and collar length hair. "They said they'd send us a bill, but they never did."

While they stopped short of the woods, Harvey and Naomi feel they've found the spot that fits them best; a sort of best-of-both worlds arrangement. Their yellow, frame farmhouse has all the modern conveniences and from their front porch they can just barely see their neighbor's roof, peeping over the tassles on the cornstalks.

"When we left New York, I told Harvey I'd never go back," says Naomi. "We didn't come to West Virginia to find a farm, but it was always on the back of my mind. Some friends of ours got a farm and then we found this place and moved in just before Christmas of 1970. It has 119 acres, more or less, and cost $27,000. We had to borrow the money to pay for it."

Harvey and Naomi, both 29, came to West Virginia as poverty lawyers back in the '60s and neither had ever spent much time on a farm. Today they have a large, organic garden, more chickens than they can count and a cellar house full of food they have put up in anticipation of a long, hard winter.

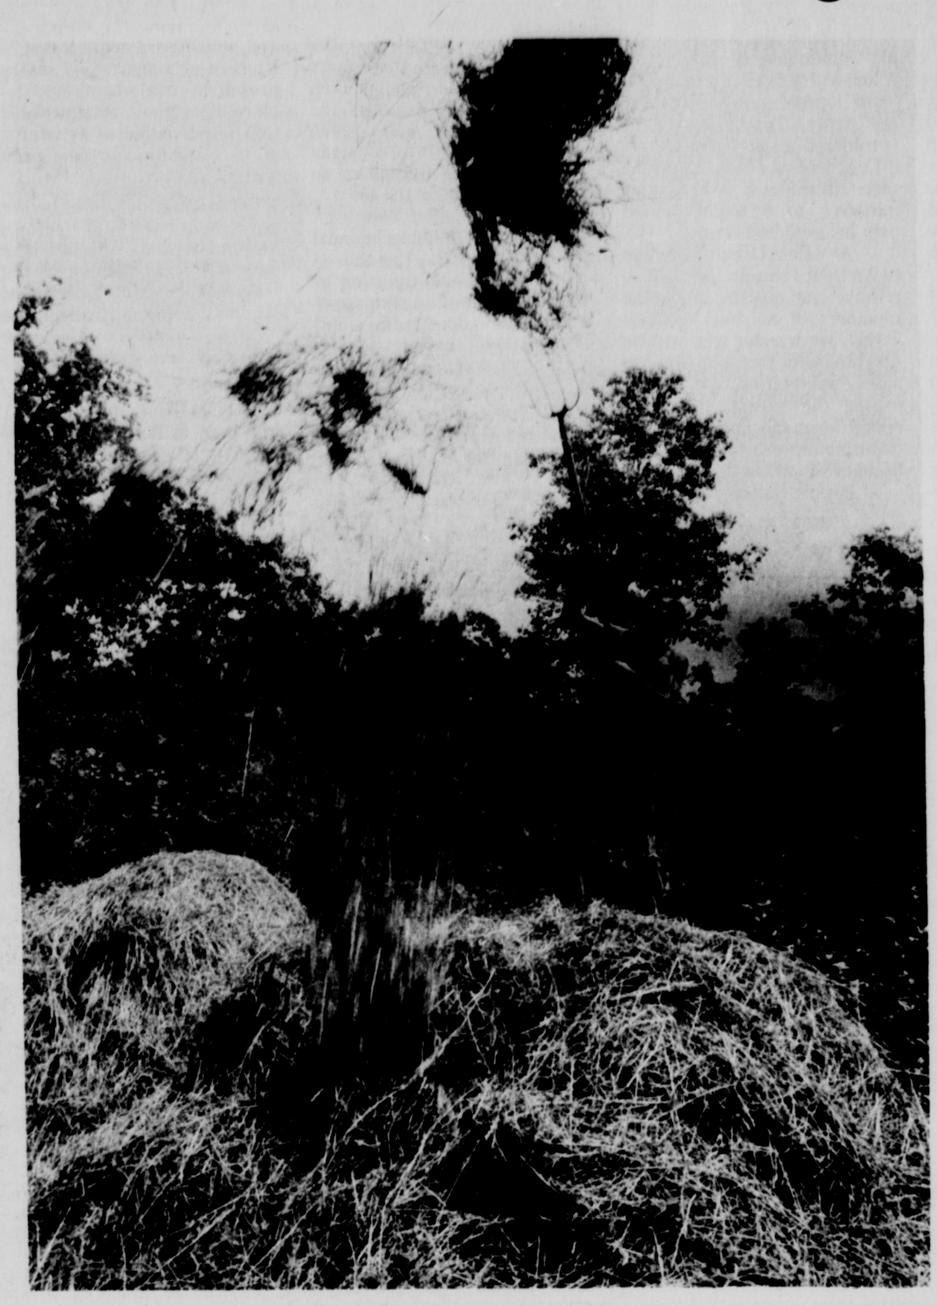
Like many of the residents of Lincoln County, Pete and Margie get federal food stamps. They pay $10 each month for $90 worth of stamps, but say they hope to become completely self sufficient by the end of the year.

Harvey and Naomi have the continuing problem of a $200-a-month farm payment.

Although they're articulate and intelligent, Naomi and Harvey seem to prefer to let their lifestyle speak for itself. But here's how one back-to-the earther described life on the land:

"I went to the woods because I wished to live life deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach, and not when I came to die, discover I had not lived. I did not wish to live what was not life, living is so dear; nor did I wish to practice resignation, unless it was quite necessary. I wanted to live deep and suck out all the marrow of life, to live so sturdily and spartanlike as to put to rout all that was not life, to cut a broad swath and shave close, to drive life into a corner, and reduce it to its lowest terms, and, if it proved to be mean, why then to get the whole and genuine meaness of it, and to publish its meaness to the world; or if it were sublime, to know it by experience, and be able to give true account of it in my next excursion."

The author was Henry David Thoreau, in "Walden."



Well-earned forkful

Pete Shew doesn't own any hayfields, but with his labor he's earned a whole heap of hay to toss. He traded with farmer neighbors in Lincoln County, W. Va., where he and Margie Sayles have gone "back-to-the-land" and now live in a log cabin. Neighbors had hayfields to be mown. Pete and Margie contributed labor, mowing machine, two horses and a rack — and now they have their hay.

Farm frontier

Naomi and Harvey Cohen of New York City believe they've found the place that fits them best: this frame farmhouse in Cow Creek, West Virginia. It's a sort of best-of-both-worlds arrangement — the city streets seem far away, but their farmhouse has all the modern conveniences. (AP)

Banks more competitive in business

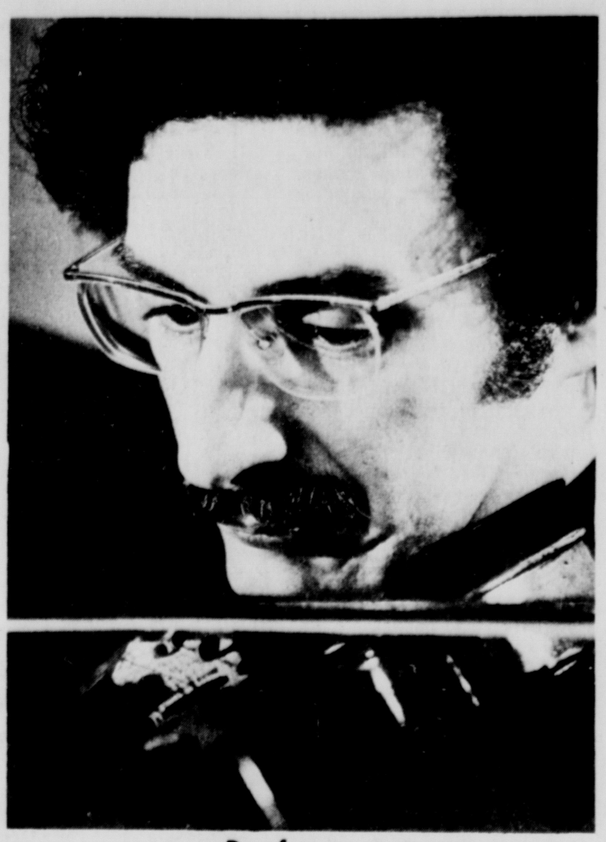
"Banks today are undergoing many changes as management is actively competing for customers and cash so they may respond to customer loan demand, to the furnishing of finances for a better quality of life, and to help satisfy the demands of an impatient public," Ben Schifman, 40-year finance writer and editor for the Kansas City Star, told his audience of more than 200 Friday night at Ramada Inn.

The occasion was the banquet and first meeting of the '62+ Club, an organization founded earlier this year by Sedalia Bank & Trust Co. The club numbers 215 members, who are investors and customers of the bank. The dinner was preceded by a fellowship hour.

Jack Kniest, president of the bank, welcomed members of the club and introduced Jason Ott, chairman of the bank board. Ott noted that the bank had grown from $7 million in assets in 1967 to more than $20 million today. It was first in the Sedalia community in percentage of growth, first in number of branches to serve its customers, first in computerized full service banking and now first in a dinner meeting for its 62+ Club members, he said.

Schifman, who in addition to his position with the Kansas City Star, is a contributive writer for the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal, and who was winner of the Gerald B. Loeb Award for financial news writing in 1966, reported on the many areas in which banks were filling financial needs today and how bankers were meeting the challenge of modern living. Following his talk he fielded questions from his audience concerning the stock market, the money market, and economic conditions and future forecasts.

Entertainment for the evening was furnished by Grandpa Jones of Nashville, Tenn., "Hee Haw" fame. Jones in real life is Louis N. Jones and lies in Nashville. He was joined in his "pickin' and singin'" by Marshall Barnes, who also sang and played bass.



Performer

Max Rabinovitsj, concertmaster with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, will be with the 95 member group on the Central Missouri State University campus for a two-day residency Tuesday and Wednesday. A formal concert will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Hendricks Hall. An admission will be charged.

Frank Runions

Runions key speaker for Veterans Day

A parade and address by Frank Runions, past state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will keynote the local VFW observance Saturday of traditional Veterans Day. The parade begins at 9:30 a.m.

Runions, a member of the national security committee of the VFW, will speak at an installation ceremony for the local Sons of the VFW at 6 p.m. at the Holiday Inn. Immediately following the installation ceremony, Runions will then address those attending a World War I banquet at the Inn.

Runions will discuss the Middle East crisis and related national security affairs. He will then also discuss various VFW activities, including Americanism and Loyalty Day, Lite-a-Bike, and the Voice of Democracy oratorical contest.

Company is facing new accusation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency has accused International Harvester Co. of neglecting repeatedly to inform vehicle owners of safety-related defects.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration made the charge Friday in asking a federal court to issue an injunction against International Harvester and fine the firm $390,000 for alleged violations of the 1966 Motor Vehicle Safety Act.

International Harvester produces mainly farm equipment, trucks, buses and recreation vehicles.

The safety administration said the violations occurred while the company was conducting 16 recall campaigns because of manufacturing defects. In two campaigns, it alleged, owners were never notified of admitted defects.

In another case, International Harvester waited 20 months before notifying owners of at least 200 vehicles, including school buses, that it had discovered a brake defect, the agency said. A fourth incident involved a steering problem, it added.

The safety administration also alleged several violations of failing to file required reports to the government on time or at all.

There was no immediate comment from International Harvester, headquartered in Chicago.

Rep. Mills to go back to his office

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who underwent surgery Aug. 31 to remove a ruptured disc from his spine, will return to Washington, D.C., late next week, says his office here.

Mills's office said on Friday that he was examined earlier in the day by Dr. Thomas Fletcher, a Little Rock surgeon, and told he could return to Washington but must follow a "limited schedule in order for his normal recovery to continue."

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he is "leaning toward seeking renomination."

He had said he might not seek another term if his back ailment continued.

Impeachment issues interest wide-spread

By Don Oakley

The constitutional crisis engendered by the Watergate tapes controversy has focused the curiosity of Americans on the only other time in their history that a president has stood in peril of being removed from office by virtue of Article II, Section 6 of the Constitution — the impeachment clause.

On Feb. 24, 1868, a bill of impeachment embracing 11 charges was brought by the House of Representatives against Andrew Johnson, 17th president of the United States. On March 13, his trial began in the Senate, and in voting on May 16 and 26, he was acquitted, the Senate each time falling just one vote short of the two-thirds needed to convict.

Are there any similarities or parallels between those momentous events and the impeachment fever gripping many Americans and an uncertain number of congressmen today? Are there any lessons that can be applied to our own time?

Aside from the sheer mechanics of the impeachment process itself — assuming that the current crisis reaches that point — the answer is no. The two periods and the circumstances of the two embattled presidents can scarcely be compared.

For at least a year preceding those fateful days in the spring of 1868, Andrew Johnson, attempting to carry out the conciliatory policy of the fallen Abraham Lincoln toward the post-Civil War South, had been locked in combat with a Congress dominated by "Radical Republicans" bent on treating the South as a conquered province.

Two years after Appomattox, in a series of Reconstruction Acts, Congress in effect renewed the war and declared the former Confederacy to be "rebel states." Postwar state governments were abolished and the South was divided into districts and placed under military occupation.

What brought the confrontation between president and Congress to a head was the passage in 1867 of the Tenure of Office Act, forbidding the president to remove any officer of the government without the consent of the Senate.

It was Johnson's defiance of this act by attempting to replace Secretary of War Edwin Stanton, a notorious source of administration "leaks" to the radicals, that was the immediate cause of his impeachment.

Rather than similarities between 1868 and 1973, there are contrasts:

— Congress routinely passed laws over the veto of President Johnson. Today, even in the midst of the Watergate scandal, Congress has consistently failed to override the vetos of President Nixon.

— Congress usurped the role of commander-in-chief from Andrew Johnson, going so far as to deprive him of control of the Army. Today, it will be considered a significant victory if Congress succeeds in limiting the President's war-making initiative to a 60-day period over his expected veto.

— As noted, Congress denied to Andrew Johnson the right to remove civil officials, including members of his own cabinet. Today, we wonder who will be next to join the long line of aides, secretaries and others exiting the executive branch, either resigning under a cloud of suspicion or being ousted by Richard Nixon.

— Even Andrew Johnson's opponents doubted the constitutionality of the Tenure of Office Act (it was, in fact, eventually nullified by the Supreme Court). Today, even supporters of Richard Nixon fear that he is attempting to place himself above the law.

Not least of the contrasts, there was no breath of scandal surrounding the Johnson administration, no question of honesty or morality, no maze of Watergate deception and coverup under investigation, no waffling or defiance in the face of court orders to produce evidence.

In sum, the case of Andrew Johnson was that of a powerless president-by-accident versus an overweening and vindictive Congress that of Richard Nixon, a strong president, overwhelmingly re-elected, versus a malleable Congress accused of defaulting on its constitutional rights and duties.

Yet because only once before has there been a serious movement to invoke the impeachment provision of the Constitution against a president (Thomas Jefferson called it a "mere scarecrow") we inevitably seek guidance from history.

If guidance is to be found anywhere, it is, perhaps, to be found in the consciences of that handful of senators who risked — and received — political retaliation for standing against the will of the majority.

To those men of the 40th Congress, the continued existence of a government of balanced powers was too important, too precious, to permit of the destruction even of an impotent Andrew Johnson.

The question the members of the 93rd Congress may be asked to decide in their hearts is whether the integrity of that same government now demands the curbing of one of the most string-willed and independent chief executives ever to sit in the White House, Richard M. Nixon.

Business scandal in headlines

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business News Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the year's biggest business scandals surfaced again this past week with a federal indictment against 22 people in the massive Equity Funding Corp. of America phony insurance case.

Equity Funding, once a high-flying financial conglomerate, collapsed into bankruptcy proceedings last April amid charges that thousands of bogus life insurance policies had been created through a subsidiary and sold to re-insurers.

Los Angeles grand jurors Thursday returned an indictment against Stanley Goldblum, president and chairman of the parent company; 19 other former employes, and two outside auditors.

All were charged with conspiring from January 1965 until this past April to commit various crimes, including bank fraud, filing false financial documents, interstate transportation of securities taken by fraud, interstate transportation of counterfeit securities and electronic eavesdropping.

The extent of the alleged fraud in actual money terms has yet to be pinned down, but investigators have said only 30,000 of 97,000 claimed Equity Funding policyholders actually existed.

Corporate third-quarter earnings announcements continued this past week, and one of the most spectacular came from U.S. Steel.

The country's biggest steelmaker said its profits for the quarter were more than $87 million, up 183 per cent from a year earlier on a 35 per cent sales gain.

Despite the gains, U.S. Steel warned that profit gains were being "arbitrarily inhibited by government restrictions" and that the restrictions threatened the industry's ability to keep up with demand.

Ford, Chrysler and American Motors appeared headed for conflict with the Cost of Living Council over auto prices.

Ford and Chrysler joined American Motors in applying for new hikes, but the council has indicated it won't consider more increases now.

Chrysler, which said it needed the hike to cover the costs of its new contract with the United Auto Workers, said it would sue the council for its denial of a $73 increase Sept. 19. Chrysler wants that $73 raise plus $63 more. American Motors wants $114 and Ford is asking $188.

The United States unemployment rate fell unexpectedly in October to 4.5 per cent of the work force, its lowest level in more than three years, according to the government.

Herbert Stein, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, noted that the report was welcome, but said it meant there was little room to increase economic output by putting more people to work.

New chairman is elected

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kenneth L. Worley, director of the United Auto Workers Union Region 5 was elected the first chairman of the newly formed United Labor Committee here Friday.

The potentially powerful statewide committee was set up in September and represents more than 500,000 workers in the majority of unions in Missouri.

In addition, the committee brings into one organization groups allied with the AFL-CIO, Teamsters, United Auto Workers and the United Mine Workers.

In setting up legislative goals for the upcoming session of the General Assembly, the committee decided to support formation of a port authority in St. Louis, an improved workmen's compensation law, collective bargaining for public employes and a $2 minimum wage.

Re-entry vehicle is launched for U.S.

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (AP) — A research and development re-entry vehicle has been launched at the Air Force Space and Missile Test Center here, a military spokesman said.

The spokesman said the launch was at 4:30 p.m. PST Friday. He said a modified Minuteman I propelled the re-entry vehicle down the western test range.

Open marriage ceremony

The Phoenix Nest
Edited by Martin Levin

By RICHARD LIPEZ

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tripod, of 17 Whispering Wee Terrace, have announced the opening of their marriage. The marriage opening ceremony was performed in the Tripod's living room last Thursday evening at about 7:40 by a neighbor, Ms. Sylvia T. Feckly, who subscribes to "Cosmopolitan." In attendance were a few other friends, as well as the Tripods' children, Eric, age five, Trinka, age three, and Amelizanda, age one-and-a-half.

The Tripods have decided to embark on an open marriage one Friday night during a discussion of their search for self-actualization. They had read everything that had been sent to them by the Where-It's-At-Book Club but reached the conclusion that reading all these books and talking about them with Ms. Feckley was not enriching their lives or actualizing their selves but was just making them nervous. So, they decided to act. The opening of their marriage is only the first in a series of events designed to bring out the Tripods' hidden potentialities.

The ceremony, which was written by Ms. Feckley, included excerpts from "The Female Eunuch," "Open Marriage," "I'm O.K. — You're O.K.," "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," Time magazines' review of the Rolling Stones concert and Khalil Gibran.

The Tripods promised each other to do the following:

1. Establish and maintain a dialogue.
2. Touch each other's heads more frequently.
3. Admire vegetation together.
4. Take separate vacations six times a year.
5. Get a self-cleaning oven.

The bride wore a floor-length polyester (non-flammable) gown with a bright floral pattern, numerous trinkets on chains, and a sun bonnet that had been worn by her great-grandmother. The groom wore Levis, a navy blue sweatshirt and desert boots, as did Ms. Feckley.

Among the gifts were a mobile made entirely from objects found in the garbage bin behind the J. C. Penney Company, a wonderful frog, a subscription to "Psychology Today," a pirated recording of Yoki Ono hailing a taxi, and a photograph of a human foot taken from an interesting angle.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Dean Watkins, of Pittsburgh, presented the newly-self-actualized couple with a check for $35 and then left to rejoin Mr. Watkins who was waiting in a nearby motel.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Tripod, of Los Angeles, did not attend the ceremony but sent a long telegram that the groom described as "vague, possibly threatening."

After the ceremony, the bride left for a short trip to Ocho Rios with Gerald "Bucky" O'Brian, a Ph.D candidate in marine biology.

Garfield's great U.S. contribution

By RICHARD ARMOUR

There must have been something important about President James A. Garfield. I say this because as a boy I lived on Garfield Street, went to Garfield School, and played in Garfield Park. Yet Garfield, a Republican, was elected over his Democratic opponent by a plurality of only 10,000 votes, nothing much happened during his administration, and he was assassinated after only a few months in office.

Having been so intimately connected with Garfield in my impressionable youth, I have long tried to discover the reason for his distinction. For a time I thought it was because of his persistence: he was nominated on the 36th ballot. Then I chanced upon a rather touching fact: he was the first President whose mother was present at his inauguration.

But these things somehow did not seem quite enough to justify his having so many places named after him. Could it be his remarkable good luck? He commanded a brigade at Shiloh but was not ordered into the fighting until the second day, when the battle was over. Could it be the pertinacity with which he clung to life? He was shot by a disappointed office seeker on July 2, 1881 and did not die from the effects of the wound until September 19, lingering for two and a half months.

I began to think it was his being a college professor, and one who taught not only Latin and Greek but mathematics, philosophy, English literature, and rhetoric. That, of course, was before the age of academic specialization and before the publish-or-perish syndrome. Surely Garfield did not teach all of these subjects and also publish in the scholarly journals.

It was only when I discovered that Garfield was the first lefthanded President that I began to hit pay dirt. Shortly afterward I learned that he was not only left-handed but ambidextrous, and could write Latin and Greek simultaneously. That, surely, is why Garfield is one of our great Presidents and why his name is spread across the land.

From writing Latin and Greek simultaneously it was an easy step, if a hand can step, to writing gobbledygook, which is Latin, Greek, and English all at once. Garfield had made a contribution to government bureaucracy that is hard to understand but will never be forgotten if it can be remembered.

Claims Nixon popularity is the lowest yet

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP) — George Gallup says his most recent Gallup Poll, to be published Sunday, indicates President Nixon's popularity has sagged to 27 per cent, the lowest for any American president in the past 20 years.

Gallup told a meeting at the Roper Public Opinion Research Center at Williams College on Friday that Nixon's rating is only four points above President Harry S. Truman's low of 23 per cent in 1951.

Burns Roper, who heads the Roper Poll, said he believes Nixon will leave office by resignation.

"The question in my mind now is not whether he will or will not last out his term, but whether he will or will not last out the calendar year," Roper said.

Ricky Lewis was installed as president of the Northwest 4-H Club at its meeting Thursday by Mrs. Dewey Swopes.

Other officers named were John Bean, vice-president; Michael Lindsey, secretary; Carol Wagner, treasurer; Donna Lundsford, reporter; John C. Oren, club leader; and Dora James, assistant.

A social hour, with refreshments, followed the meeting.

St. Louis firm reports boost in earnings

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The McDonnell Douglas Corp. has reported a boost in earnings of more than $24 million and another in sales of more than $400 million for the first nine months of this year compared with the same period in 1972.

Earnings of $102.18 million, or $2.57 a share, on sales of $2.34 billion for the year through September were announced Friday by the St. Louis-based aircraft and aeronautics firm. Those totals compared with earnings of $77.89 million, or $1.97 per share, on sales of $1.92 billion for the same period last year.

But the firm noted that total employment declined more than 10,000 to 79,185 on Sept. 30, 1973, compared with the total employment on the same date a year earlier.

McDonnell Douglas also said development of the F-15 air superiority fighter plane of the Air Force was proceeding within target costs and on schedule, having completed the 1,000th test flight on the aircraft this week. Eleven of the planes are now on flight test status, the firm said.

Net earnings for the third quarter this year totaled more than $27 million on sales of nearly $616 million, a jump of $4 million in earnings and $37 million in sales over the same quarter in 1972.

County blood bank plan is given thought

(Democrat-Capital Service)

HUGHESVILLE — Adopting the slogan "The Year of Health in Pettis County," the Pettis County Community Betterment Council Thursday held a breakfast meeting here.

The meeting centered around the possible organization of a Pettis County blood bank and comments from guest speaker David Warren, donor recruiter of the Kansas City Community Blood Center; Dr. John Owens, Pettis County coroner; and Don Feeback, administrator of Bothwell Hospital.

As a result of the meeting, various communities have made appointments with Warren for him to speak to community clubs and organizations about the establishment of a blood bank in Pettis County.

In other business, Stan Ponce, a community development agent with the University of Missouri Extension Center, Warrensburg, spoke to the group about a solid waste survey to be mailed out next week to get county residents' opinions of a rural solid waste collection service.

Farm roundup

China grain purchase revealed

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new export report issued by the Agriculture Department shows the Peoples Republic of China has bought 75 million more bushels of U.S. corn than had not been disclosed previously.

Only 20.4 million bushels had been identified in earlier government reports for delivery to China during the 1973-74 season. The disclosure Friday raised to more than 95 million bushels the shipment earmarked for China.

The report was the first issued by the department under a requirement specified by Congress in the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973. Earlier export listings were filed with the Commerce Department and then published by USDA.

Although the new USDA report showed a number of variations, it generally indicated that farm exports for 1973-74 are approximately in line with the earlier figures.

Total corn exports added up to more than 1.3 billion bushels. Wheat shipments, counting exports already made, were set at more than 1.3 billion bushels; and cotton was shown at around 6 billion bales.

Those were close to totals indicated by earlier listings reported to the Commerce Department and, in most cases, exceed official export estimates by USDA.

Wheat exports indicated in the new report, for example, will be far above the official USDA estimate of 1.15 billion bushels.

Spokesmen said, however, they still believe there are padded figures in the new report and that those will tend to shrink over the next few months.

The report, compiled from information gathered by the Agriculture Department's Statistical Reporting Service, did not include any analysis. But it did stress that changes could be expected in the future.

"It should be recognized that some export sales contracts reported may not materialize in actual shipments because of future adjustments in contracts," the report said.

The figures issued Friday were for export commitments outstanding as of Oct. 21.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although some livestock feed prices have dropped from summer peaks, the cost of hay to cattlemen and other producers continues to soar, the Agriculture department says.

As of Oct. 15, the Crop Reporting Board says, baled alfalfa cost an average of $59.10 per ton, up $3.60 from September and about 50 per cent more than it averaged a year earlier, when it was $39.60 per ton.

All other hay, including native grass, was up to new peaks averaging $46.70 per ton in October. A year ago, it was $36.40 per ton, according to USDA records.

The 1973 hay crop was down about two per cent from last year. That is part of the reason for the price hike, but shortages of wire and twine for baling ties also have been factors this season.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists have found a major crop pest, the corn earworm, actually does better on an artificial diet of blended wheat and soybean materials under laboratory conditions.

The Agriculture Department says in a research report, Artificial Diets for Mass Rearing the Corn Earworm, that the pests — which also attack cotton — were also treated to meals of pinto beans, corn, and blended corn, soybeans and milk.

Scientists say mass production of corn earworms is a requirement of controlling the pest biologically without chemicals and that the proper diet helps them reproduce.

New course will train physician's assistant

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — An experimental program that could pave the way for a new career in medicine and relieve physicians of many of their duties has begun at the University of Kentucky.

"We hope to train a multipurpose person who can assist a doctor in a clinic or office," said Dr. Earl Vastbinder, associate professor of pediatrics in the College of Allied Health and director of the program.

This new kind of medical worker will be certified as a "physician's assistant" after completion of a two-year course.

It is the first program of its kind in Kentucky.

Dr. Vastbinder said a physician's assistant should be able to take over many duties that a physician now performs, freeing him for more specialized practice.

"The physician's assistant will be the one who sees the patient first, who will help a person in primary care," he said.

He should be able to give routine physical examinations, treat minor ailments and to recognize abnormalities in a patient, Dr. Vastbinder said. The six men and four women enrolled in the program will be exposed to a variety of courses, from medical ethics to actual clinical work. First semester courses include chemistry, anatomy and physiology and medical ethics.

"We want to help them define the limits of their profession, recognize their responsibilities to the patient and learn what they can treat and not treat," Dr. Vastbinder said.

A major difference in the role of the nurse and the physician's assistant is that nurses are taught not to treat a patient without a physician's supervision, whereas the physician's assistant will be taught simple physical diagnosis.

Students will have an opportunity to help examine patients in a clinic during the course and are required to do six-week clinical rotations in several different areas of medicine.

In the pediatrics clinic they will learn about growth and development, about nutritional problems, and about the sick and well child, Dr. Vastbinder said.

In obstetrics and gynecology, students will learn to counsel mothers, to give a routine pelvic examination, take pap smears and give adequate instructions on birth control — all of which are functions now handled by the doctor himself.

In surgery a physician's assistant will learn antiseptic techniques, how to suture minor lacerations, set plaster casts and administer local anesthetics.

Students will also be exposed to family medicine practice, getting a broad range of experience so that they can function much like a family doctor, Dr. Vastbiner said. Students will also study radiology and learn practical application of X-ray techniques.

At the end of their training the students enter a three-month "preceptorship," similar to a medical student's internship.

Eight of the 10 students enrolled in the program this year are college graduates. All are required to have at least three years of training or experience in medically-related fields.

Hospital wing training area

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A new wing of the Veterans Hospital in Kansas City, dedicated Friday, will provide training for 700 doctors, dentists, nurses and medical technicians.

Donald E. Johnson, Veterans Administration head, said the eight-story, $4.6 million addition shows the emphasis the VA is putting on medical research and training.

Johnson estimated $1.5 million will be spent on medical research at the hospital in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

The addition doesn't expand the hospital's patient capacity, but is devoted to laboratories, classrooms, offices and study rooms.

There is space for research in cancer, heart disease, blood disorders, speech and hearing defects, drugs and organ transplants.

Fish protein concentrate — a powder made from fish meal — recently won the Food and Drug Administration's approval for human consumption, after a decade of testing.

Illegal feathers

United States attorneys Jeffery Miller, left, and Richard Meltzer hold up a stuffed eagle which was part of a collection of Indian artifacts worth $25,000 that was confiscated from an antique dealer near Easton, Pa. The dealer was arrested for possessing and selling eagle feathers in violation of a law designed to protect the Bald Eagle and the Golden Eagle. Also seized and seen in the picture are five Indian bonnets, medicine shields and other Indian artifacts. (UPI)

Family is reunited through an accident

HONOLULU (AP) — Leroy Case has located a son he has never seen and his ex-wife, whom he plans to remarry, because an ambulance driver noticed his name and thought he was someone else.

Case, 54, tells the story this way:

He moved here last spring from Marathon, Fla., for a rest and vacation. That rest, however, was interrupted with open-heart surgery at a Honolulu hospital in July.

An ambulance driver for the hospital, noticing Case's name on a hospital roll, decided to visit the patient, thinking he was an old friend. He found that this Case was the father of his friend, Leroy Case Jr., 35, who left Honolulu last spring for Marathon, Fla.

The driver wrote the younger Case in Florida and told him he had seen his father, whom the younger Case had never known.

The elder Case and his wife, Georgia, who married in 1937 while Case was in the service at Ft. Knox, Ky., separated after six months and before their only child was born. They haven't seen each other since the separation and were officially divorced in 1942.

When the younger Case called his father in the hospital, "I asked him where his mother was. I had hunted all over for her," the elder Case said.

He said he didn't ask why his son had been in Honolulu or why he moved to Marathon, Fla., of all places.

"I guess he could have wanted to be near his mother.... I don't know," he said.

Soon after the call, Case said he got a card from his former wife, now living in Miami Beach, Fla., wishing him well.

"That card led to letters back and forth, and things got pretty hot," he said.

Georgia is due to arrive here Dec. 16, and "we're going to be married Dec. 31. I've got the diamond ring all ready to go," Case said.

Woman will cooperate in investigation

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A blonde woman has returned to Memphis voluntarily from Missouri for questioning about reports that she had sexual relations with numerous city policemen, Police Director Jay W. Hubbard says.

Hubbard identified her as Charlotte Tyler, 19, formerly of Paris, Ark. He told newsmen in an interview that investigators wanted to talk with her about allegations of sexual misconduct by officers. He said no charge would be placed against her and that she had agreed to talk voluntarily.

"She understands all of this is of her own volition and is willing to talk to us," he said. "If anyone can clear up any of the mystery that remains, she is the one."

Police sources in Memphis have been quoted as saying that up to 200 officers may have been involved in sexual misconduct. Hubbard said the number is less than 20.

Mrs. Tyler was flown from St. Louis to Memphis at police expense Friday.

Hubbard said she had "confirmed that she had relations with a number of police officers." Hubbard said her information "corresponds to statements we've already gotten."

Suffocation said cause of boy's death

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Firemen found the body of Melvin Mason, 7, under a bed after neighbors saw flames in the kitchen of his home. Death was attributed to suffocation.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Mason, have three other children, but firemen said Melvin was alone in the home. The fire started around the kitchen stove.

U.S. Navy not top on the seas

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. Navy no longer commands total superiority on the world's oceans but continues to have an advantage as an intervention force such as in the Middle East, a leading authority on comparative naval strengths said today.

Capt. John E. Moore, editor of Jane's Fighting Ships, said that, although the Soviet navy holds advantages in a number of areas, the U.S. Navy has the edge "in a confrontation situation."

Jane's Fighting Ships, an annual reference publication, is the most authoritative catalogue of comparable naval strengths.

Comparing the American and Soviet navies, Moore declared:

"On balance, there is no way to tell which navy is the strongest over-all. You are not comparing like with like. Strong points in one navy are lacking in the other and vice versa."

He said in an interview that the Soviet Union has the the most modern navy afloat, with more ships less than 10 years old than anyone else, including the largest submarine fleet.

On the other hand, no other navy can match America's nuclear propelled aircraft carriers and no one "is ever likely to match them," he said.

Before 1967, Moore said, the U.S. Navy was seen as superior over-all, but since then the Russians have introduced new ships and weapon systems that have put the question into doubt.

People in the news

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Entertainer Elvis Presley has checked out of Baptist Hospital after a "complete recovery" from recurrent pneumonia, his doctor says.

Presley, 38, was "so eager to get back home that I decided to discharge him last night and avoid the crowds," said Dr. George Nichopoulos on Friday.

Presley was admitted to the hospital Oct. 15. Nichopoulos said earlier he would discharge Presley Saturday.

LONDON (AP) — Lord Snowdon took a spill in a three-wheel car he was demonstrating in Kensington Palace grounds. He is the husband of Princess Margaret, the queen's sister.

A palace spokesman said Snowdon was shaken when the car overturned Friday while moving about 15 miles an hour.

Snowdon designed the vehicle for use by invalids.

PARIS (AP) — Elsa Schiaparelli, the 77-year-old couturiere known as the "Italian artist of the Paris haute couture," is reported seriously ill.

Miss Schiaparelli was known for years as the rival of Gabriele "Coco" Chanel in the fashion world of the 1930s.

Friends declined to give details Friday on her illness except to say that she had come out of a coma after several days.

LONDON (AP) — Former Soviet spy Leopold Trepper, mastermind of the 'Red Orchestra' spy network in Europe during World War II, is in London for medical treatment.

Trepper, 69, was given permission to fly here from Warsaw last month after years of confinement in Poland.

"I am very happy to be here. I don't know how long I will be staying. It is up to the doctors," he said Friday. Trepper is to undergo treatment for high blood pressure.

Trepper was given permission to leave only after strong lobbying by his wife and sons abroad, and constant press coverage.

Trepper's spy network during the war encompassed the Netherlands, Belgium, France and Germany. He is credited with having known well in advance the exact date of the German attack on Russia. But Stalin refused to believe it.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — William "Chad" Mitchell, the actor-singer who organized the Chad Mitchell Trio, has had one of two narcotics charges dismissed against him and has been released on $25,000 bond here.

Mitchell was arrested Oct. 21 and charged with possession of 400 pounds of marijuana and conspiracy with intent to distribute.

U.S. Magistrate John Giles on Friday dismissed the charge of possession against the 36-year-old Mitchell, who waived his preliminary hearing.

They knew . . .

Stephen Bull, a special assistant to President Nixon, testified that Nixon knew that two crucial conversations on his subpoenaed Watergate tapes were missing at least five weeks ago and that other recordings of presidential conversations could not be found. Here, Bull, left, and White House attorney J. Fred Buzhardt, right, leave U.S. District Court after the disclosure. (UPI)

Free tuition plan is offered

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — In an effort to make higher education available to all citizens of Illinois on an equal basis, a proposal calling for free tuition at all state universities will be presented to representatives of the Illinois Board of Higher Education Monday.

The recommendation is contained in a report issued Friday by a committee of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees that has been studying the question.

William W. Allen, chairman of the five-member committee that includes the presidents of both SIU campuses at Edwardsville and Carbondale, said current state policies have made higher education a serious problem for middle-income students who don't qualify for state scholarships.

The first step toward free-tuition schools, the report said, will be the reduction of state support to private universities, which was begun at a time when state schools were overcrowded and could not meet the demands placed on them.

But now, the committee noted, the situation has changed and state institutions are not operating at full capacity.

The report said the reduction, leading to eventual termination of state subsidies, would continue "in an orderly manner to permit... Illinois to review its revenue position and seek alternative sources of income...to suport state universities on a tuition free basis."

"If the goal of the state is to spend its dollars to provide higher education for all of the people in the most efficient manner, those dollars ought to be spent first in state universities so long as the state universities offer both the quality and quantity of higher education required," the report explained.

"The committee recommendation proposes a radical departure from increasing the tuition road which Illinois has been traveling for many years," Allen said.

"However, it is time that the State of Illinois quit double-talking about higher education being a right and put its money where its mouth is and provide higher education opportunities to all its citizens."

Nomination action is requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate should act promptly on the nomination of Rep. Gerald R. Ford as vice president to quash "the increasingly whispered White House accusation" that congressional Democrats are trying to reverse the 1972 election results, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says.

Should President Nixon leave office prematurely through impeachment or resignation before Ford is confirmed, the Massachusetts Democrat noted, Democratic House Speaker Carl Albert would assume the presidency.

"The last thing this country needs in the present turmoil is a partisan debate over the motives of Congress as we deal with the current crisis," Kennedy said in a statement Friday.

"...as Democrats, we owe the country the earliest possible action on Mr. Ford's nomination — consistent, of course, with the special obligation of scrutiny we must give to the nomination of the man who may well assume the presidency," he added.

The committee confirmation hearing was in recess Friday, and Ford is expected to conclude his testimony Monday.

Meanwhile Friday, the Chicago Daily News reported that Ford's office had intervened with the General Services Administration in 1971 to obtain federal business for a furniture company in the congressman's district.

Ford's press aide, Paul Miltich, said the only help given the firm, Steelcase Inc. of Grand Rapids, Mich., was to ask the GSA to set up an appointment for Steelcase to get itself on a list of companies eligible for negotiated government furniture contracts.

The service was performed by Ford's now-deceased administrative assistant, Frank Meyer, Miltich said. Ford did not know personally of the incident but considers it a routine matter on behalf of a constituent, he added.

Does Israel have a nuclear bomb?

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — In the heat of the Arab-Israeli Yom Kippur war a French general, Georges Buis, casually told a reporter that the Israelis "certainly" possess a nuclear threat.

The opinion went unnoticed in most U.S. newspapers, as speculation on the "Israeli bomb" usually does. The prospect has always been too unpleasant for widespread popular contemplation.

Now, with a tenuous truce in partial effect, and thoughts somewhat less inflamed, it may be well to consider the general's assertion, if only as an added, ultimate, element in the argument for a more stable Middle East.

Buis' belief, of course, is not sacred. He is director of the French Institute of National Defense Studies, and it was his nation which assisted Israel in the construction of at least one nuclear reactor, but the existence of an Israeli bomb has not been confirmed.

Many experts say the bomb does not exist. The arguments are that there is no record of an Israeli test, that past Israeli leaders (notably David Ben-Gurion) have long insisted their nation would not be the first to introduce such weapons in the Mediterranean, that, actually, U.S. (and world Jewry) opinion prohibits Israel from having so much gunpowder so near an open flame.

Others, however, firmly believe the bomb dwells in Tel Aviv. The Arabs, for instance. Arguments in Egypt are that the Israelis obviously have the expertise, the technology and, with the exception of uranium, the resources. Arab sources point out that money is no limiting factor; former U.N. Secretary General U-Thant once estimated the production of a small yield atomic bomb at costing $19 million — "That's about Israel's intake," says an Arab diplomat, "for the United Jewish Appeal."

And certainly, adds Cornell professor George Quester, Israel does little to discourage speculation. A retired Israeli general last year wrote an article for the popular press which warned Egypt against new wars lest Arabs receive a nuclear blast on the Aswan Dam. Says Quester, who has closely studied the Israeli bomb possibility: "The question is one of semantics. The whole thing is fraught with ambiguities. Ben-Gurion said he wouldn't be the first to introduce nuclear weapons in the Mediterranean but that was long after the U.S. 6th fleet had already done so. They play a tricky game. And at the very least, if they don't have the bomb now they can quickly put one together."

No doubt. Alan Solomonow of the Committee for New Alternatives in the Middle East says the Israelis now have three working nuclear reactors. One, the largest, is the French-built original at Dimona. And there is possibly one in the Sinai. "Remember the shooting down of the Arab airliner last winter?" asks Solomonow. "We think the reason it was done so hastily is that the plane veered too near the Sinai reactor and the Israelis panicked."

The Dimona reactor alone, say nuclear experts in the United States, is capable of producing at least one bomb a year. Conventional wisdom has it that Israel may have an arsenal of about a dozen warheads. Many of its fighter craft could serve as delivery vehicles. If not, the Jericho missile (ramp-launched) is sophisticated enough to put a nuclear charge well into any neighboring territory.

But would Israel do it? Dr. Herbert Scoville, former CIA official, now a member of the Federation of American Scientists, believes it would be most unwise. "It would be terribly stupid of them to use it. They would only be asking for a retaliation. They would be inviting the Russians to give similar weapons to the Arabs. No, it would be stupid. But having said this I should add that the antagonists there are not always so wise."

Scoville, as others, believes the bomb would not be used while any alternative existed. But in a crunch, says an Arab observer, "if Israel's existence was threatened, naturallly they would shoot whatever they had. I doubt they have built the atomic bomb, if they have built it, for purely scientific pursuit."

If Israel did use the weapon, experts say, the Aswan would be an obvious priority; busting the dam would flood at least 200 villages and ruin much of Egypt's power supply. Or, the Israelis might select a warning target, such as President Truman was advised to do in the war with Japan; "A mushroom over the Sinai," says a Jewish physicist hero, "would go a long way to stopping any Arab march into Israel."

It would also, most agree, go an equally long way toward creating World War III. Thus the revival of interest in the question of the Israeli bomb. "It's not just the 'Israeli bomb,'" says a Washington member of SANE, "it's also the Egyptian bomb."

Egypt is right now planning a 150-megawatt reactor which could turn out 30 bombs a year. Naturally, the Arabs are not standing still in this escalation. At the very least they have poison gas, which was used in the Yemen conflict, which is at least as horrible and as unthinkable a modern weapon as the bomb itself."

This is why, adds Alan Solomonow of the Middle East study group, long-range peace in the Mediterranean must be achieved. Continuation of a situation where war breaks out every six to ten years is impossible. "Each time," says Solomonow, "the Arabs get a little stronger and more anxious. So far they haven't tried to enter Israel. But what if they do? What if they do?"

Brazil number game revived

By JANET HUSEBY
Associated Press Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Dismissed as a dead duck after the success of a new state-run soccer pools, Bazil's numbers racket, Jogo do Bicho (the animal's game) has rebounded to its golden days.

The game's good times can be attributed to such modern improvements as mobile bookies, phone-in-bets, and the lure of the latest touch—female bookies to beat pressure from police. But what really put the odds in the game's favor was the insatiable love millions of Brazilians have for this simple gambling game.

Bicho is a lottery resembling the numbers racket functioning in many U.S. cities, in which numbers are assigned to 25 animals. The player bets as much or as little as he wants on the animal of his choice. He writes his number on a slip of paper, gives half to his bookie and keeps the other half for himself.

In Rio, where police estimate over a million dollars are bet a day, the drawing is held at 2 p.m. in some hidden spot. Within 15 minutes Bicho bookies throughout the city are paying off on the same winning animal. The payoff for simple bets has been set at 20-1, Various combinations of animals increase the odds.

Twice a week — on Thursdays and Fridays — Bicho goes impartial and ties in with the Brazilian Federal lottery. The legal lottery's winning number is also proclaimed by Bicho games throughout Brazil.

Most bookies are their own banks but through contacts with other networks they can borrow to pay off large winnings. Good bookies pride themselves on their honesty — at least as far as the game is concerned.

According to most game historians, Bicho was unwittingly begun by the Brazilian Baron de Drumond in 1888. In an effort to raise money for his pet project, a zoo for Rio, the Baron began a lottery. Every day he had a different animal placed in a covered cage and the public was invited to bet on the animal's identity.

Nowadays over 2,000 bookies keep the baron's simple game going in Rio. Prowling the streets, operating underneath the very noses of the police, bookies insist the game is here to stay. It's daily, its easy and the people like it.

Quake creates many vacancies

By ALFONSO CHARDY
Associated Press Writer

QUECHOLAC, Mexico (AP) — This 400-year-old village, once a place where 3,000 people lived in traditional adobe homes, is mostly vacant lots now.

This is the result of an earthquake that virtually wiped out the village along with 2,000 buildings on Aug. 28. More than 50 villagers perished.

It was Mexico's worst earthquake on record.

Now bulldozers have cleared away the wreckage and whole blocks are empty.

Hands resting on a stick he uses for a cane, 80-year-old Luis Tenorio, a cripple, stood in the village recently looking at its bareness. His adobe home had been destroyed.

"The only thing I want now is a little place to live in," he said. "Since the earthquake I have had to live with friends whose homes were not affected. The government promised me a home, but I still don't have it."

Quecholac, about 250 miles east of Mexico City, is but one of 70 communities in a 300-square-mile area hit by the earthquake. More than 10,000 Mexicans were affected. More than 700 of them were killed and another 1,000 or more were injured.

Throughout the area, little reconstruction is evident. Government crews are still at work clearing debris and shattered homes. So far they have cleared away the remains of about 15,000 structures.

The homeless have built shanty towns in some areas.

"Some people think that the government will give them their homes for free, but what I tell them is that the government did not cause the earthquake," says architect Jose Antonio Beristain of the government crews here.

The government plan calls for reconstruction of all affected homes but these houses will be sold to the victims at prices ranging from the peso equivalent of $800 to $1,200, according to the National Rural Housing Development Institute, which coordinates the reconstruction effort.

A spokesman for the institute in Puebla City, where the reconstruction center is located, said no interest rates will be charged to the homeless.

"They will pay within periods of up to 15 years through whatever installments they can manage or with small payments and working hours," the spokesman said.

"But how the hell am I going to be able to pay if I barely have money to survive now," said Alfonso Fuentes, a baker in Rio Blanco who lost his daughter, his home and his bakery.

"I've been able to survive because my relatives have lent me money."

Most of those hardest hit by the earthquake were peasant farmers, who harvest corn, or factory workers.

The wage for a farm worker in the area runs as low as eight cents a day. A factory worker can earn $2.40 to $4 a day.

In other areas such as Ciudad Serdan, children are playing in pools of muddy water or in the dust created by the demolition, against a background of desolation with scores of torn-down homes and vacant fields where houses once stood.

Only two or three families have started rebuilding their homes. But they now live in the hastly built shacks of tin plates or plastic covers.

Centerfold 'value' explained

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A University of Nevada sociologist says Playboy magazine's Playmate of the Month is a security blanket for the American male, who feels threatened by the sexual revolution and women's liberation.

"As women change, the male fantasy of the Playmate has become stronger. Playboy has overcompensated for the new, more liberal views of women," said Dr. Rebecca Stafford, associate professor of sociology at the University of Nevada-Reno.

Dr. Stafford, 37, said she and a graduate student assistant, Celia McGinty, 24, spent more than a year tracing the evolution of the Playmate from 1958 until the present time.

They said they came away convinced that the American male's dream girl is a bunny, not a bra-burner.

"In general, women's lib, the New Left and the sexual revolution have passed by the world of the Playmate," said Dr. Stafford.

"To be sure, the Playmate has evolved in some ways. She is more socially oriented, more athletic and often independently wealthy, but she doesn't have any intellecutal or political interests."

Dr. Stafford and Miss McGinty said they began their study by devising an elaborate coding system to categorize each Playmate as to ambition, background, how she is portrayed in the photographs and what the editors said about her.

They said they then set about the task of comparing presentations, ambitions and attitudes of the Playmates through the years.

They said the finished study revealed that very few of the Playmates, from 1958 or 1973, expressed much interest in anything except traveling, acting or modeling.

"Only 26 per cent of the Playmates held clerical jobs, and none of them wanted to make that job their career," said Dr. Stafford. "The Playmates are never shown with curlers in their hair or doing anything that would remind the reader of the everyday world.

"She is sexual but not demanding. She is wholesome yet very desirable. She is never shown in a setting of great affluence because she is the girl that any man can have, but she isn't an easy mark. She's the All-American girl."

Dr. Stafford says the fact she is a woman had no bearing on the study, saying: "The facts speak for themselves. We honestly expected to find a liberated Playmate in 1973, but that simply isn't the case."

A spokesman for Playboy in Chicago said he would be interested in seeing the study, but he declined to comment on it until the editors had seen it.

Rule farmer had right to shoot dogs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A dairyman was justified in shooting four dogs which belonged to a former member of the Grateful Dead rock group when the dogs ran his heifer into a creek, authorities say.

The 2-year-old heifer suffered from shock and water on the lung, but is expected to live, sheriff's officers said.

The dogs belonged to Micky Hart, 30, a former drummer for the rock band.

The sheriff's office said state law provides that a rancher who sees dogs attacking his stock may shoot to kill.

Hart owns a 40-acre spread on the western edge of Novaho, near the property of dairyman George Grossi. Grossi said Hart had been warned about the dogs running loose.

Disabled Vietnam veteran winning fame as sculptor

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Naranjo, an American Indian, came home from Vietnam with his eyesight gone and his right hand mangled. He immediately took up sculpting.

He worked by touch and memory, remembering how his Tewah Indian mother had taught him to mold clay pots in childhood. But his subjects were more intricate — realistic animal figures, characters out of Greek mythology and dancing Indians whose costumes were painstakingly sculpted feather by feather.

"Everyone was surprised at the kind of work I was doing," he recalls. "But it gave me great pleasure, and it was coming out well enough. I could feel it in my hands; it was forming well and starting to take shape."

Now, at 29, Naranjo is gaining recognition as one of the West's most promising artists.

His work has been shown in one-man exhibitions at galleries in his native New Mexico. The Veterans Administration sponsored a show of his sculpture at the Library of Congress in Washington where he was introduced to President Nixon. Several Southwestern art magazines are featuring photos of his art.

The tall, slender veteran, his dark hair tied in long Indian braids, spoke of his work, his blindness, and the war during a visit to Los Angeles. He had come to deliver a surprise to his mother Rose who had encouraged him to work with clay again. At his suggestion, she was featured on the daytime TV show "The Girl In My Life" which honors outstanding women.

Naranjo was sent to Vietnam in December 1967 after dropping out of Highlands University at Las Vegas, N.M. "School wasn't my thing at the time. I was tired of school." On Jan. 8, 1968, his platoon encountered heavy fighting in the Mekong Delta. A grenade exploded next to Naranjo, blinding him and mangling his arm and hand. "I knew almost immediately that I couldn't see," he said.

"While I was in the hospital, my mother came to visit me. She told me, 'There is happiness and pain, and one helps you to appreciate the other,'" Naranjo recalled. "She helped me to find things, and now I have found my sculpture as a way of life as pottery is hers."

In the hospital, Naranjo asked for clay and began his work. He came back to Santa Fe, N.M., moved into his own apartment-studio and began refining his technique. He worked primarily in wax, and by 1970 was confident enough to have several pieces cast in bronze.

A Taos, N.M. gallery was the first to exhibit his work, and several of his sculptures now are in Santa Fe galleries. Encouraged, Naranjo has begun work on his first monumental sculpture, a 12-foot bronze.

"The hardest part is getting the proportions right," he said, but he asks no help or advice from anyone. "I always work alone."

He is fond of telling those who ask: "I wouldn't trade my sight for my work. I've come across my profession in a roundabout way and the loss of my sight hasn't hindered anything."

Jaworski to resign his directorships

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — New Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, a director of a company that is a defendant in a federal suit, says he will resign that directorship and all others.

Jaworski also said he will sell the 200 shares of stock he owns in Coastal States Gas Corp., which recently was a defendant in a suit filed by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

The suit against Coastal States was filed after the company admitted it could not deliver enough natural gas to fulfill its contracts.

As part of the settlement of the suit, a federal judge here Sept. 28 appointed six new members of the board of Coastal States, increasing the number of directors to 13.

Jaworski's law firm — Fulbright, Crooker & Jaworski — the nation's fourth largest, has represented Coastal States and is one of the firms defending a subsidiary of the company in a suit filed last June in U.S. District Court in New York City.

At a news conference Thursday, Jaworski said he would resign not only from the Coastal States board but also from the boards of the Bank of the Southwest in Houston; Anderson Clayton & Co., a giant food processing firm; Gulf Publishing Co. of Houston; Houston Intercontinental National Bank; and Village National Bank of Houston.

He is also on the boards of directors of two Coastal States subsidiaries — Coastal States Gas Producing Co. and Coastal States Crude Gathering Co.

"I will relinquish my post with the law firm, of course," he said Thursday. "I will resign the directorates that I hold. There actually is very little chance of conflict of interest because of the narrow scope of the matter.

"Nothing involves any of our clients or could possibly involve any of our clients," he said. "But in order to avoid any possible question being raised, there will be a resignation of each of the directorates I now hold."

The suit filed in New York was brought by the government against Texaco, Inc., and Coastal States Gas Producing Co. and is still pending.

The antitrust suit alleges that an agreement between Texaco and the Coastal subsidary gave Texaco the right to buy products from Coastal's Corpus Christi refinery, lessening competition.

The suit also attacks a provision of the agreement allowing Texaco to buy the refinery.

Car uses two power systems

MIDDLEBURY, Conn. (AP) — E. Robert Horwinski's compact car makes the usual sounds of a piston engine vehicle at times; at other times it is virtually noiseless.

He has designed the car to run on noiseless battery power but shift automatically to gasoline power when the batteries run down.

Horwinski, former chief of European operations for General Dynamics Corp., says he conceived the hybrid car as an answer to the range limitations of a battery-powered vehicles.

Horwinski of Cheshire, Conn., displayed the vehicle during a two-day symposium at the Uniroyal research center here.

"You're stopped at a traffic light in the city. Nothing is running. You push down and you drive away on electricity," he told spectators Friday.

"Then you get out on the road; and as soon as the batteries are half discharged, the gasoline engine starts automatically."

Horwinski said he has designed the car so that any unneeded power developed by the engine is converted to electricity and stored in the batteries. The batteries also can be recharged from an electrical outlet.

Horwinski said another device he designed can convert braking power on downhill runs to electrical power for the batteries. He claims that up to 85 per cent of the power used to go up hill can be recovered on the downgrade.

He said low-speed tests so far have been favorable, and he expects the same for top-speed operation, which he hopes to be about 90 miles per hour.

The maximum speed and range of the car under electrical power is 35 m.p.h. for one hour.

Impeachment report to be ready in '74

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee's report on the possible impeachment of President Nixon will be ready in March, House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. says.

The Massachusetts Democrat also says the committee will deliver legislation on the creation of a special Watergate prosecutor within two weeks.

Here to dedicate the Lyndon B. Johnson Senior Citizens Apartments, O'Neill told newsmen on Friday that he believed Nixon would never serve out his term as president.

"I believe it would be in the best interest of the nation.... It would be an excellent thing ... if the President resigned," he said.

"How long can the man go with his credibility being what it is?"

Case is moved on to higher court here

Seven persons who were arrested Aug. 26 in connection with a fight at the Missouri State Fairgrounds, Friday had their cases moved from Pettis County Magistrate Court to Circuit Court on a change of venue.

The seven, all charged with common assault, are: Monte Kaiser, 23, Kansas City; Charles B. Miller, 23, Kansas City; Robert M. Straub, 23, East St. Louis, Ill.; Ronald Gene Glaspey, 28, Kansas City; George C. Mercer, 26, East St. Louis; John Bill Ingold, 22, Kansas City; and Steven E. Peterson, 23, Kansas City, Kan.

Three of the seven also are charged with felonies: Mercer and Peterson are charged with carrying a concealed weapon, and Ingold is charged with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon. None of the three has had his preliminary hearing.

Sex perversion charges are filed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 29-year-old son of actress Loretta Young has been ordered to appear in Superior Court Nov. 21 to have a date set for his trial on charges of sex perversion, lewd conduct and other moral offenses.

Christopher Paul Lewis was among 14 men indicted by the Los Angeles County Grand Jury on Oct. 25 in a case involving alleged pornographic pictures of young boys in homosexual activities.

The others are to appear between Nov. 20 and 23 for setting of trial dates.

Also indicted was William Byars, 37, identified as an heir to the Humble Oil fortune. He is believed to be making a movie in Europe. Among other defendants are a South Bay scoutmaster and a recently retired parochial school teacher.

Tooth not a source of harm to family

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — A Superior Court Judge has ruled that a tooth they found in their ice cream did not cause physical harm to members of a Davis Lake family.

Jack Saunders had sued Arden Farms, Inc., for $15,000, alleging his family discovered a human tooth packed inside a gallon of ice cream.

Judge Philip Faris held Thursday the sight of the tooth could be considered unappetizing but he ruled the tooth did not result in any physical harm.

Military take-over theory is forwarded

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — A California congressman says he thinks President Nixon might attempt a military takeover of the government rather than relinquish his office voluntarily.

"As the noose of justice tightens around Nixon, he is growing more desperate," Rep. Fortney H. Stark, D-Calif., said Friday. He said such an attempt would fail because most military officers would refuse to go along with it.

Decline in America seen as possibility

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Former U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren has warned that public indifference or despair about corruption in political office could precipitate a decline of America.

"The national mood is leaning toward a cynicism that interprets these derelictions as being the norm in public life and that certain people in present circumstances just happen to be caught," the 82-year-old former California governor said Friday.

"If the people ever conclude that it makes no difference who is elected or appointed to public office and, either through indifference or despair, fail to respond fully to their responsibilities of American citizenship, our nation will be on a decline suggestive of that of other free nations through the ages."

Eagleton takes new shots at Nixon action

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., says if President Nixon remains in office the next three years it will be a test "to see if 200 million people can lead without a leader."

The senator said he could not predict whether Nixon will be impeached, resigned or continue in office "knowing he has lost the confidence of the people."

He made the remarks before about 1,000 persons at a fund-raising dinner here Friday night for his 1974 re-election campaign.

Eagleton said his mail was running 20-1 in favor of impeachment and the letters "came from the troubled hearts of many people."

He recounted the nation's times of trial and how past presidents have led the people. He said Dwight Eisenhower was not a great political thinker, but "the people believed in him and trusted Ike. This would be the first time we haven't had someone we can look up to and say he will pull us through ... we don't have a giant at the helm."

Honor roll is presented by high school

(Democrat-Capital Service)

OTTERVILLE — The Otterville High School's list of first quarter honor roll students was released this week, with two seniors topping the column. Named were:

Seniors — Connie Allee and Janet Dick; juniors — Rhonda Seifer, Elaine Ravenscraft, Donna Phillips, Sandra Hassler, Joy Gronstedt and Becky Gardner; sophomores — Debbie Streeter, Ellen Meyer, Elaine Gerke, Russell Eckerle and Tammy Cooper; freshmen — Kim Burnett, Linda Conrad, Donna Cooney, Carol Twenter and Barbara Williams.

Eighth grade — Pat Cooney, Annette Helmig, Robert Nevels and Elizabeth Wallenburn; seventh grade — Doug Dorson, Vernon Dougan, Berry Dunham, Roger Eckerle and Tammy McFail.

Students must earn an "A" grade in one solid subject and B's in all other solid subjects in order to qualify.

Pure water crisis seen as possible

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A nationwide shortage of chlorine has caused city officials here to express some concern that St. Louis may face a pure water crisis.

None of the 17 firms sought to supply chlorine submitted bids for the contract that would start Jan. 1 when a contract with Vulcan Materials of Wichita, Kan., expires, according to Joseph P. Sestric, city supply commissioner.

And Roger Schilling of Vulcan said Friday he doubted that his firm's contract could be extended while the city searches for a new supplier.

"We have no chlorine, and I don't know who does at this point," Schilling said, explaining that the shortage has been caused by increased municipal and industrial demand for the chemical.

U.S. Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., is currently drafting legislation requiring suppliers of chlorine to give municipalities priority for the chemical. Sestric said he would ask the St. Louis congressional delegation to support efforts to establish priorities or a mandatory allocation system.

Down with platforms

Podiatrists are almost unanimous in decrying platform shoes, which they see as the worst thing to happen to feet since the Chinese gave up binding. If you must indulge in fads, find a healthier one.

Watergate gives political pranks a bad name

Campaign tripper

Richard Tuck, master political prankster of the 1960s, says politics hasn't been fun recently, especially in the Watergate age. In days gone by, the 50-year-old gremlin, Nixon's nemesis, tripped up campaign after campaign. He claims he never did anything illegal, malicious, unfunny, unrelated to an important issue, surreptitious or anonymous — and he finds dirty tricks a much more serious business now. So, he hasn't been doing much lately. But when he's asked which prank was his favorite, he answers: "My next one."

(AP)

By RICHARD E. MEYER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It was like watching a clown cry.

The prankster who slipped fortune cookies into a Richard Nixon campaign suggesting he be elected mayor of Whittier; whose comely spy distributed a newsletter on Barry Goldwater's campaign train assuring everyone the drinking water wasn't fluoridated, and who suggested sending a Brink's truck to a political barbecue at John Connally's ranch and parking a Mexican laundry truck behind it was saying politics isn't fun anymore.

"Watergate," muttered Dick Tuck.

"It would appear that practical jokes, hilarity, or whatever you want to call it — well, these guys have just simply given it a bad name . . ."

Over scrambled eggs recently at the Barbizon Plaza Hotel where he was waiting to tape a television appearance, Tuck, greying, curly-haired master political trickster of the 1960s, sounded dismayed.

The name Dick Tuck, he noted dismally, seemed to be cropping up more and more often at the Sam Ervin show in Washington — where the Senate Watergate Committee has been investigating the political dirty tricks of 1972.

First had been Gordon Strachan, aide to the President's former chief of staff, who had told the committee even before its August recess that the Republicans had talked during the campaign about "developing a Dick Tuck capability . . ."

"Sounds like a new missile," Tuck allowed, well into half a grapefruit. "I thought they might have given the contract to Lockheed, had five cost overruns — and maybe the damn thing still hadn't gotten off the ground."

Second had been H.R. Haldeman, the former White House chief of staff, who confirmed that he had agreed to "generating for our side the same kind of activity that was so ably carried out over the years for Democratic candidates, and in 1972 for McGovern, by Dick Tuck, a man who has been widely praised . . ."

Notice he said "ably," Tuck chuckled. But then, more thoughtfully: "You know, he literally was fingering me . . ."

Third was presidential speechwriter Patrick J. Buchanan, who said Tuck had trotted out a troop of supposed welfare mothers at Miami Beach in 1968 to demonstrate against Nixon.

"They were all black," Buchanan recalled. "They were all pregnant. And they were all carrying signs saying, "Nixon's the one.' "

Not so, said Dick Tuck. "It never happened."

And now came Donald R. Segretti, apologizing profusely for faking letters in the Florida primary that accused Sens. Henry Jackson and Hubert Humphrey of sexual misconduct.

"That," said Tuck, "is what I am talking about."

Politics never seemed like it should be played that way, scolded Richard Gregory Tuck, pushing 50 now, summering these days in Aspen, Colo., and 15 pounds lighter than the round-faced gremlin who tripped up campaign after campaign in days gone by.

"What I did wasn't illegal. Secondly, it wasn't ever malicious. I've always tried to lighten things, to touch them with humor — and that's not always easy. And thirdly, I tried, you know, in most cases, to dramatize a serious or an important issue. Finally, what I did wasn't surreptitious or anonymous. Some have said that I not only claimed credit, I demand it."

Dick Tuck drank his coffee.

He said he hadn't really donned a railroad cap and waved vice presidential candidate Richard Nixon's train out of Tulare, Calif., while the candidate was still speaking. That story, he insisted, was apocryphal — the train had pulled out in midspeech, but Dick Tuck hadn't been responsible.

"It might be a federal offense to move a train," Tuck said. "I wasn't even there . . ."

But Dick Tuck was in Chinatown at Los Angeles the day gubernatorial candidate Richard Nixon arrived in 1962 for a street corner rally. By then he and Tuck knew each other well.

"Nixon is a great baseball fan," Tuck chuckled, remembering. "He came over and we started discussing baseball. There seem to have been these children around handing out fortune cookies. And the women were coming up and shaking hands with him and so forth. And finally this woman came up with a fortune cookie and said, 'This says "Richard Nixon for mayor of Whittier; Pat Brown for governor." What's that mean?'

"And he looked at me and said, 'Uh, oh, this is going to be one of those days . . .' "

Later, however, at the Los Angeles Press Club, Tuck said, candidate Nixon regained "a sparkle of humor . . .

"Somebody asked, 'Have you seen Dick Tuck lately?'

"He smiled and said, 'Well, the last time I saw Tuck he was wearing a Nixonette costume.'

"He didn't know I was there. So I got the microphone and said I was kind of shocked that he would say such a thing. But I said, 'My lips are forever sealed, and I'll never tell anybody how he discovered me in that Nixonette dress.' "

Nixon sat out 1964. So Tuck turned his attention to the Goldwater-Lyndon Johnson campaign, which he said ranked as a spectator sport with watching paint dry and grass grow.

To liven things up, he said, he published "The Whistlestop" and had it delivered during the night under every compartment door on Goldwater's campaign train.

" 'In order to end confusion over the various time zones we are traveling through,' the first issue announced helpfully, 'Sen. Goldwater has proclaimed that we will keep our watches on Washington time — George Washington, that is.' It also cautioned against walking off the edge of the earth. And it reassured all that the water aboard the train wasn't fluoridated."

Campaign 1972, however, was a disappointment.

Sen. George McGovern rejected Tuck's suggestion to hire the two trucks for Connally's ranch. "It was too esoteric for George."

And then there was Watergate.

Tuck encountered former presidential chief of staff Haldeman not long ago in the Dirksen Senate Office Building in Washington. "Cameramen were there, and I said, 'What's going on?'

"They told me Haldeman was down the hall appearing befoe the staff of the Watergate Committee. Sen. John Tunney's office was down there, so I went up to a cop who had the hall blocked off and I said, 'I'm the director of the Bakersfield band, and I've got to see Sen. Tunney about the parade.'

"And he said, 'Sure, okay.'

"So I went down the hall and was having a cup of coffee with Tunney's press secretary when a door opened across the hall and Haldeman came out. So I stepped out into the hall. And Haldeman looked at me and smiled. We've known each other for 20 years. And so he said to me: 'Tuck, you started all this.'

"Of course, I thought he was joking. I didn't know, as it later turned out, that he was quite serious.

" 'But Bob,' I said, 'you guys ran it into the ground.'

"Politics used to be a wonderful sport. But now, for me personally — I was very close to Robert Kennedy. And I was with him for 85 days including the moment he was shot in the kitchen . . . And then what's his name, Bremmer — when one s.o.b. with a gun can, you know, just change the whole rules of the game, I mean, it really took a lot of the sport, the joy, the hilarity out of it for me . . .

"So I haven't been doing much lately . . ."

Has Dick Tuck turned serious? Could it be that Richard Nixon won't have Dick Tuck to kick around anymore?

Perhaps, but then the last time Tuck turned serious was when he ran for the California State Senate in 1966.

His seriousness lasted only until he lost.

Whereupon he conceded: "Well, the people have spoke, the bastards."

And now, over a second cup of coffee, Tuck observed that "when people ask me which prank was my favorite, I tell them: 'My next one.' "

Add new building at center

The State Fair Shopping Center will be several businesses larger within a few weeks as work on a 12,500 square foot expansion program draws to a close.

A new building is being built on the west side of the shopping center that will, upon completion, house as many as 10 new businesses.

Construction of the 250-by-50-foot building was started on April 1 and is contracted to K.K. Eichholz, 2300 West First Street Terrace. The building is scheduled for completion within the next 30 days, according to Morris Brown, of Web & Sons Real Estate, owners of the building.

Brown told The Democrat-Capital that half of the $120,000 building is already leased to four businesses and three of them, Shoe Gallery, Space Age Fitness Center and an MFA insurance office, have already opened. The fourth, the office of Dr. William R. McCaskill, an optometrist, is scheduled to open in about two weeks. The other half of the building is still to be leased.

The four new businesses bring the total number of concerns in the shopping center to 23 and the total amount of available space is now 170,000 square feet, Brown said.

Agriculture is Canada's prime industry, although it employs less than 8 per cent of its labor force.

Attractive girl doesn't like dating

Dear Ann Landers: My problem might not sound important to you but it is so important to me that I've considered seeing a psychiatrist.

I am a girl, 17, attractive and a good student. I like people and people like me. But I don't have the slightest desire to date. Many fellows have asked me out and I've manufactured stupid excuses, some so transparent and clumsy that I later tried to make it up to them. I feel quilty if I hurt someone's feelings.

I don't know why I don't want to date. All my girlfriends do but I have no interest in it. Am I abnormal? If you suspect that I might be a lesbian, let me assure you I'm not. I feel no attraction to either girls OR boys.

Do you believe I should accept a few dates anyway? If you say go, I'll go. — Alexandria

Dear A.: You remind me of the fellow who didn't like peaches. "Did you get sick from a peach once?" asked a friend. "No," was the reply. "I've never eaten one." The natural question followed, "Then how do you know you don't like them?"

My advice is to accept a few dates, even though you aren't excited about the idea. If after six months of dating you still have no interest in members of the opposite sex, get some counseling.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife's sister is a widow. She makes her home with us. The woman was never a bundle of charm, but we always got along O.K. — until recently.

Ever since the doctor told her she has diabetes she has been hell on wheels. She complains, feels sorry for herself, calls her friends and cries on the phone by the hour, and she has developed a terrible temper. The woman is nervous and depressed, afraid of everything, and behaves as if she has had a mental breakdown. Is it possible that this personality change is related to her diabetes? — J. And T. In Peoria

Dear J. and T.: Severe diabetes can produce personality changes, especially if the person is excessively apprehensive and unwilling to make the necessary adjustment.

Talk to your sister-in-law's doctor and ask him to explain this to you. It might help if he explained it to HER, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old girl with a 40-year-old problem. My mother. She picks to pieces every guy who walks into this house. This one is too short and that one is too fat, or his hair is too long, or his mother is a tramp, or his pants are too tight in front.

Three times last month she arranged dates for me with the sons of business friends of Dad's and they were all so creepy I nearly threw up.

What burns me is that Mom doesn't even ask if I have plans for a certain evening. She goes right ahead and arranges things and then I have to go even if it means canceling something I really want to do.

I trust your judgment, Ann. Am I an ungrateful brat or a dumb kid? What are my rights? Please give me the word. — Human Sacrifice

Dear Human: An overly ambitious mother like yours can ruin the chances of some very nice guys by trying to cram them down a daughter's throat. Your mother is being unfair to you and to the young men she fixes you up with. You hate them before they show up. Tell Mom Ann says to cool it.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Sedalia, Missouri, Sunday, Nov. 4, 1973—Section B

Thumbs down on voting machines

The prospect of setting up an electronic voting system in Pettis County met with opposition from 75 per cent of the readers who responded to last Sunday's Democrat-Capital Survey.

The question asked: "The Pettis County clerk wants a $40,000 electronic voting system in the county to speed up ballot tabulation procedures and insure greater accuracy. Do you favor such an expenditure?"

Of the "yes" votes received, only one was accompanied by comment. It said: "Definitely. A change is long past due. I would like a secret vote so my neighbor could not tell me how I voted and how my husband voted." The note placed special emphasis on the word "secret."

Edwin L. Rehmer, Route 2, Cole Camp, suggested that the county "spend the money on roads. If they don't we will not be able to get to the polls to vote..."

Another reader said the cost was "too much for the number of people that vote." And one unidentified reader said, "I am not for spending $40,000 on a voting machine when you have county employes living on low wages and benefits, especially a fire fighter who is only making $396 a month. I think the fire fighters should be considered first in giving them a raise and more benefits."

One letter said, "The county clerk requesting voting machines is ridiculous. There are too many more important things needed by the county. The next thing the clerk will want will be wall-to-wall carpeting in the voting booths."

A rural resident who asked not to be identified wrote, "My heart bleeds for our over-worked assessor and county clerk. The assessor didn't assess, so we hire a firm to do his work, and now the county clerk says it takes until 6 a.m. to count the votes.

"I don't agree with her because half of the judges and clerks are counting the votes almost as soon as they are voted, so why they need to be counting at 6 a.m. the following day is a mystery to me. If the job is too much for these women, let them get out and someone who is not afraid to work will take over. If the county has so much money, why not repair the roads?"

DEMOCRAT- CAPITAL SURVEY

QUESTION — With the controversy over presidential tapes and other Watergate-related problems continuing to dominate the headlines, there is growing discussion that President Nixon should be impeached. Do you agree with this view?

Membership effort Farm Bureau's topic

At its regular meeting Friday, the Pettis County Farm Bureau board discussed plans for a state-wide membership campaign this month.

Lloyd Smith, the board's new field man, told board members that the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation has set the state-wide goal at 4,000 new members. Each county's goal is a 10 per cent new member gain and an award will be given to the county president whose dealer acquires the most new members, it was reported.

Smith told the board that the campaign theme is "Over the Rainbow" and that November was proclaimed Farm Bureau Month by Gov. Christopher Bond.

He added that a positive attitude should be used in approaching potential members. Smith also suggested that Pettis County bureau set aside several days to be devoted specifically to the membership drive. The board chose Paul Siegel as Pettis County's membership chairman.

It was reported that Pettis County has collected $85 in private donations and county funds toward a Missouri Farm Bureau Soybean Research Project. Siegel noted that donations, which are being sought throughout the state, have reached only $1,500 and that $4,500 is needed for the project.

Board member John Sneed was assigned to secure information for a survey of Pettis County farm thefts in 1973. This survey is sponsored by the Missouri Farm Bureau to find out if there have been enough thefts to merit approval of a state-wide compulsory branding law.

Jerry Conaway, board president, said a brand often is "the only means of proving ownership of an animal" and that there have been "quite a few thefts in Pettis County."

In other business, the board selected its voting representatives to the Missouri Farm Bureau Convention Dec. 10-11 in Jefferson City. They are Paul Siegel, Jerry Conaway, Mrs. Jack Alfrey and Robert Brauer. Alternate representatives are Jack Alfrey and Mrs. Cloyce Wilson.

Position on roads explained

The Pettis County Court Friday adopted a resolution stating the court's position concerning maintenance and construction of county roads.

Western District Judge John Bluhm Jr. said the court has in recent years adopted the positions of the resolution, but decided Friday to put them in writing.

The resolution says "the Pettis County Court will fully maintain all roads which have been active in the last five years.

"...The county court will provide manpower and equipment for the re-establishment of a county road inactive or abandoned for the past five years provided the person or persons interested in re-establishment of the road provide 50 feet of right-of-way and all materials. ...The county court will establish new roads only on petition in proper form."

The resolution was signed by all three judges.

Bluhm said the court would upgrade roads which have been officially termed as "closed" only after a petition is presented to the court.

He said roads which haven't been officially declared as "closed" but which are presently abandoned fall into another part of the resolution.

Bluhm said the action was taken by the court, in part, due to the number of requests recently by persons wishing the county to upgrade or construct a road adjacent to their property.

Big donation is given to Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Toyota Motor Co. of Japan has given $1 million to Harvard University to help establish a Japan Institute.

Harvard quoted Toyota President Eli Toyoda Thursday as saying Tuesday he hoped the grant would help promote mutual understanding between Japan and the United States.

Harvard earlier received $1 million from the Japanese government and $1 million from Nissan Motor Co. toward establishment of the institute, and $1 million from Mitsubishi industries to create a chair of Japanese legal studies at Harvard Law School.

EAT AT THE BRADFORD HOUSE RESTAURANT

Broadway Presbyterian is setting

Broadway Presbyterian Church was the setting for the marriage vows Oct. 20 of Miss Cindy Lee Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Zeb Thomas, LaMonte, and Reuben H. Blankenship, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben H. Blankenship Jr., Green Ridge.

The Rev. Jim Williams performed the early evening ceremony before an arrangement of yellow and white mums flanked by seven branched candelabra entwined with fern and yellow ribbon and large emerald palms. Yellow satin bows marked the family pews and a white carpet centered the aisle. Mrs. Otis Thomas, aunt of the bride, provided organ accompaniment for Mike Curtis, vocalist.

MRS. REUBEN H. BLANKENSHIP
Miss Cindy Lee Thomas

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor length A-line silhouette polyester organza gown lined in acetate and trimmed with floral appliques at collar, bodice and on bishop sleeves. Her detachable chapel train and Juliet headpiece with elbow length veil were accented with matching appliques. The bride's bouquet was of Victorian style with miniature white carnations, baby's breath, yellow garnett roses and stephanotis.

Maid of honor Miss Leslie Harvey wore a dress of yellow crepe with white lace trim around the waist, bishop sleeves and stand up collar. She carried a long stemmed yellow rose. Bridesmaid Miss Alice Pollard was dressed identically. Miss Amy Shull, cousin of the bride, was dressed similarly to the other attendants, but with a headpiece of a cluster of yellow sweetheart roses. She carried a princess basket of yellow rose petals. Candlelighters Miss Denise Hampton and Miss Jeanie Turner were also dressed like the maid of honor and wore corsages of yellow sweetheart roses and miniature white carnations.

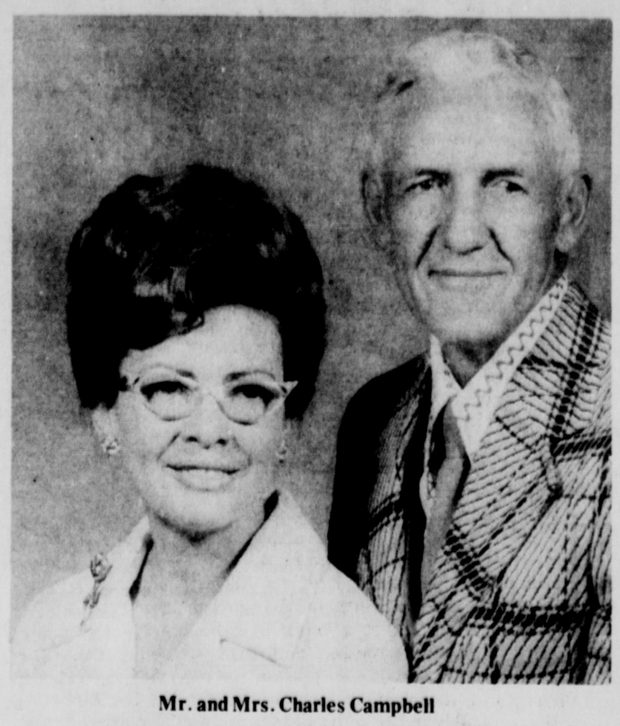
Best man was John Miller Jr., and groomsman was Steven Aker. Serving as ushers were Bill Smith, Clifford Binder, John Chaplin, cousin of the bride, and Jerry Stewart.

A reception followed the ceremony at the church where the bride's table was covered with a floor length white lace cloth over yellow satin and centered with a tiered Lady Windmeyer cake encircled with a garland of smilax and yellow satin bows. Silver candelabra with epergnes of yellow sweetheart roses, white miniature carnations and baby's breath on either side completed the setting.

Servers were Mrs. Ralph Thomas, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Lillian Cagel, Mrs. Terry Stewart, Miss Joan Harvey, Miss Connie Ray and Miss Dianna Tucker, who also assisted with gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Scott Purchase, sister and brother-in-law of the groom, attended the guestbook.

After a honeymoon in an undisclosed location, the couple will reside at 152 Waterbury Ridge. The groom is employed with Rival Manufacturing Co. and the bride at Town and Country Shoe Factory.

A rehersal dinner was held Oct. 19 at Flat Creek Inn by the groom's parents.



Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell

Silver anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell, LaMonte, will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary Nov. 7. They are both employees of the Whiteman AFB Hospital, he as a linen control officer, and she as a medical service account officer. Mr. Campbell is a retired master sergeant. They are the parents of one son, Sgt. Kit Lee Campbell, stationed in the U.S. Air Force at Kelly Field, Texas, with his wife, Phyllis Ann.

School history is program

The history of Striped College School will be the program of the Striped College PTA meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday. The public is invited.

The history, written by Asbury Goodnight, E. C. Stevens and C. F. Scotten, will be delivered by Jerry Parker.

Pictures and mementos of former teachers and students will be displayed.

When you are making pickles and want to keep them light in color, use distilled white vinegar.

When soft bread crumbs are made from slices of fresh white bread, the crusts should be removed from the bread before crumbing.

Cornmeal, added to flour for coating meat, poultry or fish before frying, gives a crunchy texture.

A small amount of sugar is usually added to non-sweet yeast breads because the sugar hastens the working of the yeast.

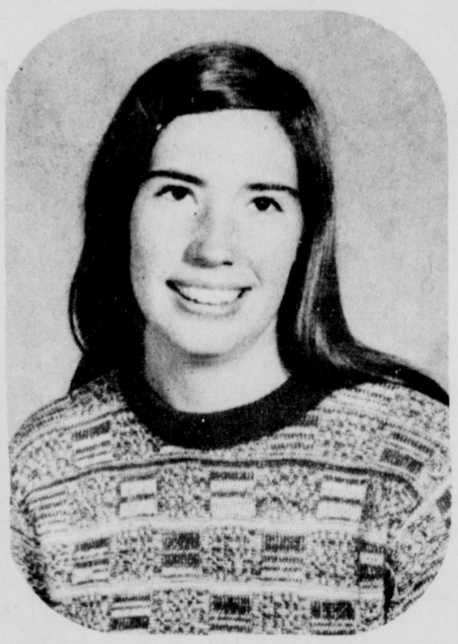
Miss Alpha Marie Harris



Miss Yvonne Banister

Engagements are told

Mrs. Ada Harris, 1309 East Boonville, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Alpha Marie Harris, to Charles Henry Shafer Jr., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Shafer Sr.

Miss Harris is a 1968 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and is employed at Rival Manufacturing Co. Her fiance is employed at Parkhurst Plant No. 2.

Sacred Heart Catholic Church will be the scene of the Nov. 17 wedding.

KANSAS CITY — Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Smith, Kansas City, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Yvonne Banister, to David Salmon, Lenexa, Kan., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Salmon, 1401 East Ninth, Sedalia.

The bride-to-be is a 1973 graduate of Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg, and teaches at Belton, Mo. Her fiance also graduated from CMSU and is employed with Western Air Map, Lenexa, Kan.

The wedding date is Nov. 24 at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church here.

Outdoors motivate problem children

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — Like thousands of kids, Terry and Fawn went to camp this summer. They went on hikes, slept in tents, swam in a lake and cooked hot dogs over an open fire.

But their summer camp was far more than just fun. It was a tiny step on the road back to the mental health they lost somewhere along the way in their young lives.

"We use the outdoors as a motivating factor," said Heide Miller, director of Camp Greenbrier, where two dozen children with learning problems — some mentally retarded — spend a month each summer.

Terry is 7 years old, slight of build and red haired. He's had trouble coordinating his body, spills almost everything he handles. His attitude toward life turned negative and he developed a violent temper.

Fawn is 10. A brutal childhood left her withdrawn, afraid of the world and the people in it, mentally several years behind her age and irritable to those around her.

"To be honest, we can't accomplish a great deal in just four weeks, but it is a start in the right direction," Ron Ward, a staff member at the camp, said.

"Just last night, Fawn volunteered to one of the counselors that she had been in a fight. It was the first time she acknowledged that she recognized a problem in herself and that's progress," Ward said.

The camp is operated by the Dale H. Farabee school of Lexington as a part of the state's mental health program, and is meant to serve as a model for others in the future.

Binder, Koenigsfeld are married

Miss Patricia Sarah Binder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quintin Binder, Green Ridge, became the bride of Mark Charles Koenigsfeld, son of Mrs. Mary Belle Koenigsfeld and the late Adolph Koenigsfeld, Bonnots Mill, Mo., Oct. 27 at Sacred Heart Church.

MRS. MARK CHARLES KOENIGSFELD
Miss Patricia Sarah Binder

The Rev. Joseph Montalbano, Leesville, La., officiated at the wedding mass. Fred Binder and Jim Binder, brothers of the bride, were servers. Lector was John Koenigsfeld, brother of the groom. Miss Joyce Cook was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length white satin peau gown overlaid with white organza. Lace trimmed the satin wedding band collar and wide satin cuffs of a full double organza sleeves. The skirt was enhanced with a wide lace-edged ruffle. The dress was made by the bride. Her tiered veil of bridal illusion was attached to a flower covered head piece. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations.

Matron of honor Mrs. Gerry Tavener, sister of the bride, wore a floor length navy blue crepe dress with a low scooped neckline edged with white lace and long full sleeves. The skirt had a wide ruffle at the bottom. Attendants Miss Judith Keseman, Mrs. David Baumann, and Miss Martha Pardun wore dresses identical to the matron of honor. All carried single stems of white baby mums.

Best man was Robert Kremer. Allan Rohrback, Gale Schaefer and Kurt Austermann were groomsmen. All wore burgundy crushed velvet jackets. Clifford Binder, brother of the bride, and John Troesser, brother-in-law of the groom, were ushers.

Miss Karen Koenigsfeld and Miss Lisa Troesser, nieces of the groom, carried a basket containing the bouquet which the bride and groom placed in front of the Blessed Virgin Mary. They wore navy dotted swiss dresses with white eyelet pinafores.

A buffet luncheon, catered by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Halter, followed the ceremony. Mrs. Thomas Mahin and Mrs. Herbert Batrouny Jr., aunt of the bride, served the tiered wedding fruitcake topped with fresh flowers and white doves. Mrs. Ellen Vollers attended the guest book and Mrs. Jack Hunt and Mrs. Donald Thompson, cousins of the bride, assisted with gifts.

For traveling on a honeymoon to New Orleans, the bride wore a lavender mohair sweater dress with her mother's corsage.

The couple will reside in Anacoco, La., where the groom is serving in the U.S. Army.

MRS. CHARLES DAVID BROSCH
Miss Sharon Jo Kreisler

Kreisler, Brosch repeat nuptials

Arrangements of yellow gladioli and bronze mums flanked with nine branched candelbra entwined with woodwardia and bows of bronze talisman decorated the altar of Trinity Lutheran Church Oct. 27 for the marriage ceremony of Miss Sharon Jo Kreisler and Charles David Brosch.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eldon L. Kreisler, 601 North Quincy, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brosch, 4100 South Kentucky.

The Rev. Gregory Hibbard officiated at the evening ceremony, while Mrs. Paulette Schwartz provided organ music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white poly sheer. Cluny lace formed the high neckline and V bib effect of the bodice, deeply edging an overlaying apron on the slightly gathered skirt. A wide cuff trimmed in a ruffle of Cluny lace secured the wrist closing of the bishop sleeves and Juliet cap of chiffon secured her silk mantilla, which was edged in the same lace. The bride carried a nosegay of yellow starburst pom poms and white ball pom poms, centered with a cluster of yellow roses.

Maid of honor Miss Diana Scott wore a floor length dress of gold crepe, featuring an empire waist with a full gored skirt. The mandarin collar was edged with a lace ruffle at the wrist. She wore a gold velvet ribbon in her hair and carried a nosegay of yellow and bronze pompons. Attendants Mrs. Tim Curry and Miss Karen Silvey wore dresses styled identically to Miss Scott's, of yellow crepe, wore a yellow velvet ribbon in their hair and carried nosegays of yellow and bronze pompons.

Twin neice and nephew of the bride served as flower girl and ringbearer. Miss Charla Michelle Kreisler wore a floor lenth dress of white crepe styled with a square neckline and yoke edged in a ruffle of yellow lace. She wore a head piece of yellow and bronze pom poms and carried a basket filled with yellow and bronze flower petals trimmed with a yellow bow. Chad Michael Kreisler carried a white satin pillow trimmed with white lace.

Bob Freund was best man and groomsmen were Fred Miesner and Marty McPherson, while performing ushering duties were Larry Kreisler, brother of the bride, Mike Sands, nephew of the bride, and candlelighters were Terry Craig and Doug Craig, nephews of the bride.

A reception followed in the Church Fellowship Hall. The three tiered wedding cake centered the table, flanked by silver candelabra holding epergne arrangements of yellow and bronze starburst pom poms. Mrs. Jerome Murray, aunt of the bride, Miss Becki McEwen, Miss Debbie Sprinkle and Miss Debbie Rosier were servers. Mrs. Fred Miesner attended the guestbook and Miss Debbie Rosier assisted with gifts.

For traveling the bride wore a burgundy dress of double knit featuring a bodice trimmed in a ruffle edged with floral braid and pleats hanging from the empire waist, tied in the back. Her short puffy sleeves ended in a ruffle. She wore a wrist corsage of pink sweetheart roses and white pom poms.

The couple will be at home at Route 4. The groom is employed with Sedalia Water Department and the bride with Consumer's Market.

Cancer surgery victims counseled

By SALLIE BATSON

ATLANTA (AP) — Three Atlanta housewives —, Martha Knighton, Bobbie Brewer and Betty Regalis — are almost irreverent in their reverence for life.

This threesome is an American Cancer Society rehabilitation team that brings life to an often deadly subject — cancer.

Martha, a vibrant redhead, is a mastectomy patient, while Bobbie is an ostomy patient. Betty is a laryngectomy patient who isn't the least shy about talking.

Each is married; each has children. As a team, the three have traveled throughout Georgia in the past year and a half, telling their stories to anyone who'll listen.

At first, they were nicknamed "The Hole Gang," but they are now dubbed The Tomy Trio, evolved from the names of their cancer surgeries.

The team is brainchild of Shirley Preston of the American Cancer Society staff in Atlanta. "She got us together to speak about the three major rehabilitation programs of the cancer society," Bobbie explains, "and we've been together ever since."

All volunteers, the team members present their program and visit cancer patients in the hospital.

"It often helps a patient to see someone who's been through the same surgery as you and who's making a go of it," Martha says.

Martha discovered a lump on her right breast while fitting herself into an uplift bra. The youngest of her six children — (one of them is adopted, but the rest are hers) was 2 at the time and she wondered when the swelling in her milk glands would go away. This prompted a trip to the doctor and a radical mastectomy 10 years ago this past December — "the 21st, my birthday, to be exact."

Martha considers her surgery a real birthday present.

Now active in the Reach to Recovery program for mastectomees like herself, Martha recalls that she left the hospital with her husband's sweat sock stuffed into her bra. "There were no prostheses like we have today," she explains, adding that there were no volunteers to offer encouragement either. "'My doctor just said, 'You can make it kid...you can handle it,' and he told me to ask some of the nurses where I could get fitted with some kind of falsies."

In addition to her work with the cancer society, and Reach To Recovery, Martha has returned to her profession, modeling, since her surgery. "So many women are concerned about clothes, but I can wear anything. Except the braless look."

Martha is also a substitute teacher and past president of a parent-teacher association. She adds that seven men underwent mastectomy surgery in Georgia during 1972, a reminder that breast cancer is not restricted to women.

Like Martha, Bobbie recalls that the early days after her surgery were cloaked in misinformation and lack of encouragement. She was hospitalized for four months before the actual surgery was performed, removing a segment of her large intestine and rectum, creating an opening in her side to permit the evacuation of body wastes into a disposable sack.

"My surgeon — my dear, dear surgeon — said that he would rather see his ostomy patients die or move away," she says.

Bobbie did neither. Instead she returned to her job as a cost accountant and became active in the Georgia Ostomy Association. She is now a regional representative for the United Ostomy Association, which works to organize regional groups to aid and inform people about ostomy rehabilitation.

Additionally, she is now a certified enterostomal therapist. "This is a paramedical field that helps with physical rehabilitation of the ostomy patient," Bobbie explains. She counsels ostomies in various states of personal rehabilitation.

An avid golfer who enjoys painting and "loves to win awards," Betty is a garden clubber and ACS volunteer. "I never did things like this before my surgery," she says. "I was a quiet person. My laryngectomy was the best thing that ever happened to me."

Her voice is raspy, and if you watch, you can see that she gulps air to be able to speak. "I don't know how I do it, but I can talk. I could look at the diagrams all day long, and I still couldn't understand how I talk without a voice box," she marvels.

There is some inflection in her voice, something most laryngectomies lack. She is excited to be alive.

Two months after her surgery, Betty was visiting other laryngectomy patients, offering counsel and advice. Unlike Martha and Bobbie, Betty found her doctor and other attendants full of support and information.

She says the only thing she doesn't do in her active life is swim or take showers. This is because water would seep into the stoma or small opening in the throat through which she breathes.

The Tomy Trio concentrates on the quality of survival for cancer patients, adding this to the goals of detection and treatment.

"We take a light approach to the matter and use a bit of audience participation," Bobbie explains.

The women agree that it is important for a woman to realize that she is no less a woman because of surgery.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT
The Sedalia Capital

Published at Sedalia, Missouri, by The Sedalia Democrat Company

K. U. LOVE, Publisher
Sunday, Nov. 4, 1973
F. D. KNEIBERT, Editor

Pray for the U.S.

"...intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us! It behooves us then, to humble ourselves before the offended Power, to confess our national sins and to pray for clemency and forgiveness.

"Now, therefore, in compliance with the request, and fully concurring in the views of the Senate, I do, by this my proclamation, designate and set apart .... a day of national humiliation, fasting and prayer..."

Those words, written 100 years ago by President Abraham Lincoln, were recalled at a recent meeting in Kansas City by Dr. Derek Prince, a former professor of philosophy at Cambridge University and now a noted Christian teacher and speaker.

It is Dr. Prince's contention that Americans have been woefully neglectful of their duty to pray for good government. He has issued a call for volunteers to agree to pray and fast for the nation, and recently 400 did so in the Kansas City area.

The United Methodist Council of Bishops recently addressed itself to the same need. Bishop Charles F. Golden, council president, issued a statement calling members of his church "to prayer for the future welfare of our country..."

At a time when the very foundations of our nation seem to be shaking, the United States can use all the prayers it can get. Dr. Prince and Bishop Golden have reminded us of what we print on our coins but too rarely practice: In God we trust.

Home for Head Start

When the Sedalia Community Center takes over the old St. Patrick's School building soon, the local Head Start program will be looking for a new home. In fact it's looking now.

A Head Start spokesman told members of a local civic club last week that a suitable location would require a minimum of 700 square feet of indoor space, and 1,000 outside, plus potential kitchen facilities.

Head Start has generally been a well-received program, and this is true of the Sedalia operation. A total of 60 children, both black and white, are benefitting from this year's expanded program. This necessary community service should continue.

But adequate quarters are necessary. Local citizens who are in a position to help Head Start go on should step forward.

White House aide kept lid on costs

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Suppressed documents show that the White House kept a tight lid on all information relating to expenditures on President Nixon's estates at San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla.

Earlier this year, we reported that former White House staff chief H. R. Haldeman directed the extensive San Clemente renovations at a cost to the taxpayers running into the millions.

We have now obtained documents which show Haldeman used a trusted aide, John R. Brown III, to keep tight, total control of the cost information on the presidential retreats. He made sure no unauthorized information leaked out.

"I am the only individual," Brown wrote in 1970 to then General Services Administrator Robert Kunzig, "to whom they (GSA officials) should release cost information concerning your support for White House-involved projects such as Key Biscayne, San Clemente, the West Wing, etc."

Stating there had been "a degree of confusion on the matter," Brown declared in his White House memo: "I believe that it will be easier on all concerned for you to communicate through only one point of contact on the White House staff."

Brown's role as the cost coordinator and censor is revealed in other documents as well. A classified GSA memo, for example, indicates that "the White House will reimburse GSA for cleaning private residences, chafing dishes, ice, etc.

"Any requests other than direct from White House members for additional services in the mansion are to be cleared by John Brown in Washington. Bill for rental of sheets to cover furniture in the residence to be sent to John Brown for payment."

Another GSA document reveals that Brown arranged for a private employe of the Nixon Foundation to use government offices at San Clemente. "Miss Loie Gaunt who is employed by the Nixon Foundation..." states the memo, "has been assigned one of the guest offices in Building B." This was "requested," the memo adds, "by John Brown."

Brown confirmed to us that he had handled "administrative functions" and had paid for expenditures at the Nixon estates. He explained that he had used government, political and personal funds to pay the bills. "My instructions," he said, "were to protect against misappropriation of government funds. The problem was not a lack of funds but misappropriation."

Personal expenditures, Brown said, were paid out of the President's personal funds. Expenses of "a political nature" were paid by the Republican National Committee.

He didn't recal whether any money was used at San Clemente from the White House "Special Projects Fund." Because the White House has refused to provide Congress with a listing of expenditures from this annual $1.5 million fund, Congress has cut it off.

FOOTNOTE: The White House had no comment to make, except to say that the Nixon Foundation employe had not been assigned government office space at San Clemente. When told of the GSA memo, the White House spokesman insisted there was "no recollection of her having been assigned space."

BOOTLEG REPORT: We have obtained a bootleg copy of the inch-thick report which so infuriated Space Administrator James Fletcher that he fired the agency's top woman, deputy assistant administrator Ruth Bates Harris.

Mrs. Harris, who ran the space agency's equal opportunity programs, told Fletcher that as far as blacks and women were concerned, the program is a "near total failure." At the present rate, the agency's black employment will reach 9 per cent only by the year 2001. As for women, 88 per cent are in the lowest grades.

There are "no minority or female astronauts," the document goes on. "There have been three females sent into space by NASA. Two are Arabella and Anita — both spiders. The other is Miss Baker — a monkey."

After Fletcher got the scathing report, he fired Mrs. Harris. The firing, he declared, was the result of "discord and divisiveness," not the Harris report.

CABLE FROM ISRAEL: By secret cable, Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban has sent his ambassador in Washington, Simcha Dinitz, an impassioned note to circulate at the highest levels of the U.S. government.

The note stresses the great value the outnumbered Israelis place on every human life and calls for help in learning the fate of Israeli prisoners of war.

The note reports, as of Oct. 24 when the shooting stopped, that Israel had given a full report to the International Red Cross on the 988 Egyptians, 295 Syrians, 12 Iraqis and five Moroccans in Israeli custody.

But virtually no information had been received about Israeli prisoners. "No information whatsoever has been received from Syria," the note alleges. "As to Egypt, an utterly incomplete, unsatisfactory and garbled list of 37 Israeli prisoners of war has been received..."

"I'm not looking for votes this time," President Harry S. Truman smilingly told Sedalians who gathered at his train this morning, in expressing appreciation for Missouri's support of his candidacy.

A genuine California trapper was an object of curiosity at the depot last night. He had a magnificent robe manufactured from panther and mountain lion skins. He was, or claimed to have been, an old friend of Kit Carson. He was on his way to Texas.

Today's thoughts

Brethren, I do not consider that I have made it my own; but one thing I do, forgetting that lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead, I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus. — Philippians 3:13, 14.

Most of us serve our ideals by fits and starts. The person who makes a success of living is the one who sees his goal steadily and aims for it unswearvingly. — Cecil De Mille, American theatrical producer.

The walnut tree

It had been her home for fifteen years,
Yet, she didn't know in the field
Back of her home was a walnut tree
That would give her such a yield,
Perhaps because 'twas a little tree
So she had not noticed before
And she had been a city girl
Buying nut meats at a store,
But this was such a beautiful afternoon
In the glorious fall of the year,
She visited the field and found the tree
As a treasure of walnuts near,
She found it fun to hunt for them
In the grass grown high and wild,
It made her think of an Easter egg hunt
She had loved so as a child,
Here she found peace and solitude
As she sought with her feet to feel
The walnuts, maybe with her toe
If not, then with her heel,
It came to her mind that there might be snakes
There in the tall grass about
But her three-legged Siamese cat
Is good at hunting snakes out,
It brings them often to her front door
A gift to her, so it thinks,
And it probably is for with each one
The snake population shrinks,
Well, she picked and picked up walnuts
Till she had a wagon full,
A child's little wagon, that is,
,That back to her house she could pull
Her hands were not really made of wood
But they had a fine walnut stain,
She washed and washed but getting it off
Almost seemed in vain,
She thought how they'd look at work next day
But she wasn't too much annoyed
That stain only remindeed her
Of something she had enjoyed,
And so she put them out to dry
These nuts in the wagon stacked,
Wondering at the number,
How would she get them cracked?
But she thought of her sweet mother
Who was always willing to do
Things for her that needed doing,
She was sure she would do this, too,
For this is the start of the season
For cookies and cakes and candy
Her mother was certain to feel
These walnuts would come in handy,
Those who have never gone nutting
Don't know what fun it can be
So she thinks that everybody
Should plant them a walnut tree.

Events in Washington move fast

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — This column was written as usual last week but not mailed because of the events which changed in minutes. Even the celebrated Joe Alsop cancelled his column that day.

Upon reflection and re-reading my own version, it might as well have been sent, because we still have no vice president, no attorney general, no deputy attorney general, no deputy general, and no prosecutor. The tapes controversy continues.

As for the vice presidential office, the President's appointee Gerald Ford (R-Mich.), minority leader of the House, is acceptable enough. He is a good guy, a former football star and has always supported President Nixon. After playing center for Ann Arbor and denouncing the myth that LBJ created by saying, "There is nothing wrong with Gerry Ford except that he played too much football without a helmet," he produced his helmet at a recent Gridiron dinner.

Ford insured himself against Ivy League intellectuals by getting his law degree from Yale with assistant coaching jobs at the bulldog college. Ford could easily have been confirmed on the Hill except for some recent developments. The impeachment resolutions of President Nixon and the strong public reactions to the firing of Prosecutor Cox and the resignation of Attorney General Elliott Richardson and the firing (or resignation, depending upon who is talking) of William D. Ruckelshaus, have thrown a wrench into the Ford confirmation.

Rep. Ford himself admitted that the President went too far in his choice of words about the press in the press conference that finally was held last week. If it were not for all those circumstances, and a fairly minor report of campaign contributions which Ford has explained, we might have a vice president by now. The Senate Rules Committee under Chairman Howard W. Cannon (D-Nev.) and Co-Chairman Marlow W. Cook (R-Ky.) begins hearings this week.

The detente goes on between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. The cultural exchange is very successful. The Leningrad Philharmonic with a Prokofiev concerto and an evening of an all Tchaikovsky program gave three performances at the Kennedy Center. Peggy Fleming, ice skating professional, skated to the music of "Swan Lake" in Moscow, and did skating stunts with a Russian circus clown. Washington's Arena Stage company recently returned from its performance of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" in Moscow. By coincidence, during the events in the Middle East the National Symphony will premier the oratorio "Masada" by Marvin David Levy, a young American composer who drew his material from the Bible. Richard Tucker and George London of Metropolitan Opera fame will sing and recite in this spectacular performance at Kennedy Center.

What's behind Thanksgiving proclamation?

WASHINGTON — There is no doubt that President Nixon's credibility is at a low ebb. Proof of this is that when he issued a presidential proclamation declaring Nov. 22 as Thanksgiving Day, many people thought he did this to take the country's mind off his Watergate problems.

Buchwald

"It's very strange," a man told me on the bus, "that he would decide at this time to make a proclamation about Thanksgiving Day."

"But," I protested, "the President always issues a proclamation concerning Thanksgiving and it usually is in early November.

"How do we know that this Thanksgiving Day is the REAL thing? Suppose he's doing it just to scare us."

"I think it's a sad commentary on the times that anyone would question the President about a Thanksgiving proclamation," I said.

"But," the man said, "let's say, for arument's sake, it isn't really Thanksgiving Day. Let's say that the President hopes to get the people to forget about Agnew, ITT, Bebe Rebozo and San Clemente. Suppose we all go out and buy turkeys, and invite in-laws over to dinner, and watch football games all day long — and it turns out it isn't Thanksgiving after all. What do we do then?"

"You impeach the President," I said.

"It's not enough," the man said. "We would have celebrated a holiday that wasn't legal."

"The President said Nov. 22 was Thanksgiving Day, and I personally think we should take his word for it," I said. "What more can he do?"

"Make him prove it," the man said.

"How can he prove it?"

"We should make him open up his files and turn over his personal diaries to us."

"You can't do that," I almost shouted. "If you asked the President to turn over all his papers concerning his decision to declare Nov. 22 Thanksgiving Day, you would be violating executive privilege. Every President after that would be subject to questioning on how he arrived on the date to celebrate the holiday."

"That has to be weighed against the legality of what he has done. How do we know that the cranberry people didn't contribute to his last election campaign? Can we be sure the pumpkin-pie makers didn't meet in his Oval Office? And have we any proof that the turkey stuffing companies didn't influence his decision to make the 22nd the big day?"

"I am certain," I said, "that after Thanksgiving is over and all the facts are revealed, you will see that the President had no choice other than to issue the proclamation that he did."

"I hope you're right," he replied. "It's just that we've been disappointed on so many things the President has said that I don't know if the country could stand being misled about Thanksgiving."

"I don't blame you for being skeptical," I replied sympathetically, "but Nixon's the only President we've got. Sure, he's made mistakes, but I don't think anyone has ever caught him messing around with a national holiday. I know personally that he has agonized over Thanksgiving for months. Only he can decide what day is best for all the American people. Once he has made his decision I think we owe it to him to back him to the hilt and make this year's Thanksgiving Day the greatest one in American history."

The man on the bus nodded. "Maybe. But I'd still like to hear the tapes before I buy my turkey."

Nixon's hopes, plans for second term marred by events

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Fresh from a stunning landslide victory, President Nixon emerged briefly from seclusion at Camp David last November to offer an analysis that became prophecy.

Appearing before newsmen in a helicopter hangar at his closely guarded retreat in the Maryland mountains, Nixon philosophized aloud about his second-term thoughts and plans:

" ... The tendency is for an administration to run out of steam after the first four years, and then to coast, and usually coast downhill. This is particularly true when there is what you call a landslide victory ..."

A year later, Nixon's words seem chillingly prophetic, although he did not intend them that way. As he told the reporters at Camp David, "What I am trying to do is to change that historical pattern."

On this first anniversary of his great electoral triumph, Nixon again is secluded at a favorite hideaway, his bayside compound in Florida. But the cheers and euphoria of 1972 have given way to talk of possible impeachment or resignation.

Nixon was planning last November to challenge the "historical pattern" of a second-term slump by reorganizing his Cabinet and bringing increased power to the White House.

Almost as soon as his new team took the field, however, Nixon's game plan was destroyed by scandal in so many guises as to be without precedent in the history of the republic.

In just 12 months, an administration installed with overwhelming public support has been riddled. For the first time, criminal conduct has forced a vacancy in the vice presidency. For the first time in a century, Congress is formally considering the possibility of impeachment proceedings against the President himself.

The events of the past year numb the mind. As the President and his men have stumbled from crisis to crisis, seemingly in an ever-downward spiral, there have been three attorneys general, three directors of the FBI, three secretaries of defense, four Watergate prosecutors and three directors of the Central Intelligence Agency.

"I believe in the battle, whether it's the battle of a campaign or the battle of this office," Nixon told Saul Pett of The Associated Press in a pre-inaugural interview last January.

But for him, the battle is no longer something to be sought and relished. Since the happy evening of dancing at the inaugural balls, the author in 1962 of "Six Crises" has learned that his past brushes with disaster were as nothing compared to the events of 1973.

For Richard Nixon, little has gone well.

Almost all the good news has related to foreign affairs, the area that claims Nixon's greatest interest and in which he is most sure-footed.

In late January, after saturation U.S. bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong prompted Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, the latest attorney general-designate, to suggest Nixon had "taken leave of his senses," a peace of sorts was achieved in Vietnam.

Nixon called it "peace with honor" and White House image-makers huddled to ponder ways of inspiring an emotional public outburst of the sort that marked the end of World War II. It was not to be.

The public, long tired of the dirty conflict, saved its emotions for the homecoming of more than 600 American prisoners of war, an event that symbolized perhaps the only unambiguous achievement of a struggle that had claimed nearly 50,000 American lives.

By late June, however, public attention had shifted from the POWs to the televised and broadcast hearings of the Senate Watergate committee. Ready to take the stand was Nixon's chief accuser, ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III.

A respite came with the arrival of Leonid I. Brezhnev, the first boss of the Soviet Communist Party to visit the United States since Nikita Khrushchev called on Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1959. Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and his colleagues told Dean to wait a week so Nixon could concentrate on summitry.

Then came the boyish-looking Dean with his soft-spoken, detailed accusations that Nixon was a party to obstruction of justice, to hiding the truth about Watergate. Aides insisted Nixon, then in San Clemente, did not watch any of the televised testimony. As for the substance of Dean's charges, the President remained silent and relied on previous denials of wrongdoing.

Watergate was not the President's only big worry. There was a newspaper report, vigorously denied, that investigators were looking into Nixon's possible use of $1 million in unreported campaign funds to buy the San Clemente estate.

Curiously, John D. Ehrlichman, the former Nixon aide who had helped handle the President's real estate dealings, had said late in 1972 that Nixon still was seeking a buyer for the unwanted acreage.

Then came questions about government-financed improvements at San Clemente. The White House first put the figure at $39,525, revised it to $456,352, then produced a supposedly all-inclusive total of $703,367, mostly for security precautions that included $154,083 for landscaping, $43,038 for driveways and $68,143 for walls and fences.

Eventually, the government acknowledged spending nearly $10 million at the various Nixon retreats in California, Florida and Maryland.

The public found this unsettling, but not nearly so disturbing as the economy. Nixon, an avowed foe of formal wage-price restraints, had abandoned largely successful Phase II controls in January, opting for a voluntary anti-inflation program. One result: the biggest inflationary binge in more than two decades.

Simultaneously, a new world money crisis erupted, forcing the second devaluation of the dollar in 14 months, for a total slash of 17.9 per cent.

The altered price of the dollar meant higher prices for imported cars, television sets and shoes. But householders were more concerned, indeed irate, about the soaring price of beef.

There was a meat boycott and ultimately a temporary price freeze that, for a time, made beef a scarce commodity in many grocery stores.

Nixon's Phase 3 economic program proved to be disastrous.

Phase 4 was unveiled in midsummer and by autumn gave some promise of being moderately effective.

It was a year of problems. With scant advance warning, the nation awoke to an energy squeeze. Nixon's approach at first seemed tentative. An April message to Congress on energy was followed by another in early summer.

But the President waited until the first frost, and a curtailment of Arab oil shipments, before moving with a show of decisiveness.

Questions were raised about the extent of Watergate's effect on Nixon when a diagnosis of viral pneumonia put him briefly in the hospital in July, when a display of presidential temper — with Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler as the immediate target — was nationally televised in August, and when a new Middle East crisis produced a military alert in October.

On each occasion, widespread questions were raised about the state of Nixon's mental attitude.

Among the year's many astronishing happenings, this questioning ranked with Spiro T. Agnew's May statement that, "I have full confidence in the integrity of President Nixon and in his determination and ability to resolve the Watergate matter to the full satisfaction of the American people."

Never before had a vice president felt required to attest to the probity of his chief executive.

With each new shock during the year, it seemed inevitable that the travail of Nixon and the nation must end soon. But it didn't happen that way.

A year after his 1972 landslide, Nixon finds himself in a position that has never been more precarious.

The White House miscalculations that produced the abrupt departures from government of special prosecutor Archibald Cox, Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and Deputy Atty. Gen. William Ruckelshaus — brought Nixon to the brink of possible impeachment.

In other times the apparent deft handling of detente's first major test in the Middle East might have brought sustained applause. Success abroad, however, was overshadowed by the relentless erosion of the President's standing at home, as attested by all the polls.

On the last day of October, the public learned that two tapes of key Nixon conversations sought by the Watergate prosecution did not exist.

"It's the living end," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

In haste, the President flew off the next day to the quiet of his Key Biscayne compound, to reflect, perhaps to act.

"Let others wallow in Watergate," he had told the White House staff in July. "We're going to do our job."

Mind your money

Proper care saves clothing

By PETER WEAVER

Like everything else, the cost of clothing is soaring ever upward.

There's not much you can do about prices, but there is something you can do that will cut your year-in, year-out clothing costs.

"All too many of our clothes," says Dr. Dorothy S. Lyle, a fabric expert at International Fabricare Institute, "wear out prematurely because of improper care." You can almost double the wear life of your clothes if you give them proper care.

"Unfortunately," Dr. Lyle says, "the permanent care labels required by government regulation are not giving the consumer enough accurate information." For example, she says some labels may state "dry-clean" when only part of the garment is dry-cleanable. Complaints have been pouring in that simulated leather on some garments may peel or stiffen and elastic trim may lost its elasticity after dry cleaning.

When you're purchasing a garment with suspicious trim, be sure to get the care instructions written into your bill of sale. This may help get your money back if something goes wrong. It's also a good idea to get care instructions written into the bill of sale for such special fabrics as simulated suede and velvet pile. The pile is stuck onto a cloth base with adhesive and tends to come unstuck after several cleanings (especially in heavy-wear areas).

Another problem with care labels is the fact that they often don't give complete instructions. For example, one label says "tumble dry" but doesn't add the vital instruction: "promptly remove from dryer." If you have a dryer that's too hot or you leave the clothes in too long after drying, they tend to get permanent wrinkles. By using modest heat in drying, your clothes will look better and last longer.

The permanent care labels are also weak in the sense that they don't give information on color-fastness or shrinkage. Monsanto and Celanese provide special labels for their fabrics which declare they have been tested to withstand repeated cleanings and washings. The International Fabricare Institute also provides labels for some garments which certify that they have been tested to hold up under cleaning and laundering.

Some permanent care labels go to the other extreme — they're overcautious. A label might say "do not dry-clean" when the garment can, indeed, be dry-cleaned. Or a label might say "don't use coin-operated dry cleaning" or "don't bleach" when these cleaning methods can, in fact, be used.

If you have any doubts, it's best to check with a professional dry cleaner or laundry to determine what home-cleaning and laundry methods are best.

Meanwhile, by following these simple care procedures, Dr. Lyle says you can cut maintenance costs and make your clothes last longer:

✔ Spots. Treat spots immediately with water. If they're greasy, you may have to use spot remover (test first on an inconspicuous edge or corner). If you're taking the garment to the cleaners, be sure to pin a note on the spot with such information as "cola" or "gravy" so the cleaner will know which chemicals to use.

For more information, you can get a free pamphlet, "A Guide To Home Spot Removal," by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: International Fabricare Institute, 8001 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring Md. 20910.

✔ Storage. Knit garments hold their shape better if stored in a drawer or flat place. Knit pants can be stored on a padded hanger by folding the legs inward, one leg at a time, over the hanger bar. Use shaped hangers for jackets. Wire hangers can eventually ruin your clothes.

Henningsen lost for season

Hickman hangs loss on wounded Smith-Cotton

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

COLUMBIA — With nearly 50 per cent of their offense out for the rest of the season, the Smith-Cotton Tigers' hope for a share of the Central Missouri Conference football championship dwindled here Friday at the hands of Columbia Hickman, 31-7.

Visibly shaken by the events of the day, S-C Coach Greg Cook sat almost motionless on a table in the team's lockerroom after the setback, that saw the Kewpies successfully defend their CMC crown.

In the words of Cook, it was a night of poor tackling, missed tackles and poor hitting. It was also the poorest officiated football game in which Cook said he had ever been involved.

These were by-products of a story that unfolded earlier in the week, and actually ended Friday morning.

The Tigers had gone through seven games without serious injury and sickness, but then they hit — both injury and sickness.

Dane Henningsen, assessed by many coaches and scouts as "all-state material," suffered a muscle pull in Monday's drill. Tuesday he came down with the flu . . . later in the week it was double pneumonia . . . Friday morning he entered Bothwell Hospital . . . and then the grim news — out for the rest of the season.

Although Cook said after the game that he didn't feel the loss of Henningsen hurt the ball club, from a statistical standpoint, taking 857 yards away from the team's total of 1959 is a crushing blow. Nearly an insurmountable one, especially with the conference championship on the line.

Cook was nearly as upset with the officiating as he was his team's performance on the field. "They just seemed to be grabbing numbers," he said of an incident in the final seconds of the opening half that saw two S-C defensive starters and one starting back kicked out for being involved in a fight. The incident also resulted in two Columbia Hickman players being ejected.

"It started earlier and that's when the officials should have stepped in," said Cook, seated motionless on the training table in the lockerroom. "That No. 90 (Ron Crews) was swinging his elbows on a play earlier, Cook added, "but they didn't do anything about it . . . in fact, he played the whole game," Cook added.

"I'm not blaming the officials for the loss, because the way we blocked and especially the way we tackled, we deserved to lose . . . they didn't have the enthusiasm that we've had all during the season," Cook went on to say.

The news that Henningsen would be out for the rest of the year spread quickly. That could have been the cause of the Kewpies poor showing early — then again it may have been the strong, consistent offense and defense established by the Tigers.

At any rate, it netted S-C a 7-0 lead with just over three minutes gone in the game. Mike Boggs, who will play the remainder of the season in Henningsen's tailback spot, crashed over from the two. Mark Edwards tacked on the extra point, giving the Tigers an early lead.

The score came on the Bengals' first possession. S-C caught the Kewpies off stride passing on three straight first and 10 situations. The third one netted a 43-yard gain from junior quarterback Rick McRoy to slot back Jim Vansell. That moved the ball to the Columbia two, from where Boggs bulled in for the only Smith-Cotton TD of the night.

The stingy Tigers's defense held Hickman off the board until 6:46 of the second period, when a 28-yard punt return by Leo Lewis and a quick 35-yard, three-play drive resulted in the Kewpies' first score.

Lewis, who came into the game with two punt returns for TD's, returned a Mark Williams punt to the S-C 35. Terry Newman went the final 19 yards for the tally.

Hickman went for the two-point conversion, and made it count on a run by David Williams.

The Kewpies' defense stalled the Tigers on S-C's next possession, forcing a fourth and eight situation deep in Tiger territory. Williams moved back to punt, but a high snap from John Drennon rolled into the end zone. Williams fielded the ball and tried to run it out, but he was nailed by Crews and Gary Stamper. That made it 10-7, which is the way the scoreboard read at the half.

In the late seconds of the third period, Columbia put together a 48-yard drive that covered nine plays for a score coming on a two-yard run by Pete Grathwohl. Lewis booted the point after, giving the Kewpies a 10-point lead.

The real crusher came in the fourth period, when Hickman mounted its best sustained drive of the night — 83-yards. Lewis stuck mostly to the ground on the 11-play drive. It was culminated by his own 10-yard scamper around the right sided of the S-C defense. Lewis made it 24-7, booting the extra point.

The final Hickman score came as a result of a McRoy interception. David Adams picked off the pass and returned it 36 yards to the Tigers' 20, from where Hickman needed only three plays. Williams went the final three yards for the TD. Lewis gave the Kewpies their final point with the conversion.

The fight near the end of the first half could well have been the turning point of the game, although Cook did not agree. McRoy went right and picked up eight yards, when suddenly arms and elbows started swinging. A few players from both benches ran onto the field, including cornerback Paul Kostopolus and defensive lineman Darrell Robinson from the Tigers' side of the field. Both were ejected, along with Marvin Spruell, who was alternating with Vansell at slot back.

Initially, three Columbia players were booted also, including co-captain Mike Falco.

Following a discussion with the officials, Falco was allowed to return to the game, when Kewpies' coach Tom Travis convinced the officials that Falco was acting as a peace-maker.

The two Columbia players ejected were Bill Amend and Gary Whitesides, a guard and a halfback respectively.

With the loss of Kostopolus and Robinson, the Tigers came out on the short end of the stick. Both play strictly on defense. The ejections shook Cook tremendously, especially when Falco was allowed to return for the Kewpies.

"If the officials would have gotten control of the game earlier, when he (Crews) started swinging his elbows, the whole thing might not have started . . . I'm not blaming the officials for our loss, but that was a very important part of the game . . . we lost it ourselves . . . it was fundamentally our poorest effort of the season, especially in the second half, when we didn't hold onto the ball carriers on the initial hits," Cook concluded.

Columbia, in a heated battle for a Missouri State High School Activities Association Class 4-A playoff berth, remains undefeated in eight outings. Included in that record is a 3-0 slate in the CMC.

Jefferson City claimed second place in the league at 2-1, while Sedalia winds up third at 1-2. Hannibal lost all three of its league games.

S-C gets an extra practice day this week for Saturday's contest at Springfield Parkview.

"We're going back to basics . . . pads on Monday," Cook told the squad.

Area basketball roundup

Smithton, Montrose win openers

By WARREN RIPLEY
Staff Sportswriter

The Smithton Tigers defeated a surprisingly strong Stover Bulldog squad, 50-42, Friday night in an area basketball opener behind the 24-point output of all-Kaysinger Conference center Rusty Templemire.

At Montrose, the Montrose Blue Jays received a big break when LaMonte's all-state guard, Glyndon "Buggar" Bennett, fouled out early in the third period thus allowing Montrose to upset the Vikings 66-63.

The Lincoln Cardinals, playing without starting center, Scott Nevius, were out fought on the boards by the Leeton Bulldogs resulting in a 67-40 win for Leeton, at Leeton.

The Tigers never trailed in the contest, but could never really shake off Stover. The Bengals rode a strong first-half performance in which they outscored Stover, 33-22. Stover outscored their host 20-17 in the last half.

Smithton's press took its toll in the initial two periods of play, but they could not bury Stover as first-year coach Gene Cotton strategically substituted in different combinations of players to slow down the Tigers.

With LaMonte leading 48-45 in the third period against Montrose, all-stater Bennett picked up his fifth personal on a charging violation while attempting to drive to the bucket.

Bennett had picked up three fouls in the first half and got his fourth with the third period only one minute old. With 30 seconds left in the period, he picked up the foul which allowed the Blue Jays to avenge a stinging 82-63 loss to the Vikings last year, when Bennett ripped through the undefeated Blue Javs for 47 points in the Class S regional at Windsor.

The Vikings continued to lead until four minutes left in the fourth period due to the efforts of Donnie Hitaffer, Larry Whitworth and Rick Jones, who kept the Norsemen in the game.

But Kent Schusler and Dennis Mayer proved too much for the Bennett-less Vikes as they combined for 40 points.

Montrose also won the junior varsity contest, 54-35, for a clean sweep. Mark Swaters was high for Montrose with 13; Tim Oswald collected 12 for La-Monte.

At Deepwater, the Green Ridge Tigers asserted themselves as a power when they rolled over Deepwater, 84-60, placing all ten varsity players in the scoring column.

The Tigers collected 41 rebounds, 22 of which came at the offensive end of the floor. They took 89 shots, 36 of which found the mark.

Green Ridge, which was scheduled to play Northwest last night, led Deepwater 42-21 at the half. Senior guard, Kent Scotten fired in 21 points for the Tigers to tie Deepwater's Jim Holt for game honors.

At Leeton, the Cardinals gave the Bulldogs a strong challenge in the first period with the lead changing hands several times. But from that point on, the Bulldogs height advantage took command of the boards. George Ammonds was the leading scorer for the game for Leeton with 21. Sophomore Rod Ingram tossed in 17 for Lincoln.

Both Green Ridge and Lincoln took their respective junior varsity contests. Dean Rupe dropped in 12 tallies to boost Green Ridge past Deepwater, 43-35, despite 13 points by Deepwater's Rocky Sell. Lincoln smashed Leeton's B-teamers, 54-22, in their encounter.

Smithton, which received the first seed at the conference tournament at Lincoln will be idle until the tourney gets underway; so is second-seeded LaMonte.

The two surprises of Friday night were the Stover Bulldogs and the Green Ridge Tigers. Stover, in a rebuilding year after losing four starters from a 20-8 squad, gave Smithton, which returned four of last year's five starters, all they wanted. Green Ridge, under second-year coach Larry Barb, may have their strongest team in many years and could figure in the conference race.

Stover did receive a degree of revenge when they beat Smithton's B-team, 27-15.

In the first power volleyball game in area history, the Smithton girls took it two games to none. Under the new six-girl rules, the two teams play a best-of-three game set to determine the winner. The games are played to 15 points or eight minutes of playing time.

Varsity Scoring

Smithton (50) — Templemire 24, White 12, Hopper 6, Turner 2, Teter 5.

Stover (42) — Newguaard 12, Hodges 8, Stevens 6, Hagedorn 6, Mueller 4, Marriott 2, Viebrock 2.

Montrose (66) — Schusler 25, Mayer 15, Cook 11, Vogel 5, Jurgensmeyer 4, S. Mayer 4, Engeman 2.

LaMonte (63) — Hitaffer 22, Jones 13, Whitworth 13, Bennett 9, Taylor 2.

Green Ridge (84) — Scotten 21, Dove 12, Proffitt 12, Risner 9, Harding 9, Rupe 6, Curtis 5, Purchase 4, Blankenship 4, Ream 2.

Deepwater (60) — Holt 21, Hills 15, Briggs 6, Laswell 4, Landis 3, Bennett 2.

Football roundup

Area races remain hot

Area football conference races are going down to the wire; only the Central Missouri Conference and the Missouri River Valley Conference have determined their respective champions.

Columbia Hickman's 31-7 win over Sedalia Smith-Cotton yielded the second straight championship for the Kewpies. The MRVC race was determined last week, when Lexington edged Boonville, 8-7.

But the other five area leagues are still somewhat up for grabs, especially the West Central Conference, which has seen more upsets and ties this year than probably the last 10 seasons combined.

Harrisonville was only one win away from clinching the championship going into Friday night's game with Clinton. But the Cardinals, who had won only two of five league outings prior to Friday, upset Harrisonville, 9-6, throwing league scramble up for grabs once again.

Eddie Dent's seven-yard field goal in the first period and his five-yard TD run in the third quarter, lifted the Cardinals into the victory column.

Harrisonville's lone score came on a Lawrence Allen touchdown from three yards out in the third stanza. It was set up by a 51-yard punt return that gave Harrisonville possession on the Clinton eight. Three plays later, Allen hit paydirt.

Clinton's win was even more important from El Dorado Spring's standpoint. The Bulldogs downed Pleasant Hill, 6-0, and remained alive for the WCC title. Harrisonville's loss, the first of the season in league play, dropped the wildcats WCC mark to 5-1. El Dorado Springs moved to 4-2; both teams have one game left. Should El Dorado Springs down Clinton Friday, and Harrisonville lose to Knob Noster, the championship would be shared by the two front-runners.

Camdenton moved to within one game of nailing down the Tri-County Conference championship with its 55-0 win over hapless Iberia. The Lakers are undefeated in six league outings and a win over Osage Tuesday would bring the Lakers their second straight title.

Over in the North Central Conference, Chillicothe kept alive its title hopes with a 36-16 victory over Columbia Rock Bridge. That gave the defending Missouri state 3-A champions a 4-1 league mark, and moved the Hornets into a first-place tie with Marshall. Both have one game left in league play — Chillicothe closes out its NCC schedule with Trenton, while Marshall's remaining conference contest is with Columbia Rock Bridge.

Santa Fe (Alma) moved ahead of Oak Grove in the I-70 Conference race with a 12-6 win at Oak Grove. Santa Fe takes over first place 6-0, while Oak Grove is now 5-1. Both have one game remaining. Oak Grove winds up its loop slate with a road game at Sweet Springs Friday. Santa Fe hosts St. Paul's (Concordia) its final conference battle.

The Mid-State Conference is also still up in the air. Jefferson City Helias assured themselves of at least a tie for the title with a 30-20 win over Mexico, giving the Crusaders a 4-0 record in Mid-State play. Mexico's conference mark dropped to 3-1. Both have one league contest remaining — Helias closes out its conference schedule at home with Lebanon Friday. Also on Friday, Mexico visits Rolla to wind up its conference slate.

Northwest pins hopes on seniors

HUGHESVILLE — High point in the 1972-73 campaign of the Northwest Mustangs was their upset win over powerful Smithton in the Stover Tournament. Second-year coach Ed Scrogin returns only two starters from that crew; a third, Fite Barnes, moved out of state, and, according to Scrogin, really weakened his club in every phase of the game.

Coming off an 8-15 season in which they finished seventh in the Kaysinger Conference with a 2-6 mark, the Mustangs must look to seniors Alan Meyer (6-1) and Bill Killion (6-0) as their only experienced starters. Prospects to join them in the opening lineup include a transfer student from the Smith-Cotton Junior Varsity team, 6-0 junior Kerry Schroeder, 6-5 senior Randy Rife, 5-10 junior Roger Wiskur, and 5-10 senior Lester Knight.

As most coaches opined, Scrogin chose Smithton and LaMonte as the teams to beat.

Referring to his varsity, Coach Scrogin remarked, "We were rated last in the conference tournament, but I don't think we're that bad. I think we were in a transition period at Northwest the last five years with the changing of coaches. The kids are accustomed to my style of ball now and are working their heads off for me. We will surprise some people before the year is over."

This may happen — they surprised Smithton last season, but the loss of Barnes and questionable scoring punch has to have an effect on the team. However, on their floor the zone defenses they slap on the opposition will make them difficult at home.

Large purse fails to attract stars

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — A cloud of controversy, raising some hard questions about the future of the pro golf tour, surrounds the Thursday opening of the game's richest event, a two-week tournament that offers $500,000 in prize money with a record $100,000 to the winner.

Sponsors of the more than 40 other major U.S. tour events will be taking a long, thoughtful look at the relative success or failure of the new World Open and its biggest-in-history purse.

Most of the questions concern the absence of three of the game's greatest stars — Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Lee Trevino — and the lack of national television coverage.

"It seems," summarized Arnold Palmer, the still-magnetic 44-year-old master who will be playing, "that there's $100,000 just sitting there that nobody wants."

And that triggers the major question in the minds of many of the tour's sponsors, most of whom are under constant pressure from the Tournament Players Division of the PGA to increase their purses year after year.

The question:

"If the richest tournament the world has ever seen fails to draw Nicklaus, Weiskopf and Trevino, why bother? Why not cut back on our purse and take our chances on drawing a field?"

Many touring players are aware of this and a number are openly resentful that Nicklaus, Weiskopf and Trevino have decided to skip the tournament.

The format is unique. It calls for 144 holes — twice the number of the regular tour event — spread over two weeks.

A field of 240 — 100 more than the usual tournament — will play the first four rounds Nov. 8-11. The players will compete on both the No. 2 and No. 4 courses at the Pinehurst Country Club in the North Carolina sandhill country. At the end of those 72 holes the field will be cut to the low 70 scorers and ties.

The survivors then go into the second 72 holes of competition, all on famed Pinehurst No. 2, Nov. 14-17, setting up a rare Saturday finish.

WAFB routs Avila College

WHITEMAN AFB — Whiteman Air Force Base blew open a close game here Friday night in the second half, routing Avila College of Kansas City, 100-37, as the airmen opened their 1973-74 basketball season.

Avalia trailed at the intermission by only 15, 36-21.

Six-four forward Paul Mayfield led all scores pumping in 20 for Whiteman. Whiteman's Russell Rogers topped all rebounders with 10.

Whiteman hit 47 per cent from the field and 74 per cent from the charity stripe.

WAFB was scheduled to play Missouri Institute of Technology in Kansas City Saturday night.

Cherry spurs Tigers to comeback victory

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Quarterback John Cherry ran for two touchdowns and passed for another Saturday, leading the 12th-rated Missouri Tigers to a 31-7 Big Eight football victory over the Kansas State Wildcats.

Missouri started breaking open the game early in the third quarter when Cherry ran over from three yards to make it 17-7. Missouri's Ken Downing had recovered a fumble by KSU tailback Isaac Jackson at the Kansas State five.

MU tailback Tommy Reamon made it 24-7 with a 25-yard run on a pitchout in the final period, and Cherry plunged five yards for the Tigers' final score shortly after Missouri recovered another Jackson fumble at the Kansas State 25.

Missouri used the big play for a 10-7 halftime lead after the Wildcats had used up nine minutes in going to a 7-0 lead on quarterback Steve Grogan's one-yard plunge.

A block by tight end Don Muse sprang MU fullback Ray Bybee loose for 65 yards shortly after Grogan's touchdown, and Ron Sholt's tackle prevented a touchdown. But three plays later Cherry hit tight end John Kelsey on a five-yard scoring pass.

Missouri's Greg Hill booted a 33-yard field goal with three seconds left in the half.

Before Hill's field goal, Missouri had gained possession at its 35 with only 44 seconds left in the half.

The Tigers moved downfield in only four plays with the big gainer a 24-yard pass to wide receiver Mark Miller.

Kansas State, controlling the first quarter moved 87 yards on 20 running plays for the Wildcats' touchdown. KSU got the ball with 6:19 left in the first quarter and Missouri didn't get it again until 12:52 of the second period.

After Cherry's first touchdown, the Tigers blew a chance to score again as the Wildcats held them for four downs on the Kansas State nine. Hill's 27-yard field goal attempt was wide. A 35-yard run by the wide receiver Jim Sharp on a reverse highlighted the drive.

Jackson, the nation's sixth leading ground gainer with a per game average 122.6 yards, was held to 51 yards on 20 carries, nearly all in the first half. KSU rolled up 141 yards on the ground, and only nine yards in the second half.

Bybee was Missouri's leading ground gainer with 99 yards in 13 attempts. MU is 7-1, K-State 4-4 over-all.

A fumble recovery by freshman Randy Frisch, playing in his first varsity game, led to MU's final touchdown.

Sooners stay unbeaten, down stubborn Cyclones

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Quarterback Steve Davis tossed two timely touchdown passes and halfback Joe Washington scooted 136 yards and scored touchdowns of one and 30 yards Saturday as third-ranked Oklahoma beat back stubborn Iowa State, 34-17, in a Big Eight footbal game.

Davis hit split end Billy Brooks on a 68-yard touchdown pass to give the Sooners a 20-17 lead at intermission. He later hurled a five-yard score to Wayne Hoffman, giving Oklahoma a 27-17 third-period advantage.

Halfback Waymon Clark scored on a two-yard run in the second period after Iowa State went to a 17-7 lead on Tom Goedjen's 22-yard field goal.

The Cyclones stormed to a 14-7 first-quarter lead on the passing of Wayne Stanley. The sophomore quarterback was seven for seven at one point and hit tight end Keith Krepfle on touchdown tosses of nine and 16 yards.

Washington dazzled the crowd and the Cyclones with long runs around end and hurdling-type tricks up the middle.

The sophomore halfback, who is averaging 7.2 yards per carry, brought the crowd to its feet when he hurdled into the yard marker in the second period, breaking the chain. Washington was dazed but returned to the game a few plays later.

The Oklahoma defense shut down the Cyclone attack in the second half. Iowa State got only one first down the last two periods and Stanley finished the day with eight completions in 17 attempts.

The Sooners ground out 411 yards rushing and added 92 passing. Davis romped for 103 yards on 11 carries and fullback Waymon Clark had 99 yards on 22 attempts.

Kansas 10, 0-State 10

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Abby Daigle failed on a 29-yard field goal attempt with 12 seconds left Saturday and Oklahoma State had to settle for a 10-10 tie with Kansas in a Big Eight football game.

The kick was not blocked but the ball was buried among the onrushing Kansas linemen after it skimmed along the ground five or six yards in front of Daigle.

Freshman Mike Love had lifted Kansas into the deadlock with his 47-yard field goal about 10½ minutes before the end of the game.

Dave Jaynes, the Jayhawks' sensational passer, took Kansas on a 78-yard march on seven plays just before the first half ended, capping the drive with a 22-yard touchdown pitch to Emmett Edwards with only 39 seconds showing.

The visiting Cowboys made all of their points in the second period.

Glen Robinson's recovery of Tom Krattli's fumble at the Kansas 20 set up the Oklahoma State touchdown. The Cowboys needed only six plays, quarterback Brent Blackman scoring on a four-yard run.

Daigle, who had converted after the touchdown, kicked a 45-yard field goal with 2:04 left in the half.

Both teams blew numerous opportunities to score.

Leonard Thompson ran 80 yards and across the goal on Oklahoma State's first play from scrimmage but the ball was called back and the Cowboys were assessed five yards for illegal motion.

Kansas is 5-2-1 for all games and 2-1-1 in the Big Eight. Oklahoma State is 3-2-2 and 0-1-2.

Nebraska 28, Colorado 16

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska's southpaw quarterback Dave Humm passed for two touchdowns and sophomore Tony Davis ran for two more Saturday as Nebraska's 13th-ranked Cornhuskers virtually eliminated Colorado from the Big Eight football title chase with a 28-16 win before 76,555, second largest crowd in Memorial Stadium history.

Nebraska scored all of its points in the first half and Colorado rallied for a pair of touchdowns after the intermission to close the 28-3 halftime gap.

The loss dropped Colorado to 5-3-0 for the season, 2-2 in the loop. No team in 44 years has won the conference crown with two losses.

Nebraska kept its flickering title hopes alive on a 2-1-1 record in the Big Eight, 6-1-1 overall.

A 73-yard touchdown pass from freshman tailback Billy Waddy to David Williams was the showpiece of Colorado's second half surge. The spirited running of Charlie Davis, the Buffs' career rushing leader, and the passing and option sprinting of reserve quarterback Williams also figured in the effort.

A 75-yard, seven-play drive with the opening kickoff got Nebraska off and running. A 44-yard Humm pass to Dave Shamblin was the big gainer and Humm hit Brent Longwell with a 10-yarder to score.

Colorado fumbles helped Nebraska to two of its subsequent tallies and a blocked punt figured in another.

Willie Thornton chopped down the kick, Zaven Yaralian recovered the loose ball on the Colorado 19 and on the second play thereafter, Humm connected with Frosty Anderson on a 21-yard TD pass. It was Anderson's first appearance since suffering a shoulder separation in the Missouri game four weeks ago.

Glydon "Buggar" Bennett, LaMonte High School's 5-8, all-state senior guard, has been recognized as one of the top players in Missouri by the 14th Basketball Annual, published by Complete Sports, Inc. of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Bennett, the Kaysinger Conference's leading scorer last season, was listed with eight other Missouri prep stars, most of whom are from the metropolitan Kansas City and St. Louis area.

Also on the list are Jerry Sanders (6-7), St. Louis Mercy; Clay Johnson (6-4), Kansas City Manual; Mark Capra, (6-3), Kansas City St. Pius; Tom Maxwell (6-8), Webb City; Brian Quitgley (6-2), Kansas City Oak Park; Tom Schulz (6-3), Springfield Glendale; Rolandis Nash (6-4), St. Louis Vashon; and Randolph Harris (6-0), St. Louis McKinley.

Nash was also named to the magazine's fifth, high school All-American team.

Two boys, Bill Wesner and Drew Dean, made a lot of ye ole' fishermen's eyes pop at Westmoreland Country Club last Sunday, when they pulled out two big channel catfish from Lake Tebo, the club's fishing lake.

Wesner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wesner, 517 South Beacon, caught a 13-pounder; while Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean of 600 South Beacon, almost matched it with an eight-pounder.

Lucille McKinley, 2001 East Ninth who has been the clerk of the Missouri State Fair harness racing division for the past few years, submitted some interesting information the other day, concerning winners at the 1973 Fair here.

Many have continued to pad their career winnings.

Little Albert, winner of the two-year-old pace here Aug. 21, and Hard Head Hal, a three-year-old pacer and winner of the free-for-all race at the Fair, were timed trialed for faster records at the final stop on the Grand Circuit's tour at Lexington, Ky.

Little Albert paced in 2:01 2-5th, while Hard Head Hal went into the two-minute list with a clocking of 1:59 3-5th. His mile of 2:01 3-5th was the fastest heat of the Fair's racing program here.

Both colts were owned by Paul and Emett Liles of Libertyville, Iowa, and were driven by Joe O'Brien of Shafter, Calif.

Heather Smoth, winner of the free-for-all trot at Sedalia, also won at Lexington, trotting in 2:03 1-5th. His stablemate, Heather June, winner of the three-year-old pace at Sedalia, was second in her event. Duncan Foundry and Machining Works, Inc., of Alton, Ill., owns both entries. They are trained and driven by Dave Bartlett.

Miss McKinley went on to say that at the Tattersalls Yearling Sale, held in Lexington in connection wit the racing program, 43 yearlings brought $5,877,400.

Yearlings sired by Good Time, now 27 and who was raced at Sedalia as a colt by Frank Ervin, averaged $36,333. The highest priced colt was Outstanding, but Good Time, who sold for $175,000 to Samuel Huttenbauer of Cincinnati.

The next highest of the sale was a filly, Speed To Cash, who brought $90,000.

And in the words of Miss McKinley, the prices reflect the tremendous growth of the sport of harness racing, which in turn, results in the great demand for well-bred colts.

Rose draws fine for playoff fight

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds outfielder Pete Rose said Saturday he has been fined $250 by the National League for his part in a fight during the playoffs with the New York Mets.

"How do you like that?" said Rose. "I get fined $250 and I didn't even throw a punch."

The incident occurred Oct. 8 at Shea Stadium in the third game of the playoffs. Rose tangled with Mets shortstop Bud Harrelson after a play at second base.

Both benches emptied onto the field, and the Mets fans reacted by throwing debris into the outfield. The game was halted for several minutes when the fans directed garbage at Rose in left field. Order was restored after pleas by Mets Manager Yogi Berra and several players.

Rose said he was curious about the wording of the letter.

"He congratulated me on having a good year, he admires my courage for continuing to play in that game — then he says, unfortunately we have to fine you $250 for your part in the fight.

"I don't know who 'we' is."

Rose said he had also heard Cincinnati pitcher Pedro Borbon was fined $150 and that Harrelson was fined $250.

In his home at East Northport, N.Y., Harrelson confirmed that he had received a similar letter from Feeney, congratulating him on his season and then informing him of the $250 fine for his part in the incident with Rose.

"When I read it, I laughed," said Harrelson. "It started out as congratulations, then I find out I'm fined. But the man (Feeney) has a job to do."

Harrelson said he did not know if any other Met players were fined.

Bulletin

Green Ridge toppled Northwest of Hughesville 65-54 Saturday night in an early-season encounter.

Kent Scotton paced the winners with 17 points, but Northwest's Allen Meyer was high point man with 24.

Green Ridge claimed the jayvee game, 51-19, and Northwest took volleyball, 2 games to 1.

Ohio State shatters Illini hopes

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Quarterback Cornelius Greene smashed to two of Ohio State's three touchdowns in the fourth quarter and the top-ranked Buckeyes wore down error-prone Illinois for a 30-0 triumph Saturday in a battle of unbeaten Big Ten football contenders.

The Buckeyes took a 3-0 lead midway in the first quarter on Blair Conway's 25-yard field goal, but then were checked by the Illini until late in the third quarter when Archie Griffin squirmed across from the one, capping a 41-yard drive.

Ohio State, in stretching its perfect over-all record to 7-0 and its Big Ten mark to 5-0, had two long touchdown runs canceled by penalties and the Buckeyes didn't wrap up the game until the fourth-quarter explosion.

Michigan 49, Indiana 13

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP) — Chuck Heater and Ed Shuttlesworth scored two touchdowns apiece Saturday as fourth-ranked Michigan rolled to a 49-13 Big Ten football victory over Indiana.

It was the 27th consecutive home victory for the undefeated Wolverines, 8-0 this season and 5-0 in conference play. Indiana is 0-5 in the Big Ten and 2-6 overall.

LSU 51, Mississippi 14

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Explosive running by Brad Davis and Steve Rogers sparked seventh-ranked Louisiana State to a nationally televised 51-14 football triumph over Mississippi Saturday, ending a 39-year daylight victory drought in this series.

It was the eighth straight victory for the unbeaten Bayou Bengals this season and their first daytime conquest of Ole Miss since a 14-10 triumph in Jackson in 1934.

Pen State 42, Maryland 22

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Tom Shuman passed for three touchdowns and John Cappelletti ran for 202 yards as unbeaten, sixth-ranked Penn State thumped Maryland 42-22 Saturday for its eighth consecutive victory.

Held to a 22-22 halftime score by Maryland's 13-point underdogs, Penn State broke the game open by scoring twice in the first four minutes of the third quarter following a pass interception and a fumble recovery.

Utah 36, Arizona State 31

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah capitalized on seven first-half turnovers to build a runaway lead and fight off an Arizona State rally in the fourth quarter to beat the eighth-ranked Sun Devils 36-31 Saturday in a Western Athletic Conference football game.

The game, played under wet, near-freezing conditions, ended a 12-game Arizona State winning streak, the nation's longest among major colleges.

It made ASU's record 7-1 over-all and 3-1 in conference. Utah went to 5-3 over-all and 3-1 in conference.

Vikings favored to stay unbeaten

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

They've gotta lose some time ... but it won't be now.

The Minnesota Vikings, trying to duplicate Miami's perfect performance of 1972, take their untarnished record into Phase II of the National Football League season Sunday, namely the second half.

It starts with a clash against the Cleveland Browns who, along with Miami, share the honor as the American Conference's No. 1 defensive team.

But the Browns appear to be overmatched in one intangible area known as ferocity. Look for the Vikes to make it eight in a row.

The Houston Oilers have gone through Phase I of the season with a perfect record — perfectly awful, that is.

They haven't even come close to winning thus far and, if they don't do it this Sunday in Baltimore, the odds are they won't win again until 1974.

The Oilers are underdogs but only by one touchdown. That in itself gives Houston an aura of respectability. This is the upset special of the week.

Speaking of the upset, that, to put it mildly, is how this fearless forecaster felt after the football took a lot of bad bounces last week, resulting in the 5-7-1 mark that dropped the record to 54-32-5 for a .628 percentage.

Vikings 20, Browns 13

Minnesota gives up plenty of yardage. The only thing is, the Vikes slam the door when the ball gets anywhere near their own 20-yard line. Cleveland has moved the ball mostly on the ground this season. Minnesota has a habit of grinding ground-gainers into little pieces.

Oilers 24, Colts 20

You've got to go all the way back to Sept. 1 to find Houston's last victory. It was an exhibition game — against Baltimore. That doesn't necessarily mean anything. In fact, there's no sound reason for picking the Oilers, except perhaps that they repeatedly have been wrecked by mistakes that killed offensive drives. The Colts have a defense capable of making just as many mistakes.

Steelers 27, Redskins 17

One whole quarterback is better than two half-quarterbacks. Washington is in all kinds of trouble. Neither Sonny Jurgensen nor Billy Kilmer have really moved the team this year and the running game, going nowhere, will stay there Monday night against the murderous defense of the Steelers, who may be without Terry Bradshaw but still have dangerous Terry Hanratty.

Bills 24, Saints 16

Just about the only thing Buffalo can stop consistently is the rush — which is about the only thing New Orleans can do. Just about the only thing the Bills, mainly O. J. Simpson, can do is rush — which is what the Saints are just about the worst at stopping. Don't be surprised if "the Juice" flows for another 200 yards or so.

Cowboys 23, Bengals 17

Like O.J., Dallas' Calvin Hill has been bashing out his 100-or-so yards each game. Cincinnati can pass the daylights out of the Cowboys, but not all day. Dallas' variety on offense will be the difference.

Rams 23, Falcons 21

Atlanta's a hard team to figure, so good on some days and so bad on others. It'll be neither this time. Los Angeles, needing a victory to just about sew up their divisional flag, will get it on the ground, with John Hadl hitting just enough passes to loosen up the Falcons' defense.

Eagles 24, Patriots 14

If Roman Gabriel tries to pass Philadelphia into the New England end zone, he'll get burned. The Pats have a thing about shooting down aerials. But the Eagles can also run, and New England can't do a thing about that.

Packers 30, Bears 24

Green Bay and Chicago will run roughshod over each other all day. This won't be a defensive fight by any means although, in the end, it's the Pack's defense, humiliated a week ago, that'll have the last say.

Broncos 31, Cards 27

Just the reverse is true here. Denver, with Charley Johnson, and St. Louis, with Jim Hart, will "pass roughshod" over each other, if there is such a thing. But the Broncos can run, too.

Chiefs 28, Chargers 14

This could well be Harland Svare's last game as San Diego's coach. Two costly turnovers killed Kansas City last Monday night. You can bet the Chiefs will be forcing the mistakes instead of making them this time around.

Dolphins 38, Jets 20

Al Woodall is back at quarterback for New York. So what? It was Miami which knocked him out in the first place. The Dolphins will run and pass against the Jets with equal ease.

Raiders 27, Giants 21

Ken Stabler won't have a near-perfect day like he had the last time out, but he won't need it against the demoralized Giants. He'll get his share of completions to Mike Siani and Fred Biletnikoff and Marv Hubbard will make things interesting on the ground.

Lions 17, 49ers 14

Whatever it was that Detroit's defense did last Sunday, it'll do again to San Francisco, which just hasn't been able to get untracked this year. If the 49ers try to key too much on Altie Taylor, then Steve Owens and Mel Farr will make them wish they hadn't.

First lap thrill

Cardinals await Johnson, Broncos

ST. LOUIS (AP) — One-time glamour boy Charley Johnson returns Sunday to the scene of his heyday in a homecoming that could become a circus.

The 34-year-old Johnson, the St. Louis Cardinals' chief aerialist for nine season, arrives as quarterback of the National Football League's revived Denver Broncos.

And unless the air is taken from the ball, he and former understudy Jim Hart could combine to wipe out pass records the battlewise Johnson helped set.

At the midway point of a peak season, Johnson's aerial proficiency is measured by his 51.7 per cent completion rate and 10 touchdown pegs leading Denver to a 3-3-1 record.

But the 29-year-old Hart, who took over when he left in 1970, has outdone his predecessor with a pace of 55.3 per cent embellished by 11 payoff tosses.

Together the two have combined for 2,895 aerial yards putting Denver at the top of NFL's American Conference in offense and ranking St. Louis fifth in the National.

St. Louis, however, is also saddled with the NFL's most generous defense and first-year Coach Don Coryell admits he has more worries than Johnson.

"They have a balanced offense," Coryell said in reference to running by Floyd Little and Joe Dawkins which has accounted for 919 Bronco yards.

"They trap well," Coryell added. "We're still giving up a lot of points, but we think the defense is getting better. They've been unable to unwind or cut loose, but that only comes with experience."

Denver Coach John Ralston, who vowed his team's third defeat Oct. 7 would be the season's last, has since watched the Broncos tie Oakland and whipsaw the Houston Oilers and New York Jets.

"The only way we can tell for sure if we have in fact turned the proverbial corner is to keep winning," said Ralston, whose team trails the Raiders by one game in AFC West standings.

Johnson last week suffered a locked knee in the Broncos' 40-28 romp past the Jets but is expected to be ready to face his former team.

"I've got to play against the Cardinals," said the holder of St. Louis passing marks for attempts, completions, yards and touchdowns.

Expected back for the Cardinals, who are 3-4 and in third place in the NFC East, is running back Terry Metcalf, who has been idle two games with a knee injury.

Punchless Chiefs invade San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Hank Stram's "offense of the '70" has shifted into low gear but the Kansas City coach isn't perturbed.

"It doesn't make a difference if you take a jet or a bus," he says. "Just so you get there."

That doesn't mean Stram is pleased with the Chiefs' punchless attack that has knocked them out of the lead in the National Football League's American Conference West. Going into Sunday's game with the San Diego Chargers, Kansas City at 3-3-1 trails Oakland by a game.

The Chargers, 1-5-1, have little to hope for except a repeat of last year's 27-17 upset that knocked the Chiefs out of first place for good.

Four years ago Stram's club dazzled the Minnesota Vikings with a moving pocket, multiple formations, shifts and trick plays and walked off with a stunning 23-7 Super Bowl victory.

But now Kansas City is a team that lives on its old, tough defense while averaging a bare 12 points a game. Its offense has ranged from adequate to embarrassing, as in last week's 23-14 loss to Buffalo when the Chiefs gained only 104 yards.

With veteran quarterback Len Dawson sidelined by shoulder and heel injuries, the Chiefs may have just as much trouble against the Chargers, who blasted Buffalo 34-7 earlier in the year and held Cleveland to 184 yards last week in a 16-16 tie.

But Kansas City rules a slight favorite on the premise that Willie Lanier, Buck Buchanan, Bobby Bell, Jim Lynch & Co. can out pressure on the San Diego offense.

The Chargers lead the league in turnovers with 28 and have blown themselves out of several games early with an epidemic of fumbles and interceptions. Rookie quarterback Dan Fouts, a surprise midseason replacement for John Unitas, is having to learn by experience the pro doctrine of settling for a loss when your receivers are covered.

Coach Harlan Svare is sticking with the promising young Fouts, a risky decision for a coach whose future may depend on his team's showing.

Svare has made some other personnel shifts, however, reinstating Mike Garrett at running back, benching middle linebacker Tom Rossovich for Carl Gersbach and moving sprinter Willie McGee from defensive back to wide receiver. Rossovich may be back Sunday.

Garrett, who gained 130 yards last week, has scored six touchdowns against the Chiefs since they traded him three years ago.

Either Pete Beathard or Mike Livingston will start at quarterback for the Chiefs and throw to an elite receiver corps that includes Otis Taylor, Elmo Wright, and running back Ed Podolak, who leads the AFC with 32 catches.

Lincoln upends Warrensburg

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Cornelius President threw two touchdown strikes on plays of 51 and 27 yards to Johnny McDaniels as Lincoln University beat Central Missouri 23-13 in an MIAA football game Saturday.

The last touchdown pass came with 2:13 left in the game after Central gave up the ball on its own 15 by trying for a first down on a fourth-and-one situation. A penalty pushed Lincoln back before President and McDaniels put the game out of reach with the 27-yarder.

Kevin Burgess made Lincoln's other touchdown on a 13-yard run, and James Cooper was credited with a safety by tackling a ball carrier in the end zone.

For Central, Steve Howard scored from the one and Andy Howard from the eight.

Central lost the ball five times on three interceptions and two fumbles.

Lincoln is 2-1 in the MIAA and 4-4 for the season, Central 1-4 and 1-7.

Central Methodist 35, Emporia 7

FAYETTE, Mo. (AP) — Kiff Dalton scored on a three-yard run and a 16-yard pass to spark Central Methodist to a 35-7 victory over College of Emporia in a Heart of America football game Saturday.

Cornerback Mike Scardina's 65-yard touchdown scamper of a fumble recovery highlighted the victory for the Eagles, who are 4-2 in the HOA and 5-3-1 over-all.

Jeff Sadler's five-yard touchdown run late in the fourth quarter was the only score for the Presbies, 2-4 in the conference and 3-6 on the season.

Northeast 20, Southwest 14

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Senior safety Gary Doss intercepted a pass in the end zone with 33 seconds remaining Saturday to preserve Northeast Missouri State's lead for a 20-14 victory over Southwest Missouri State.

Doss had another interception and a fumble recovery in frustrating Southwest's bid to get involved in the MIAA conference race. Its league record slipped to 1-3 while Northeast, 2-6-1 in all games, is 2-2 in the conference.

Trevino shares Australian lead

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Flamboyant Lee Trevino, buoyed by an eagle at the third hole, fashioned a four-under-par 69 Saturday and tied fellow American Jim Colbert for the lead after three rounds of a $74,500 international golf tournament.

Each had a 54-hole total of 209 over the 6,850-yard, par-73, rainsoaked Lakes course.

Colbert, the leader at the end of 36 holes following two consecutive 69s, carded a third-round 71.

Stewart Ginn of Australia also registered a 71 and was in third place at 210. Then it was four strokes back to Australians Graham Marsh and Bob Shearer, tied for fourth at 214.

Four other Americans competitors were out of contention. Gay Brewer was seven strokes off the pace at 216; Jerry Breaux had a 218 total; 61-year-old Sam Snead was at 220, and Paul Allen lagged at 227. Breaux shot a third-round 70, Brewer a 71, Snead a 73 and Allen a 76.

Cards activate Sloan, Metcalf

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Defensive tackle Bonnie Sloan and running back Terry Metcalf, both rookies, were activated Saturday by the St. Louis Cardinals for their Sunday National Football League game against the Denver Broncos.

Sloan, believed to be the NFL's first deaf player, was injured in the club's season opener. Metcalf has been sidelined for two games because of a twisted knee.

Tarkio 20, Ottawa 13

TARKIO, Mo. (AP) — Thrilling plays in the first half accounted for all the scoring Saturday as Tarkio bested Ottawa, in Heart of America football 20-13.

Tarkio tallied first in the initial period on a 20-yard run by Ed Hill.

Later in the quarter, Tarkio's Bill Martin scampered 50 yards for another score.

Washington U. 31, UM-Rolla 28

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A 38-yard field goal by Washington University's Ken King broke a 28-28 deadlock to give the Bears a 31-28 victory over the University of Missouri-Rolla here Saturday.

The Miners jumped out to a 14-0 lead in the first period after the Bears fumbled the opening kickoff. Quarterback Greg Haug hit receiver Merle Dillow with a 14-yard pass for the first touchdown and tailback Mike Kleeler added six more points when he broke away for a 78-yard scoring run.

The Bears came right back with a 10-yard touchdown pass from Marvin Creider to split end Stu Watkins to end first quarter scoring.

Northwest 14, Southeast 7

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—Northwestern's Don Costello picked off a Southeast Missouri State University pass and took it in for a fourth-quarter touchdown to lead the Bearcats to a 14-7 victory over the Indians here Saturday.

Northwestern Missouri State led 6-0 at the end of the first half on a pair of field goals by Steve Stokes.

Southeast took the lead 7-6 in the third quarter on a 13-yard pass play from Lance Brune to Ed Slaughter.

Costello's touchdown interception was one of six interceptions thrown by Brune in the game.

Crenshaw holds one-stroke lead

SAN ANTONIO, Tex (AP) — Rookie Ben Crenshaw broke a four-way tie for the top spot with a five-under-par 66 Saturday and again assumed sole control of the lead through three rounds of the $125,000 San Antonio-Texas Open Golf Tournament.

The 21-year-old Crenshaw held the lead alone after the first round, dropped back into a tie after 36 holes and re-established his first place position after 54 holes with a 203 total, 10-under-par on the 6,990-yard Woodlake Golf Club course.

Crewshaw, who won his Approved Player's card as a full-fledged member of the pro tour last week, held a one-stroke lead over George Archer, a foremr Masters champion who has been in a lengthy slump.

Archer managed a 67 for 204 in the cool, cloudy weather.

Orville Moody, second in two tournaments this year but a non-winner since his 1969 U.S. Open triumph, slipped into third place with a 67-205, eight under par and two shots behind Crenshaw.

Rod Funseth followed with 68—207.

Defending champion Mike Hill, tied at the end of two rounds with Crenshaw, Archer and Bobby Greenwood, matched par 71 and dropped back into a tie for fourth at 208.

Also at that figure was Fred Marti, who spiced his round of 67 with a hole-in-one on the 185-yard 12th hole, Bob Erickson, Steve Melnyk and Bruce Fleisher. Erickson and Melnyk had 68s, Fleisher a 70.

Lee's Summit is easy winner

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Lee's Summit runners finished one-two Saturday in the Missouri High School cross country championship at A. L. Gustin Jr. memorial golf course and the team won the championship.

Steve Fisher, the only runner from Sedalia Smith-Cotton to qualify for the race, finished in 16th position, in a time of 10:13.

Lee's Summit had low scores of 42. Lindbergh High School was second with 79. Jefferson City was third with 105.

Brad Hawthorne led the Lee's Summit finishers with a 9:46.7 clodking over the two-mile course. Second was Rick Dennison.

Order of finish after the first three teams was:

Northwest of House Springs 120; Raytown South 133; St. Louis DeSmet 137-Parkway North 160; Pattonville 173; University City 201; Independence William Chrisman 264; Columbia Hickman 315; and Marshall 323.

O-State wins cross country

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma State, riding on the legs of individual titlist John Halberstadt and Colin Cummings, edged Colorado in a Big Eight Cross Country clash here Saturday.

Missouri filled the third slot, followed by Kansas, Kansas State, Nebraska Iowa State and Oklahoma.

Cummings, running 26th with one-half mile left, revved up and held his pace to pass seven opponents and give OSU a 1-6-10-17-19 winning finish.

Halberstadt took his second consecutive individual title in the league with a 23:57 time.

Arizona 150 captured by Johncock

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Gordon Johncock slipped by teammate Wally Dallenbach 19 miles from the finish and won the wreck-marred Arizona 150 miles championship auto race Saturday.

The final event of the season for the powerful Indianapolis cars was halted early by an accident that sent speed record holder Bobby Unser to a hospital.

The oldest of the two driving brothers was admitted for treatment of broken ribs and ankle injury.

Unser's Olsonite Eagle disintegrated when he crashed into the backstretch guard rail at FasTrack International Speedway on the 41st lap.

The most effective bluff in poker is when the bluffer has misread his hand and doesn't know that he is bluffing. The same principle applies at bridge. If a player doesn't know that he is false-carding, the false card is very likely to succeed.

South would have been better advised to let his partner play in six clubs, but South suffered from that form of bridge-player's astigmatism that completely blinds the victim to the possible advantage of being dummy.

Playing at six clubs, North would use the well-known safety play of playing his ace of trumps to see if an honor might drop. One would drop and there would be no further problems.

Playing at six notrump South needed to bring in that club suit. He won the diamond lead; led a club and finessed dummy's queen. If East had won with the king, South might have tried a second finesse or he might have played the ace next and dropped the jack.

We'll never know because East dropped the jack. It became obvious to South that West still held king and one club. He returned to his hand; took a second club finesse and watched the whole hand collapse.

Did East know what he was doing? He claimed that he did when everyone around congratulated him, and since East is an old friend we will join in the accolades.

'Today' show not as simple as it appears

EDITOR's NOTE — Although the "Today" show seems as natural as a yawn, it's about as casual as a Kabuki dance in format and as simple in preparation as dinner for 12 on five minutes notice.

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The sun was just rising when they turned the lights on "Today." But NBC's studio 3-K already had come to air-conditioned life in its artificial dawn.

Frank McGee, Barbara Walters and Gene Shalit sat behind the large desk they share on camera. A few yards away, newscaster Frank Blair manned his desk, silently inspecting his news copy.

The floor director's countdown began, a red light atop one of three color TV cameras flashed on and at 7 a.m. "Today" commenced in pretty much the same low-key way it's been going since 1952.

It was seen on 27 stations then. Now it's on 226, still running two hours a day, five days a week.

And it's still winning the dawn ratings patrol to the dismay of CBS, which dispatched Sally Quinn and Hughes Rudd to the "CBS Morning News" last Aug. 6 amid much publicity that has yet to produce the larger audience CBS has anticipated.

Although "Today" seems as natural as a yawn, it's about as casual as a Kabuki dance in format and as simple in preparation as dinner for 12 on five minutes' notice.

The man who puts it all together, aided by a 28-member production and editorial staff, is Stuart Schulberg, a short, barrel-chested ex-newspaperman born in Los Angeles 51 years ago.

He's the executive producer of "Today," and took over the show in late 1969, when timeliness wasn't exactly its strong point.

"When I got here, the programs tended to be booked (with guests) and completely blocked out a month ahead of time," said Schulberg, a soft-voiced, intense man whose office contains two Emmy statues, among other things.

"Only under the most urgent news developments were alterations made," he said. "The main responsibility of reflecting the news was left to the hard news package."

He referred to the approximately 30 minutes of current news and weather — divided into segments that run each half-hour — that Frank Blair still reads each weekday.

"I've taken a position that we should be ready to turn the program inside out overnight," said Schulberg, who had done just that twice in the week he was interviewed.

Monday's scheduled show was scrapped over the weekend because of the outbreak of war in the Middle East. Schulberg's troops toiled all Sunday, writing, editing, lining up interviews and devoted Monday's new show to the Middle East situation.

Two days later, Vice President Agnew resigned. Out went Thursday's planned show, "Today" was shifted to Washington and the new show dwelt almost exclusively on the Agnew story.

Schulberg noted that the show now moves out of New York more often than in the past. He cited the Washington move as an example, and pointed out that last year it was done in six key states during presidential primary elections.

On quiet days, when no crises requiring scrapped shows are about, Schulberg follows each morning with a 10 a.m. staff meeting to discuss stories and possible "Today" guests.

When they choose a guest, one of the show's staff writers is assigned to research the subject and "pre-interview" same.

From this comes a brief sketch of the subject and a list of possible questions for whoever does the interviewing on the show.

The "pre-interviews" aren't usually done in the case of the more prominent guests, such as top political figures.

As you might expect, it isn't too hard to persuade most top government and congressional figures to brave the dawn for a live interview on "Today," according to Schulberg.

"They know its impact," he says. "They know that the audience they're talking to is exactly the kind that is interested in serious ideas, is interested in politics and also locally are opinion leaders, generally speaking."

When "Today" calls, he added, "all the top senators you can think of usually rush over. In fact, we often get calls from them saying they'd like to come on and talk about something."

How do you turn them down when they might not have all that much to say, or a major story has broken overnight?

"It's just a matter of tact," Schulberg explained.

The "Today" show, by Schulberg's estimate, costs an average of $100,000 a week to produce. It's paid for by commercials, some of which are read by McGee, Miss Walters, Shalit and Blair.

Doesn't the touting of such wares as dog food, carpets, and cameras by the "Today" cast lessen their credibility as news reporters or, in Shalit's case as an arts and book critic?

Some critics beef about it says Schulberg, but it hasn't affected the show's popularity. He says the practice is a hold over from the days when "Today" was run by NBC's program department and not its news department, as now is the case.

He said the appearance of the "Today" stars in commercials "is extremely important to the program because that identification between the talent and a (commercial) message is desirable from the point of view of the sponsor."

He said commercial offers are rejected "if we don't feel they are compatible with the dignity, honesty or integrity of the cast."

Wouldn't it be wiser to take the cast out of the commercials, or would the sponsors flee? Schulberg recalled the case of John Chancellor, the "Today" host in 1961-62.

"Well, the one time it was tried under Jack Chancellor, who refused categorically to do any commercials, the program very nearly went off the air," he said.

And, he added, when Chancellor's refusal became known, "sponsors did desert the program in droves.

"I take a very realistic and pragmatic view of it. I want this program to succeed and I want it to have the kind of money it requires to do the kind of job we want to do."

His job is "Today" every day

Executive producer Stuart Schulberg prepares to start work on tomorrow's "Today" show at his NBC office in New York moments after spending two hours in the control room of today's "Today" show beginning at 7 a.m. When he isn't on hand at the crack of dawn to see that the long-time morning program goes off just right he's at home watching with a telephone by his side. Pinter sure he will write again

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Harold Pinter talking.

"I'm 43. It's catching up." The tone is as noncommittal as the muted daylight cautiously filtering past curtains into the impersonal monotony of his sleek hotel suite.

Pause.

"As a matter of fact, I'm enjoying life more, somehow ... in certain respects ... these days."

Up early for one of those crack-of-dawn television shows, the noted creator of elusive dramas is braced now for an infrequent journalistic catechism.

"This is one to one," he says. A liaison intermediary departs hurriedly.

"Sure you won't?" he invited as a Dom Perignon vintage cork lets go. "I can use this." A single tumbler fills.

For an intensive, "wonderful year" Pinter has been concentrating on adapting Marcel Proust's massive "Remembrance of Things Past" for movie incarnation by his friend, Joseph Losey. "I expect to be very involved in the making of it." Since writing his last stage play "Old Times" in 1971, he also has attended to screen preparation of his own "The Homecoming" and directing "Butley," a drama by Simon Gra that he previously staged for London and Broadway.

Both pictures are now ready for release among the widely touted eight cinemas scheduled for limited showing in saturation cross-country debut of the American Film Theater project.

During the two years he managed to create one original for British television, a 20-minute monologue entitled "Monologue."

Not that he hasn't tried further writing.

"I'm in something of a desert," he remarks.

Are headline events, social change disturbing his muse?

"I don't think so." Pause. "I don't know why or what the answer is really. You know." Pause. "It's all slightly arid ... at the moment ... my juices, you know, seem to have dried up." Swallow.

He returns to the point while commenting on previous scripts and whether he might write them now in some other way.

"I don't think any of the stories would be different, but I would write them rather in a different way. What I mean, in a certain sense ... I might write them better.

"I do find for example 'The Caretaker' is not economic, spare enough. So now I would be more economic. But I'm sure I'd lose the spring. They did gush then, as though oil wells gushing to the moon.

"I seem to have lost that anyway. The old gush."

Lest that sound defeatist, he hurriedly adds:

"Oh, I'm sure I'll write again, sometime."

Pinter conversation is quiet, searching, polite. His eyebrows go up at a question about dramatic pessimism, and he clings to longstanding insistence that his plays are stories without intended depths for interpretation.

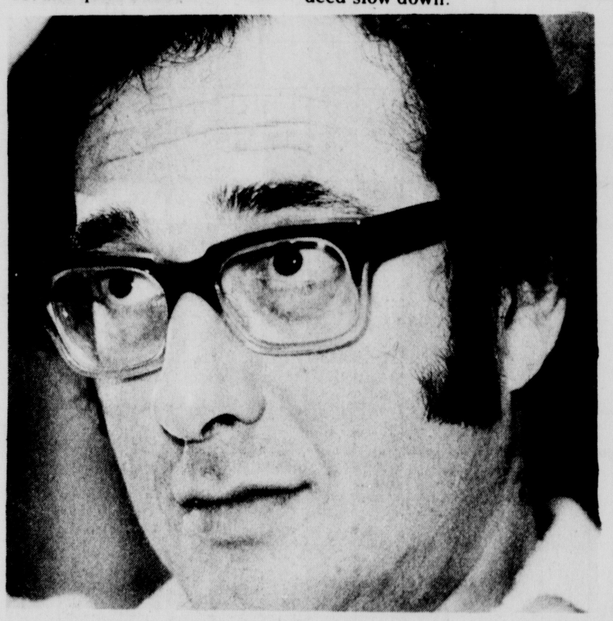
"Do my plays create an impression of an attitude? I suppose so. I don't know what that attitude is myself."

He turns to immediate gratifications.

"For one thing, there's my son Daniel. He's growing up, 15, and quite a fellow ... And I play a lot of cricket, every weekend, an activity I love.

"The funny thing about this whole damn thing is that everything you write ... I feel when writing it that I'm freeing myself from what I've written before. That I'm getting freer. You just end up in another trap afterwards.

"I know I had much more freedom in myself when I was young. Now ... it is much more painstaking. It does indeed slow down.



Pinterish puzzle

"I don't know why or what the answer is really," says Harold Pinter, photographed during a recent interview in New York. The English playwright's latest enigma is a certain drying up of his writing juices, he explains. Meanwhile, he finds he's rather enjoying life at 43. Since writing his last stage play, "Old Times," in 1971, he's prepared his earlier play, "The Homecoming," for the screen, and has directed the movie of "Butley," by Simon Gray, which he'd staged for London and Broadway. And for the last year he's been adapting Proust's "Remembrance of Times Past" for filming by Joseph Losey. (AP)

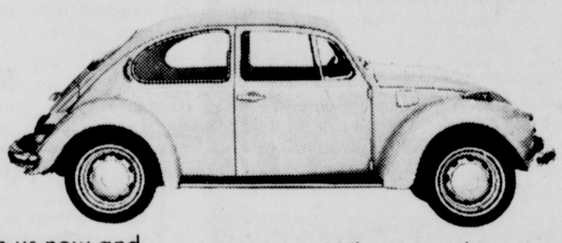
INTRODUCING The 1974 VOLKSWAGEN

— Plus —

Owner's Security Blanket

Buy one now and we'll pay for everything but the gas for one year.



No Kidding.

Buy any new VW from us now and we'll give you a written promise for service and maintenance work for one year or 12,000 miles. whichever comes first.

It covers all the things you'd normally expect to pay for out of your pocket. Oil changes. Tune-ups. Lube jobs. Wiper blades. Hoses. Fuses. Everything. On the house.

The offer is good on any new 1974 VW we make — from the little Beetle to the Big 412. Simply bring your new car back to us for servicing and we'll pay for everything but the gas. Excluding accident and driver abuse damage.

When you buy one, you get covered by our Owner's Security Blanket, the most advanced new car coverage plan in the world. For the first 12 months or 20,000 miles, if anything goes wrong, we'll fix it free.* (If the repair takes overnight, just make an appointment and we'll lend you a car free.)

That's just part of our Owner's Security Blanket.

Come in and we'll tell you more.

VOLKSWAGEN SEDALIA, INC.

620 W. MAIN 826-0400 SEDALIA, MO.

AUTHORIZED DEALER

*For 12 months or 20,000 miles, whichever comes first, in normal use and service we'll fix any defective part except tires and filters on any properly maintained '74 Volkswagen.

People in the news

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Edith Irving, whose husband's attempt to write a bogus biography of Howard Hughes landed her in jail, has been freed pending a new trial.

Mrs. Irving, who was convicted March 8 on a guilty plea, acted as a courier in Swiss bank transactions involving $650,000 in advances given her husband by McGraw-Hill, the New York publisher victimized by the hoax.

Mrs. Irving appealed, contending she was denied benefit of a rule favoring defendants on doubtful points. She said her only motive in helping her husband, Clifford, was to save a faltering marriage. Irving also is in jail.

The new trial could mean a lighter sentence.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Rock singer Jerry Lee Lewis has been jailed, fined and given a probationary term in connection with a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Lewis, 38, pleaded guilty Tuesday. He was fined $50 by City Court Judge John Getz, who also jailed Lewis for four days and put him on 364 days probation.

Lewis was detained by police Oct. 17 after his car swerved as it approached the scene of an accident.

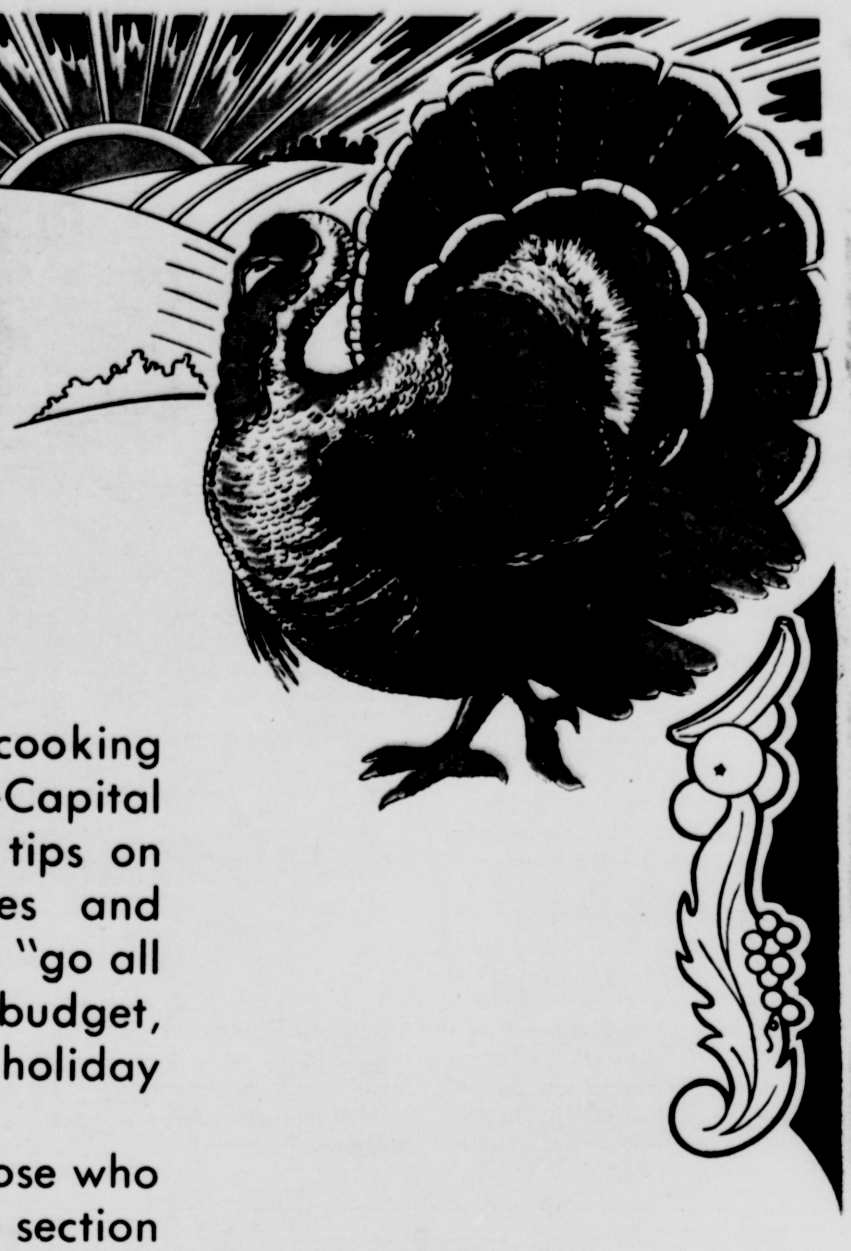
THANKSGIVING



Holiday cooking time

The holiday season just isn't as special without those rich, pretty and often expensive pastries, pies, cakes, sauces and drinks. Yet, with spiraling food costs, the housewife has to conserve somewhere. To save money and still serve varied, interesting and nutritional meals is the problem; the solution is often in short cuts, omissions or substitutions to stand-by recipes.

In this special holiday cooking supplement, Democrat-Capital readers share both their tips on preparing low-cost dishes and also their favorite ways to "go all out" and forget the budget, especially for those holiday occasions.

We wish to thank all those who contributed recipes for the section and hope the section will provide new holiday cooking ideas

Meatless dish comes from Italy

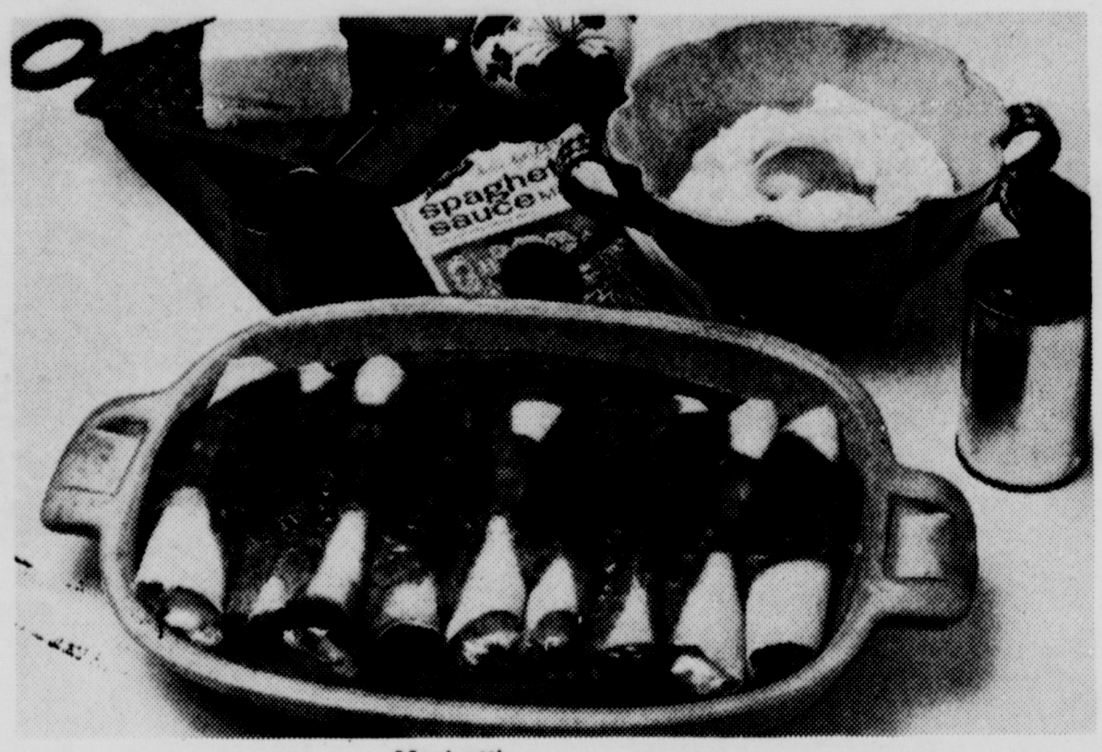
By CECILY BROWNSTONE.
Associated Press Food Editor.

There's an Italian main dish called Manicotti (Little Muffs) that may be made without meat. To concoct it, you wrap thin pancakes around a cheese filling and bake the stuffed pancakes with tomato sauce. In the following recipe the tomato sauce is made the easy way — with a package of spaghetti sauce mix and a can of tomato paste as the base. When we tested this recipe, all our tasters were most enthusiastic about it. It's comparatively inexpensive — fine to serve to family and guests for Sunday night supper.

MANICOTTI

Cheese Filling, see below
Tomato Sauce, see below
Thin Pancakes, see below
¼ cup grated Parmesan Cheese

Prepare Cheese Filling, Tomato Sauce and Thin Pancakes. Spread ¼ cup Cheese Filling down center of each pancake; roll up and place in a 2-quart oblong glass baking dish (11¾ by 7½ by 1¾ inches) or similar utensil. Pour Tomato Sauce over pancakes. Sprinkle with Parmesan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until bubbly hot — 40 to 45 minutes. Maks 5 to 6 servings — 2 stuffed pancakes plus sauce per portion.



Manicotti . . .
. . . pancakes, cheese, tomato

CHEESE FILLING

1 container (15 to 16 ounces) ricotta cheese
4 ounces (½ of an 8-ounce package) Mozzarella cheese grated medium-fine
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon minced parsley
1 egg

Beat together all the ingredients until well mixed.

TOMATO SAUCE

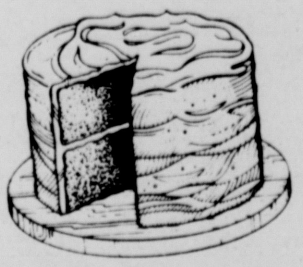
1 envelope (1½ ounces) spaghetti sauce mix
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1¾ cups water

Into a 1-quart saucepan turn all the ingredients. Heat to boiling, stirring often. Simmer 10 minutes, stirring ocssionally.

THIN PANCAKES

4 eggs
¼ cup water
¾ cup unsifted flour, fork-stir to aerate before measuring
¼ teaspoon salt

In a small mixing bowl beat together all the ingredients until smooth. Place a skillet with a rounded bottom (8 inches across top and 6 to 6½ inches across bottom) over low heat until a few drops of water sprinkled in it sizzle and evaporate. For each pancake lightly brush skillet with melted butter or salad oil; pour batter from a ¼-cup measuring cup filled a little over half full (2½ tablespoons) into hot greased skillet, lifting and rotating pan as you pour in order to spread batter over entire bottom of pan. If batter is too thick to spread easily, stir in a little water. Cook over low heat just long to set — about 20 seconds. Turn and cook pancake just long enough to set other side. As pancakes are cooked (they will not be brown) stack them on a plate. Makes 10 to 12.



Real sorghum is cookie secret

Homemade sorghum molasses is the secret to the success of the cookie recipe that won the Best in Show Award at the 1973 Missouri State Fair for Mrs. P. L. Strole, 618 South Barrett.

The recipe for Ginger Crackle Cookies also won a $100 U.S. Savings Bond from the Archway Cookie Co. and will be an entrant in the national competition of that company sometime this month at Battle Creek, Mich., where the first prize will be a $1000 savings bond.

"I always felt like the real sorghum molasses was what makes it good," Mrs. Strole commented. She doesn't know of a place in Pettis County where sorghum is made; she got hers from friends who obtained some from a mill in northern Missouri.

As for the recipe, Mrs. Strole never considered it particularly special. "I have recipes that I have used for years and years, like most housewives do. That's one I've ever used." She makes something every year to take to the Fair and this year happened to strike it lucky. "It was a pleasant surprise to win," she says.

The Ginger Crackle Cookie is a crisp cookie, and "you'll kind of learn how long to bake them" to get the right crispness. Here's the recipe:

GINGER CRACKLE COOKIES

Two thirds cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
¼ cup sorghum
2 cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon powdered ginger
½ teaspoon powdered cloves
Sugar for dipping

Cream shortening with sugar. Beat in egg and molasses. Sift flour with spices, soda and salt. Stir into batter, mixing well. Shape into balls about 1 inch in diameter, or "about the size of a walnut." Mrs. Strole says. Dip top of each cookie in sugar and place on a greased cookie sheet about 2 inches apart. Bake on top rack in oven at 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Yield: 4 to 4½ dozen.

Caramelized sweet potatoes, taste tempting variation

Add culinary creativity...
... caramel sweet potatoes

Though traditional foods do make Thanksgiving a special and unique celebration, there's still opportunity to add your own culinary creativity to the season's favorite fare.

Stuffing the turkey with a different dressing, serving the pumpkin pie in chiffon style and adding new ingredients and flavors to the vegetable dish can make the dinner more fun for you to prepare and for the family to eat.

Sweet potatoes have been on Thanksgiving menus since the Pilgrims and the Indians held the first celebration of this holiday over 300 years ago.

Carameled Sweet Potatoes is an easy-to-prepare casserole dish. It combines the rich flavor of dates with the sweet potato flavor that pleased the palate of the Plymouth pilgrims so long ago. And, it features a caramelized topping made with maple syrup — a special touch that gives the dish holiday flair.

SWEET POTATO CARAMEL
Casserole

½ cup evaporated milk
1 egg
3 cups mashed cooked sweet potatoes
3 tablespoons butter
1 8-ounce package diced dates or whole dates

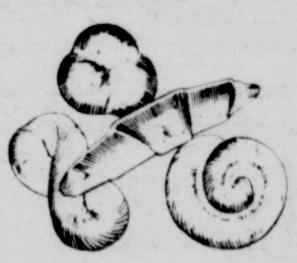
Topping

½ cup maple syrup
¼ cup butter

Add milk and egg to mashed sweet potatoes. Beat well until a smooth paste is formed. Melt three tablespoons butter in a frying pan. Add dates, and saute for two minutes, stirring constantly. Add sweet potato mixture and blend until dates are dispersed. Place in a large casserole dish.

To prepare topping, heat maple syrup and one-fourth cup butter until butter is melted. Pour over the top of the casserole.

Bake at 400 degrees for approximately 40 minutes. Serve topped with a dollop of sour cream and garnished with whole pitted dates. Yield: six generous servings.



There's a warm and happy spirit that fills the air at Christmas and the foods served for this special dinner should reflect it. This is the time to prepare beautiful dishes, to use your finest china and cookware. Is there a chafing dish hiding in the closet? Bring it out, it's just the thing for preparing and serving elegantly beautiful desserts.

Cake, whisky bring warm Scottish spirit

"Heap on more wood! — The wind is chill: But let it whistle as it will. We'll keep our Christmas merry still."

This rhyme, from Sir Walter Scott's renowned narrative poem "Marmion," is an apt expression of the joyous Scottish feeling about the Yuletide. No matter that it's cold and blowy in the highlands. Christmas is a time for celebrating and socializing with good things to eat and drink! Why not make your own Christmas warmer and merrier by sharing some of Scotland's fabled holiday desserts and drinks?

In Scotland, there's extra emphasis on serving and enjoying the very best at Christmas time. That means the favored drink is a fine unblended highland malt whiskey. As you may know, rare unblended highland malt is the original Scotch whiskey and source of the prized flavor in the popular blended Scotch brands. It adds character and zest to such traditional holiday sips as Atholl Brose, the smooth, honeyed Christmas drink . . . Auld Man's Milk, a sort of Scottish eggnog . . .or Highland Hot toddy. Take a tip from connoisseurs — savor the deep, rich tones of a highland malt whiskey after dinner . . . in a snifter. Many "in the know," say that's how it's at its best.

Desserts of Scottish inspiration also shine with holiday spirit. The combination of honey, cream and Scotch whisky, delectable in Atholl Brose, translates into a lilting, luscious mousse, just the thing to lightly cap a substantial Christmas dinner. It's surprisingly quick and easy to put together, and if you bless the bowl with a little Glenfiddich unblended malt whisky, you'll have something truly distinctive.

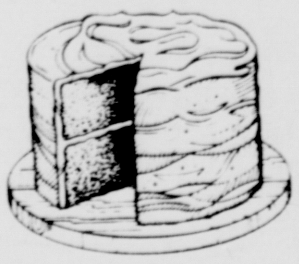
For a new note in holiday cakes, bake a Dundee Cake, Scotland's light fruit and nut cake. Make it easy on yourself with a convenient mix, but add a happy Scottish spirit to holiday entertaining by steeping the fruits and nuts in a good highland malt whisky before folding into the batter. For extra tang and moisture, sprinkle the cake with the same spirit after baking. As you munch the last tender bite, you're bound to agree with Sir Walter Scott's further comment in "Marmion": "Each age has deemed the newborn year. The fittest time for festal cheer."

ATHOLL BROSE

Old recipes for this traditional drink include oatmeal as an ingredient. You won't find oatmeal in this one, but we do suggest serving Atholl Brose with oatmeal cookies. 12 servings.

- ½ cup honey
- 1 cup light cream
- 1¼ cups Scotch whisky
- Grated lemon rind

Pour honey into a small saucepan and warm over very low heat until thinned. Combine with Scotch whisky and cream; mix very well. Cover tightly and chill several hours. Shake or stir well before serving. Sprinkle each portion with a little grated lemon rind.



ATHOLL BROSE MOUSSE

- 1 package lemon-flavor gelatin dessert
- 1 cup boiling water
- ¼ cup honey
- ¼ cup Scotch whisky
- ½ cup cold water
- ½ cup heavy cream, whipped

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in honey; add Scotch whisky and cold water. Chill until thick and almost set. Beat until very foamy. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into individual dessert dishes or into a serving bowl. Chill until firm. 6-8 servings.

DUNDEE CAKE

- ¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons Scotch whisky
- ½ cup raisins
- ½ cup halved candied cherries
- ½ cup chopped blanched almonds
- 1 package butter receipt yellow cake mix
- ¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
- ½ cup water
- 3 eggs

Combine ¼ cup Scotch whisky with raisins, cherries and almonds; let stand about an hour. Sprinkle with ¼ cup of dry cake mix and stir lightly. Prheat oven to 350 degrees F. Generously grease and flour a Bundt pan or a 10 inch tube pan. Empty remaining cake mix into a mixing bowl and combine with butter, water and eggs as package directs. Fold in fruit-nut mixture. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake about 1 hour or until cake is golden brown and pulled away from sides of pan. Cool cake on rack for 10 minutes, remove from pan and sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons whisky. Cool completely before slicing.

AULD MAN'S MILK

- 2 oz. Scotch whisky
- ½ oz. orange liqueur
- 1 cup hot milk
- 1 egg beaten
- 1 teaspoon sugar

Combine all ingredients in a warmed cocktail shaker and shake briskly. Strain into warmed mugs. 2 servings.

HIGHLAND HOT TODDY

- 1½ oz. Scotch whisky
- 1 teaspoon honey
- Boiling water
- Lemon slice, cinnamon stick — for garnish

Combine Scotch whisky and honey in a small, heavy, old fashioned glass. Add boiling water and garnish with lemon slice and cinnamon stick. 1 serving.

Holiday cheer

Holiday cheer to warm the spirit, no matter how cold and blowy it may be outdoors. Bring a little Scottish spirit into your house with Dunedee cake.

Make your own cranberry juice

Homemade cranberry juice...
...a delicious brew

By CECILY BROWNSTONE.
Associated Press Food Editor.

DEAR CECILY: I would appreciate a recipe for making pure cranberry juice for drinking purposes. I read your recipe in the paper for preserving cranberry jelly. I made some and it was very successful.—MAN COOK.

DEAR MAN COOK: Here's the recipe you want—as pure as it can possibly be made.—C.B.

HOMEMADE CRANBERRY JUICE .....

1-pound package (about 4 cups) cranberries, fresh or frozen
4 cups water
2-3rds to 1 cup sugar

Rinse cranberries in cold water and turn into a large saucepan; add water; bring to a boil and boil until cranberries pop and are soft—15 minutes. Strain cranberries with their liquid through a food mill, then strain again through a fine sieve to remove seeds. Pour juice into a saucepan; add sugar; bring to a full boil; spoon off foam. Refrigerate and use within a few days, diluting—if desired—with water. Or freeze or can juice following directions below. Makes about 1¼ quarts.

TO FREEZE ... CRANBERRY JUICE ...

Chill juice. Wash 5 half-pint wide-mouth freezing jars in hot soapy water; rinse, drain and cool. Wash and rinse lids and bands. Place lids in a small saucepan and pour boiling water over them; let stand off heat until ready to use. Fill jars with cranberry juice, leaving 1-inch headspace. Wipe sealing edge and threads of jars with a clean damp cloth. Put lids on jars; screw bands very tight. Place jars upright in freezer until frozen, then arrange in any desired position.

TO CAN CRANBERRY JUICE

Before beginning the preparation of Cranberry Juice, prepare a boiling-water bath. An ordinary covered pot with a rack in the bottom may be used. The rack should hold the jars about ½-inch above the bottom of the pot and it should be deep enough for water to cover the jars at least 1 inch over the top without boiling over. Add water to the pot and heat so that the water can be coming to a boil while the cranberry juice is being prepared. After straining the berries and before bringing the juice and sugar to a boil, wash in hot soapy water 5 half-pint wide-mouth canning jars, lids and bands; rinse and drain. Place lids in a small saucepan and pour boiling water over them; let stand off heat until ready to use.

Bring cranberry juice with sugar to a boil; spoon off foam. Pour boiling-hot cranberry juice into jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Wipe sealing edge and threads of jars with a clean damp cloth. Put lids on jars and screw bands very tight. Using a jar lifter, lower jars into boiling-water bath. Cover pan and when water returns to a full rolling boil, start counting time. Process 10 minutes. Remove jars from bath and place 2 or 3 inches apart on a rack or several thicknesses of cloth; let cool completely. Test for seal. If center of lid is down or stays down when pressed, jar is properly sealed. Remove bands if you like; bands may be reused, but do not reuse lids. Wipe and store jars in cool dark dry place.

Hearty salad fits a budget

By CECILY BROWNSTONE.
Associated Press Food Editor.

For a lunch or supper main dish that uses foods that are widely available and comparatively inexpensive we suggest this hearty Seaside Salad. With the salad serve potato chips and pickle slices (for something crunchy) and iced tea.

To make 2 quarts of iced tea (enough for 10 servings) bring 1 quart of cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat and add 15 teabags or 1-3rd cup loose tea. Stir again and strain into a pitcher holding 1 quart cold water; cover and let stand at room temperature to help prevent tea from clouding. When ready to serve, if tea has clouded, just add a little boiling water to restore its clarity; pour into ice-filled glasses.

SEASIDE SALAD

1 package (8 ounces) small macaroni shells
2 cans (each 7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
1-3rd cup finely chopped onion
1 cup thinly sliced (diagonally) celery
1 green pepper, seeded and cut in thin short strips
1 cup pitted ripe olives, sliced

In step with the times...
...macaroni and tuna

1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup commercial sour cream
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper

Cook macaroni according to package directions adding a little salad oil to keep separated; drain and chill. Mix with tuna, egg, onion, celery, green pepper and olives. With a whisk or a fork beat together the remaining ingredients; toss with macaroni-tuna mixture. Cover and chill until serving time Garnish with salad greens. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Try your hand at intricate, elegant dish

If you prefer a more intricate and elegant dessert, try your hand at Steamed Pudding with Eggnog Sauce. The pudding is rich with the flavors of raisins, currants, citrus, figs, almonds and spices laced with Madeira wine. This mixture is first heated, then refrigerated, then baked, with delightful results. It's served warm with a light Eggnog Sauce. In your chafing dish over canned heat you beat together light cream, egg yolks, sugar and Madeira wine. The sauce is a frothy one and such a perfect complement to the rich Steamed Pudding.

STEAMED PUDDING WITH EGGNOG SAUCE

1 cup ground suet
1½ cups fine dry bread crumbs
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup raisins
½ cup currants
¼ cup chopped candied orange peel
¼ cup chopped candied lemon peel
¼ cup chopped candied citron
3 tablespoons chopped candied ginger
¼ cup chopped dried figs
¼ cup chopped blanched almonds
Two-thirds cup sugar
Grated rind of 1 orange
Juice of 1 orange (one-third cup)
Grated rind of 1 lemon
Juice of 1 lemon (3 tablespoons)
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
1¼ cups Madeira wine or sherry
6 eggs, beaten

In a large saucepan mix all ingredients except eggs. Place over very low heat, cover, and heat, stirring frequently, for 30 to 45 minutes. (This blends and develops flavors but does not cook the mixture.) Remove from heat and refrigerate for 24 hours. Remove from refrigerator and let stand for 2 hours to bring to room temperature. Add eggs and mix well. Turn into a well-greased and floured 6-cup pudding mold, cover tightly, and place in a large kettle. Add water to ½ the depth of the mold; bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer for 4½ hours, adding water as needed. Remove pudding from kettle, uncover, and let stand for 10 minutes. Turn out of mold and cool for 5 minutes. Serve with Eggnog Sauce.

YIELD: 12 to 15 servings.

EGGNOG SAUCE

2 cups light cream
4 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
Pinch of salt
2 tablespoons Madeira wine or sherry

Pour cream into 2-quart chafing dish. Place chafing dish over canned heat. Scald cream. Beat egg yolks with sugar and salt; gradually beat into scalded cream, using a wire whisk. Cook, beating vigorously with whisk or portable electric mixer for about 5 minutes, until sauce is thickened and foamy. Add Madeira; cook 1 minute longer. Serve immediately or keep warm over very low flame.

Try taffy pulling for old-fashioned treat

Teenagers and little children, too, love old-fashioned treats. For the holidays, try a taffy pull with the candy made the authentic way with molasses.

TAFFY PULL CANDY

1 cup molasses
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter

Combine unsulphured molasses, sugar, butter in a 2-quart saucepan. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to boil. Boil until temperature on candy thermometer reaches 272 degrees or when small amount of syrup dropped in cold water forms a hard ball. Remove from heat. Pour onto greased platter. Fold in as edges cool. When mixture is cool enough to handle, pull until light in color. Roll into long rope ½-inch thick. Cut into 1-inch pieces. Wrap pieces in individual pieces of waxed paper or transparent plastic wrap. YIELD: 1 pound.

New: turkey steak, sweet-sour turkey

Today's shopper and housewife is looking for a meat that will stand up to the demands of her family. Does it have the necessary proteins, vitamins, and yet keep the fat level down? Is it something her family likes to eat? Is it readily available and most important ... can she afford it? Meat has always been a main part of the American diet, and trends indicate it will become ever more so in the years to come. What is the answer?

There is one simple answer, serve turkey more often. That's right, turkey. Turkey provides excellent amounts of protein, vitamins, while keeping fats at a minimum. It is available in many convenient forms, from whole turkeys to parts. Some of the latest developments are turkey steaks, cutlets and ground turkey.

The hottest turkey product as of right now ... ground turkey. Ground, dark turkey is a most interesting ground meat that is being used in most dishes that call for other ground meat. Economically priced and high in protein and low in fat, it has become a delight for many homemakers ... especially dieters.

So for the family who is trying to save on their food dollar and yet get all the benefits from a tasty, high protein meat diet ... look toward turkey.

Try one of these economical turkey recipes:

STUFFED TURKEY LOAF

2 pounds ground turkey
½ cup chopped onion
¾ cup chopped celery
¼ cup butter
3 cups prepared stuffing mix
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup water
½ cup tomato juice

Brown onion and celery in butter in medium hot skillet. Combine with stuffing mix, eggs and water to make a stuffing. Add half of stuffing to ground turkey, mixing well. Pat out half of meat mixture in a two-quart loaf pan (4½ x 8½ x 3 inches), spread with stuffing, then top with remaining meat mixture. Pour tomato juice over loaf and bake at 350 degrees for 1½ hours. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

TURKEY WINGS SWEET 'N SOUR

4 turkey wings (4-5 lbs)
2 tablespoons cooking oil
½ cup water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
One-third cup brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup catsup or chili sauce
4 cups hot fluffy rice (1-one-third cups uncooked)

Disjoint turkey wings at both joints. Wash, pat dry, and brown well in hot fat in skillet; drain off excess fat. Add water, lower heat and cover; simmer turkey wings for about 2 hours or until tender.

Remove wings from skillet and measure drippings; add enough turkey stock or water to make ¾ cup and return to skillet. Combine cornstarch, brown sugar, vinegar, soy sauce, and catsup and blend until smooth. Stir into turkey drippings and cook and stir until thick and smooth. Add turkey wings and heat through. Serve wings on hot fluffy rice and pass additional sweet-sour sauce. Makes 4 servings.

SPANISH TURKEY LEGS

2 turkey drumsticks (about 3 lbs.)
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
1 small green pepper, slivered
1 cup fresh chopped or canned tomatoes
1 cup water
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
6 stuffed olives, sliced (if desired)
2 cups dry noodles

Wash drumsticks and pat dry with paper towel. Brown on all sides in hot oil in heavy skillet. Stir in celery, onion, and green pepper, and saute lightly. Add tomatoes, water, bay leaf, and salt; simmer, covered, for 2 hours, or until turkey meat is tender. Add olives and noodles, cover and simmer for 20 minutes or until noodles are tender, adding more liquid if necessary. Separate meat from turkey legs, discarding the bones, and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Mulled tea punch, mincemeat cake please

Entertaining at Christmas includes all kinds of gatherings, from inviting in the college crowd on the spur-of-the-moment to an open house that takes weeks of planning. Whatever the occasion, when you're serving more than a drink but less than a meal, plan something special. Like a spicy Mulled Tea Punch and a rich-tasting Holiday Mincemeat Cake.

The punch is a deep ruby red color. It combines the mellow fruity taste of tawny port wine with the orange and spice flavor of tea.

For this recipe, you can use either loose tea which many tea connoisseurs prefer, or the more convenient tea bags. Devotees of this original American tea blend should know that it is the only tea available in five forms — loose tea, tea bags, instant tea, iced tea mix and a hot tea and toddy mix. The latter is particularly appropriate for the upcoming winter months when a warm tea drink helps chase the chills away.

Serve this distinctive tea refreshment from a pretty punch bowl. Festoon the base with Christmas greenery and holly. Ring the candles and cake plate with more of the same. For an imaginative hostess touch, float thin slices of lemon studded with cloves on the punch.

For a different way of presenting the Holiday Mincemeat Cake, cut it into bite-size cubes, top each with half a candied cherry or pecan and arrange on a gleaming silver cake plate or platter.

And a reminder for your gift shopping list: those people who seem to have everything would certainly be pleased to receive attractively packaged specialty teas. Select several of the more unusual varieties such as fragrant Jasmine, hearty Irish or English Breakfast tea or the famed Earl Grey tea which English aristocrats made famous.

For those who enjoy a wide range of tea flavors, bouquets and colors, choose the library gift package. These gift packages of fine teas are available in specialty food and gift shops and department stores. The complete variety without the special gift packaging is also available in supermarkets.

Tea-wine punch

When you've invited friends in during the holidays, offer bite-sized cubes of this festive holiday mincemeat cake with glass cups of ruby red Mulled Tea Punch. Guests will relax and enjoy themselves with this mellow tea and port wine combination.

MULLED TEA PUNCH

(Makes about 4 quarts)

- 2 quarts water
- 6 tablespoons loose orange and spice-flavored tea (or 18 tea bags)
- ¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 quarts tawny or ruby port wine

Bring water to a boil in large pot or Dutch oven. Add tea and steep for 10 minutes. Strain tea or remove tea bags and stir in sugar; add wine. Heat punch until piping hot. Pour into punch bowl which has been rinsed with hot water, or other server. Float clove-studded lemon slices on top. Ladle into punch cups or mugs.

HOLIDAY MINCEMEAT CAKE

(Makes a 9-inch cake)

- 2 cups prepared mincemeat
- 2 cups chopped pecans
- ¼ cup orange juice
- ¼ cup dark rum or brandy
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¾ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg

Confectioner's sugar

In large bowl, mix the mincemeat, pecans, orange juice, rum, orange peel, vanilla, buttermilk and mayonnaise. Sift together all remaining ingredients except confectioners' sugar; stir into mincemeat mixture.

Blend thoroughly; pour into a greased and floured 9-inch tube pan. Bake in a preheated 325 degrees oven for 2 hours. Cool in pan for 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool thoroughly on rack. Just before serving, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Garnish with cherries and slivered almonds.

Chestnut dessert with ice cream

A simple, yet elegant holiday treat is Marron Dessert, a chestnut confection served over coffee or vanilla ice cream. You can make this dish up in no time, right at the table. Just heat halved marrons in a chafing dish with their syrup, lemon juice, brandy and grated lemon rind. And that's all there is to it. You serve this heated mixture over ice cream for marvelously rich flavor. Lemon juice cuts down the sweetness of the syrup so that the rich flavor of the marrons complements the smooth ice cream flavor beautifully.

MARRON DESSERT

- 2 jars (10 ounces each) marrons in vanilla or brandy syrup
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon brandy
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 quart coffee or vanille ice cream

Drain marrons and reserve syrup. Cut marrons in half and place in crepe pan or chafing dish over canned heat. Add reserved syrup, lemon juice, brandy and rind. Heat. Serve over ice cream.

YIELD: 8 servings.

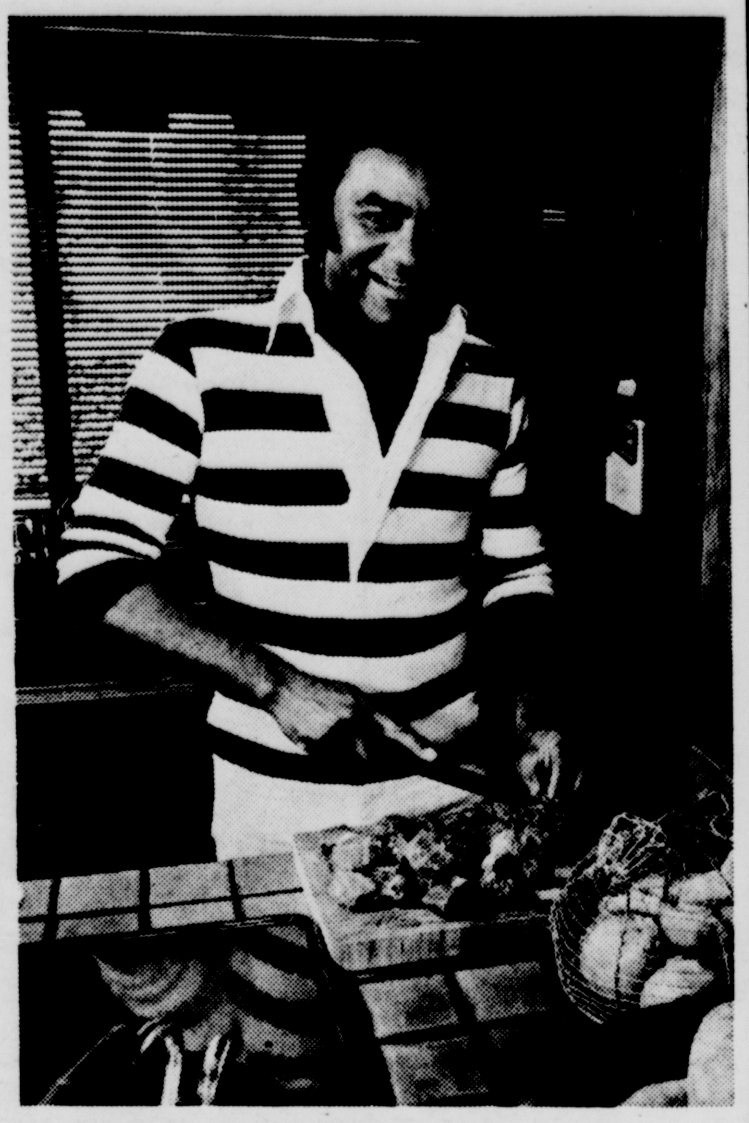
Entertainer Johnny Mathis has budget-wise dish

Don't expect the usual when Columbia recording star Johnny Mathis is in the kitchen. He likes to cook and eat a variety of foods, all of which take talent and imagination to prepare. Would you believe beef stew for a holiday party dinner? Why not? Johnny's recipe is for a hearty, balanced meal that delights the taste buds with unexpected ingredients like okra, doubtless an inheritance from his Oklahoma-raised mother.

To those who know him, the fact that this is also an inexpensive way to entertain might seem incidental or even out of character. Johnny Mathis lives in a Hollywood dream house custom-designed from miniature wine cellar to mammoth indoor swimming pool. He entertains generously for his friends and family, maintains homes here and abroad. However, this legendary singing star knows very well how to cook on a budget. He was raised in San Francisco with six brothers and sisters. Both of his parents cooked, and taught the children to cook as well. "Mustard greens and neck bones are great for the budget," Johnny recalls, "but you can't eat them all the time."

At his ranch near Santa Barbara, Johnny Mathis raises black angus cattle. Will any of them find their way to the dinner table? Not a chance. They'll die on the hoof," he says fondly, and one gets the impression that he knows each of them by name.

A man of total warmth and honesty, Johnny Mathis immerses himself completely in everything he does — whether it's planning a European concert tour, or a home-cooked dinner for six consisting of this favorite stew. Try it. Give yourself and your budget a holiday from the usual Christmas fare with this stew with its rich yet zingy flavor.



Western-style beef stew

A holiday from the usual Christmas fare, Johnny Mathis' Western Style Beef Stew, a hearty and nourishing people-sized meal, good for any part of the country. Ingredients include okra, doubtless an inheritance from his Oklahoma-raised mother.

WESTERN STYLE BEEF STEW

(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

- 3 ponds beef knuckle and shank soup bones
- 5 cups water
- 2 pounds cubed beef stew meat
- 2 cups chopped onions
- 4 cups peeled, 1-inch cubed potatoes
- 1 can (28 ounces) drained round peeled tomatoes
- 1 can (17 ounces) drained whole kernel corn
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen okra
- 1 cup water
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon salt

Place bones and 5 cups water in 5-quart saucepan or Dutch oven. Boil 30 minutes, uncovered. Add meat. Simmer, uncovered, 1 hour or until meat is tender. Remove bones. Skim off any foam. Remove marrow from bones and add to saucepan. Add onions, potatoes, drained tomatoes, drained corn, okra, 1 cup water, pepper and salt. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Serve with San Francisco sourdough bread.

How to make popcorn balls

As old-fashioned as decking the halls with holly are homemade Popcorn Balls, sweet and glistening with molasses. Here's the way to make this grand old Christmas confection.

POPCORN BALLS

- 1 cup molasses
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon margarine
- 4 quarts unsalted popped corn

Combine molasses, sugar and margarine in a 2-quart saucepan. Place over low heat and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cook over medium heat until syrup, when dropped in very cold water, separates into threads which are hard but not brittle (270 degrees on candy thermometer). Pour syrup over popped corn, stirring to coat each kernel. When cool enough to handle, shape into balls with lightly buttered hands. Wrap each ball in waxed paper. YIELD: Approximately 2 dozen balls.

Double-Oven Gas Ranges with woodtone trim, even around the upper oven window the built-in spot remover / it works continuous cleaning

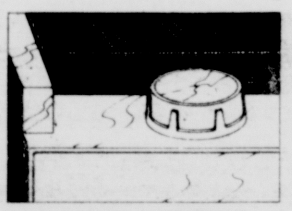
Both ovens on this Magic Chef range keep cleaning themselves while you cook. Spillovers, food and grease spatters disappear gradually during normal baking and roasting. Oven liners tend not to become really dirty because they are continually being cleaned.

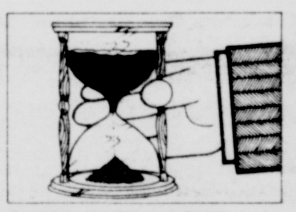
Model No. 233W-6BLW

These and other ideas help take the work out of cooking:

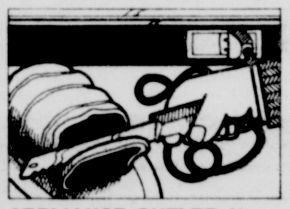
OVEN WINDOW AND LIGHT. Let you see what's cooking without losing oven heat and kitchen cool. Use exterior switch to light up without opening up.



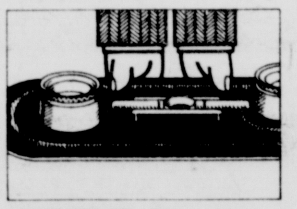
TOP FRONT CONTROLS. So you can read them easily. And so they're more difficult for tiny fingers to reach up and turn on. Styled for visibility.



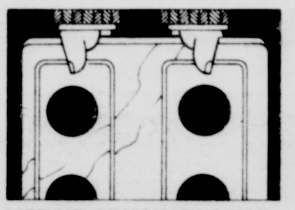
CLOCK WITH 1-HOUR TIMER. So you won't forget about what's cooking. Or when to start cooking. Or even what time to pick up the children.



APPLIANCE OUTLET. No kitchen has enough outlets . . . so we give you one right where you need it most. Controlled by the range timer, too. Very handy.



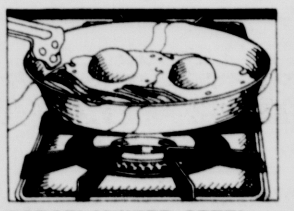
UNI-BURNER. The space-age burner. Better flame control than conventional burners. Easier to operate. Even includes a built-in drip tray.



LIFT-UP REMOVABLE TOP. Clean the under-burner area without obstruction. And take the range top to the sink, where the cleanin' is easy.

FLUORESCENT COOKTOP LIGHT. To brighten your kitchen. To make cooking a sunnier activity. And it can be a night-light for little people.

BIG 25"-WIDE OVEN. Why should meal preparation be a two- or three-step affair? We give you plenty of room to cook everything at one time.



PORCELAINIZED STEEL GRATES. Don't go to pieces every time you drop one. Meet in the middle so you can slide pots from front to back, too.

Dinner by the fireside

Have Christmas dinner by your fireside with a charcoal grilled turkey breast and ember roasted acorn squash.

Use any of the small, portable grills in a well-ventilated fireplace and enjoy the good flavor of food cooked over charcoal year around.

Fireside feast: charcoal turkey

This Christmas try something a little different for the traditional family meal. Gather the family around hearthside and charcoal grill part of the meal right in the fireplace. It makes an especially warm and cozy gathering for the smaller family.

The techniques for charcoal cookery in the fireplace are simple and let you enjoy the delicious flavor of foods cooked over charcoal briquets all year around. Special charcoal grills are manufactured for use in the fireplace. The grill and firebox or pan are attached to a pole that adjusts to fit in the fireplace opening. But any of the smaller grills that will fit in your fireplace may be used including hibachis, the smaller models of the kettle cookers and the portable grills.

Fireplace chefs would do well to note a few tips from the experts. Adequate ventilation is a must for all charcoal grilling, so make sure the fireplace flue or draft is open and the smoke goes up the chimney. To light the briquets, use either a liquid or solid starter or an electric type starter. Never use gasoline or kerosene. After lighting the charcoal never remove it from the fireplace. When you're finished grilling either let the coals burn out in the grill firebox or empty the live coals out in the fireplace to use as a base for starting a wood fire.

For the fireside Christmas dinner, try a turkey breast, a nice change from a whole turkey. Most turkey breasts are found in the frozen meat section of the supermarket and range in size from 3 to 10 pounds. For the larger 8-10 pound breast, simply fillet it or remove it from the breast bone on either side.

The boned breast is wrapped in bacon and grilled very slowly over a bed of coals. The key to juicy, tender turkey breast is to grill it slowly. If there is room, while the turkey is cooking, do double duty with the lighted briquets and cook the squash too. Place the whole squash right on the coals and let them cook, turning often, and the flavor is simply delicious.

Grilled Turkey Breast

(Makes 8 to 10 Servings)

1 turkey breast, about 8 pounds
Salt and pepper
½ pound sliced bacon

Cut through skin along both sides of the breast bone and remove breast meat. Follow contour of carcass, taking off as much meat as possible in two large pieces. (Simmer bone in water with seasonings and use for soup stock, gravies, etc.)

Sprinkle each piece of turkey with salt and pepper. Wrap bacon strips around each piece and secure bacon with skewers.

Grill about 8 inches from low coals for 1 hour. Turn occasionally with tongs. Turkey is done when lightly browned and tender. Check for doneness by cutting a small slit in largest part of meat.

Note: Turkey breasts vary in size from about 3 pounds to 12 pounds. For a small turkey breast (under 4 pounds) crack breast bone, flatten meat and grill in one piece. Time will vary with the size and thickness of the breast. If using a large frozen turkey breast which has been thawed, cook both breast pieces. Leftover cooked turkey may be served cold for sandwiches, used in casseroles or wrapped tightly and refrozen.

Different brands of charcoal give off varying degrees of heat. To test the temperature of a charcoal briquet fire, it is recommended that you cautiously hold your hand, palm side down, just above the grill. Judge temperature by number of seconds hand can be kept in position. For this recipe a low temperature is desired. Your hand should be kept in position for five seconds.

To lower temperature of charcoal fire, raise grill or separate coals. To raise temperature, tap the outer gray layer from coals and push coals closer together. If more coals are needed, add them to outer edge of hot coals.

Ember roasted acorn squash

Place acorn squash in coals, leaving a few briquets to surround each. Turn frequently with tongs until fork tender, about 1 hour, 15 minutes.

When cooked, remove from coals; cut in half and remove seeds. Serve immediately with butter, salt and pepper. About 1 tablespoon of maple syrup may be added to each squash half. Allow one acorn squash for 2 servings.

Celery . . .
. . . neglected vegetable

Cooked celery is forgotten vegetable

Celery is a vegetable as common in the home as onions and potatoes. And yet, it is often neglected as a cooked vegetable. Most of us keep it on hand to chop into tuna or potato salad, or perhaps the poultry dressing. But when was the last time you served your family cooked celery?

Braised Fresh Celery Medley combines fresh celery with other vegetables in a delicate cream sauce. Buttery crumbs and shredded Cheddar cheese add extra flavor and texture. This handsome dish is a perfect vegetable accompaniment to your next roast leg of lamb or standing rib of beef.

BRAISED FRESH CELERY MEDLEY

4 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
1 cup beef bouillon
3 cups julienne strips celery
1 cup julienne strips carrot
1 cup fresh green beans, halved
1 cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan. Add beef bouillon and bring to a boil. Add celery and carrot strips. Cover and cook 5 minutes. Add green beans. Cover and cook 5 minutes longer. Drain, reserving liquid for sauce. Place vegetables in a 1-quart casserole. Add Cream Sauce. Mix remaining 2 tablespoons butter with bread crumbs and sprinkle over top. Bake in 350 degree F oven for 15 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese and bake another 5 to 10 minutes.

Makes: 6 servings.

Cream Sauce

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
Vegetable liquid plus milk to make 1 cup
½ teaspoon salt
One-sixteenth teaspoon pepper

Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in flour. Stir in vegetable liquid and milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Season with salt and pepper.

Ease holiday food costs

Entertaining friends and relatives is always a special part of the holidays, but it can also be expensive, especially with today's higher food prices.

When planning a shopping trip to the supermarket, it's wise to keep a few guidelines in mind — not just for the holidays, but all year 'round:

— Plan menus carefully and completely in advance. For holiday guests, be sure to include party goods and beverages.

— Prepare a shopping list and try to stick to it.

— Determine how much money you have to spend and stay within your budget.

— When practical, shop around to find the best prices, but don't burn up your food savings in gasoline.

— Don't shop when you're hungry — everything will look good and you'll buy items you don't need.

Almond, herb . . .
. . .makes broccoli treat

New sauce makes broccoli treat

For a company or family dinner you can easily dress up broccoli with an herb-flavored cream sauce containing crunchy chopped almonds.

To split whole almonds for the garnish, warm them first in the oven; when they are cool enough to handle, you can split them easily with the tip of a knife.

BROCCOLI WITH ALMOND-HERB SAUCE

- 2 cups water
- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen broccoli
- Salt
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon savory
- ⅛ teaspoon oregano
- ¼ cup minced parsley
- ¼ cup chopped almonds
- 1½ teaspoons lemon juice
- ¼ cup whole blanched almonds

Add water and salt to broccoli in large saucepan; bring quickly to boil, then cook gently 10 minutes or until tender-crisp. Drain, saving 1 cup liquid. Transfer to platter; keep warm. Melt butter in saucepan; mix in flour, ½ teaspoon salt, savory, oregano and parsley. Cook and stir until bubbly; add broccoli water and cook, stirring, until mixture boils and thickens. Add almonds and lemon juice; heat through. Pour over broccoli. Garnish with whole blanched almonds that have been split into halves and roasted in a lightly oiled pan.

Makes 4 servings.

Moravian cookies are authentic

Thin, crisp, spicy are Moravian Cookies, an authentic specialty brought from Moravia during the eighteenth century when the colonists came to this country, driven by religious persecution. The Moravians brought us many beautiful customs. Even today in Pennsylvania, "seeing the Putz" is an annual Christmas custom. The Putz is an elaborate manger scene made with heirloom wood carvings, each scene varied according to the craftsmanship of the builder. Moravian Cookies are traditionally made with molasses, and so are Gingerbread Boy Cookies, another delightful specialty from Europe. To make your holiday celebration more authentic, use these two recipes:

MORAVIAN COOKIES

- 1 cup molasses
- ½ cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1¾ teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- ½ teaspoon ground cloves
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg

Heat molasses to boiling in saucepan large enough for mixing cookies. Remove from heat; stir in shortening and baking soda. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and spices; blend into molasses mixture. Chill 8 hours or overnight. Roll out dough one-sixteenth-inch thick on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Cut with cookie cutter. Place on lightly greased baking sheet and bake in 350 degree oven 5 to 7 minutes. YIELD: About 6½ dozen cookies.

GINGERBREAD BOY COOKIES

- ½ cup shortening
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup molasses
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg

Cream together shortening, sugar and molasses. Add egg yolk, mix well. Sift together flour, salt, baking powder, baking soda and spices. Stir in flour mixture; mix well. Chill. To make gingerbread boys, roll out a portion of the dough ¼-inch thick on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. (Keep remaining dough chilled.) Cut with 5-inch gingerbread boy cookie cutter; place on ungreased baking sheets and decorate with raisins or nuts, if desired. Bake in 350 degree oven 8 to 10 minutes. Cool. Decorate with Ornamental Frosting, below. YIELD: 2 dozen 5-inch gingerbread boys.

Ornamental Frosting

Sift together 1¼ cups sifted confectioners' sugar and ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar. Add 1 egg white and ¼ teasppon vanilla. Beat with rotary or electric beater until frosting holds its shape.

Seafoods say 'happy holiday'

Ever-popular fish . . .
. . . traditional at Christmas

Although fish and shellfish are universally popular the year around, many countries have favorite seafood recipes that are a traditional part of their "Twelve Days of Christmas" celebrations.

An imaginary tour to sample selected international seafood favorites starts in Denmark with Sild Agurk Snitter, or Herring Cucumber Canapes and the Christmas greeting: "Glaedelig Jul!" The Danes love Christmas, and among their traditions are a julenag for birds (a sheaf of corn hung up on a pole), and herring served in a sour cream sauce with crisp cucumber slices on party rye bread. This canape from Copenhagen will add a dashing Danish twist to your holiday entertaining.

Next stop for an appetizer is Germany, the land of Christmas trees, where we are saluted with: "Froehliche Weinhnachten!" Their specialty is Krevetten In Bier, or Shrimp In Beer. Appetites tingle with this new continental combination of protein-rich shrimp in a spicy sauce made interesting with beer and lemon juice. You'll be the liebchen of the cocktail crowd with this unique seafood appetizer.

In France the late Christmas Eve supper is known as le reveillon, and one of the favorites served might be Oeufs Farcis Au Anguille Poisson, or Eggs Stuffed With Smoked Fish. Similar to our American standby, stuffed or deviled eggs, the French version with smoked fish has a new flavor par excellence.

"God Jul och Ett Gott Nytt Ar" is the way Sweden says "Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year." Scandinavia is renowed as the home of the smorgasbord which is particularly festive during the holidays. The indispensable food on this occasion is Lutefisk, or Dried Codfish, prepared in their own special way. These hearty seafaring adventurers have shared their treasured recipe with us. Give it a try, and serve with lingonberries or our own native cranberries.

There's no place like home for the holidays! Our quick tour is over and we are anticipating happy reunions with families and friends. Get-togethers and Holiday Oyster Stew are American traditions, and a stew that's easy-to-do will perk up any occasion. Fish and shellfish in their myriad forms bring a refreshing sparkle to the bustling holiday season; they are also wonderful time-savers for the busy on-the-go shopper.

SILD AGURK SNITTER
(Herring Cucumber Canapes)

1 jar (12 ounces) herring in sour cream
1 large cucumber
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups ice water
1 loaf (8 ounces) party rye bread
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Paprika

Wash cucumber. Score cucumber by running a sharp-tined fork down the length of the cucumber from end to end. Cut crosswise into very thin slices. Place in a bowl. Pour salted ice water over cucumbers and let stand 30 minutes to crisp. Drain on absorbent paper. Spread bread with butter. Overlap 2 slices cucumber on each slice of bread. Top cucumber with 1 large or 2 small pieces of herring. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes approximately 24 canapes.

KREVETTEN IN BIER
(Shrimp in Beer)

2 pounds shrimp, fresh or frozen
3 tablespoons chopped onion
¼ cup melted fat or oil
2 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup beer or ale
3 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon liquid hot pepper sauce
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 small bay leaf
2 teaspoons chopped parsley

Thaw frozen shrimp. Peel shrimp, remove sand veins, and rinse with cold water. Cook onion in fat until tender. Add shrimp and cook for 3 to 5 minutes or until shrimp are pink, stirring frequently. Blend in flour and salt. Add beer, lemon juice, and hot pepper sauce; cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add thyme and bay leaf; cook over low heat 5 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Remove bay leaf. Sprinkle with parsley. Serve hot as an appetizer or entree. Serves 6.

OEUFS FARCIS AU ANGUILLE POISSON
(Eggs Stuffed with Smoked Fish)

1 pound smoked whitefish or other smoked fish
12 hard-cooked eggs
two-thirds cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
Dash pepper
Paprika

Remove skin and bones from fish. Flake the fish. Remove shells from eggs. Cut eggs in half lengthwise and remove the yolks. Force yolks through a fine sieve. Combine all ingredients except egg whites and paprika. Fill egg whites with fish mixture. Sprinkle with paprika. Chill. Makes 24 appetizers.

LUTEFISK
(Dried Codfish)

3 pounds lutefisk, fresh or frozen
3 quarts boiling water
3 tablespoons salt
Butter or margarine, melted
Lingonberries or whole cranberry sauce

Thaw frozen lutefisk. Soak in cold water in a covered container in the refrigerator for 24 hours. Drain. Skin fish and cut into 2-inch pieces. Wrap fish loosely in cheesecloth and place in boiling salted water. Cover and simmer for 5 to 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Drain. Serve lutefisk with melted butter and lingonberries. Serves 6.

HOLIDAY OYSTER STEW

2 cans (12 ounces each) oysters, fresh or frozen
2 slices bacon, chopped
one-third cup chopped onion
1 can (10-¼ ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
4 cups osyter liquor and half and half cream
1¼ teaspoons salt
Dash white pepper
Chopped parsley

Thaw frozen oysters. Drain oysters, reserving liquor. Fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon from fat. Cook onion in bacon fat until tender. Add soup, oyster liquor, cream, and seasonings; heat, stirring occasionally. Add bacon and oysters; heat for 3 to 5 minutes longer or until edges of oysters begin to curl. Sprinkle with parsley. Serves 6.

Create drama

Serve dessert with flare

A flaming dessert creates real drama at the table and highlights the holiday festivities. Festive Fruit Compote is just such a dish. It's a heated mixture of fresh fruits subtly flavored with coconut, almonds and orange liqueur and it's simple and quick to prepare. Yet this compote has all of the glamour of a complicated dish.

Sliced oranges, pineapple chunks, red and green grapes, quartered pears and apple wedges are mixed in a chafing dish with pan-toasted almonds and coconut. Orange liqueur goes over the fruit and the melange is heated over canned heat. This fuel is perfect for chafing dish cookery. It's odorless and smokeless, the safest fuel you can use since there's no chance of it spilling.

While heating the Festive Fruit Compote, ignite it for a dramatic flaming effect at the table. When the flames burn out it's ready to serve. And what flavor! A rainbow of fresh fruits gently accented with orange liqueur, crunchy slivered almonds and flaked coconut is a perfect light dessert that's as festive as the Christmas season.

FESTIVE FRUIT COMPOTE

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ½ cup flaked coconut
- ½ cup slivered almonds
- 2 oranges, peeled and sliced
- ½ fresh pineapple, pared and cut into chunks
- 1 cup halved seeded red grapes
- ½ cup halved seeded green grapes
- 2 pears, cored and quartered
- 2 red apples, cored and cut into thin wedges
- ¼ cup orange liqueur

In a chafing dish or crepe pan over canned heat, melt butter. Add coconut and almonds; cook until golden brown. Add oranges, pineapple, grapes, pears and apples. Mix well. Add orange liqueur and heat. Ignite; serve when flames have burned out.

YIELD: 6 servings.

Mince meat served in new way

Mince meat has that rare "certain something" that characterizes many great traditional foods . . . intoxicating aroma, or fragrance, if you will.

Whatever you call it, the smell of the mince meat comes from a heady mixture of chopped fruit, pungent spices, sugar or honey, occasionally finely chopped meat (although today that ingredient is often omitted) and suet. It is a deep dark intriguingly mysterious blend of wonderful flavors that contrasts especially well with delicate crisp pastry.

Today's homemaker may find serving the English-inspired mince meat in individual crisp, flaky patty shells much simpler than waiting until the last minute to cut a whole pie. It is easier, too, to have plenty on hand, for excellent mince meat comes from a box or jar and the patty shells are frozen, six to a package, ready to bake. They go straight from the freezer to the oven and are ready to fill in half an hour or so.

With the patty shells, as with old-fashioned pie, a good hard sauce is a "must," and here is a basic recipe plus some variations. You'll find the Mince Meat Mini-Pies so good you won't reserve them just for holiday use but serve them with pride all the cooler days of the season.

MINCE MEAT MINI-PIES

- 1 package frozen patty shells
- 1 package (9 ounces) condensed mince meat
- 1 cup water
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon orange rind
- ¼ cup orange juice
- 1 apple, pared, cored, minced
- ½ cup seedless raisins

Prepare patty shells according to package directions.

Meanwhile, prepare mince meat filling by following directions on box using above ingredients. Simmer 5 to 10 minutes, until apple is tender. Cool slightly. Remove top from each baked patty shell. Fill with mince meat; replace tops and garnish with generous spoonful of hard sauce.

NOTE: A jar (1 pound 2 ounces) of prepared mince meat may be used for a quick and easy filling. Simply heat prepared mince meat in saucepan to reduce amount of liquid and develop flavor.

HARD SAUCE

- ½ cup soft butter or margarine
- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla or rum extract

Cream butter until soft; gradually add sugar and beat until fluffy. Stir in flavoring. Refrigerate until serving time. Yield: about 1 cup topping.

VARIATIONS

Orange Hard Sauce: Substitute 2 teaspoons grated orange rind and 1 tablespoon orange juice for vanilla.

Fluffy Hard Sauce: Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Substitute sherry for vanilla flavoring.

Cream Cheese Sauce: Substitute 1 (3 oz.) package cream cheese for butter. Add ½ teaspoon lemon extract for vanilla.

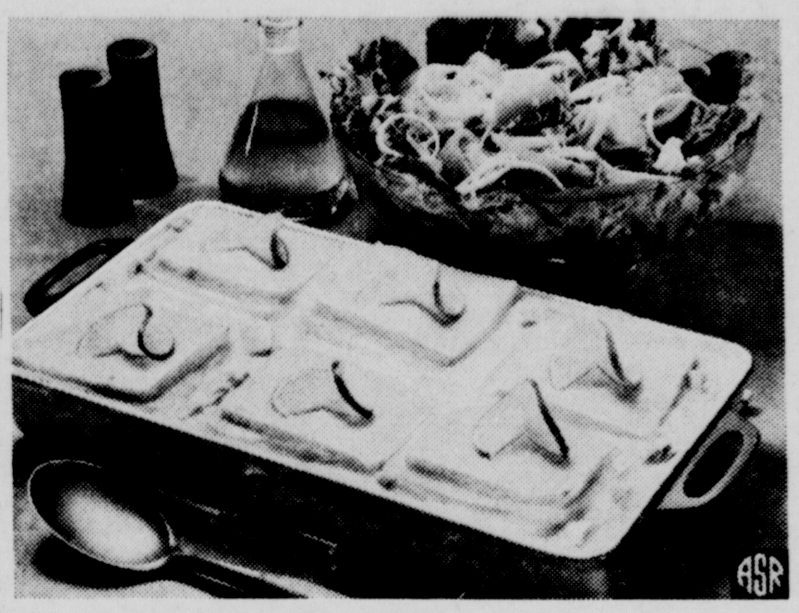
Make tuna strata and save money

With the rising prices of beef and other meat products, tuna becomes an increasingly attractive basis for main dish meals. Tuna prices have risen an average of only three cents a can over a year ago. One important reason is that the tuna industry responded to President Nixon's call for greater productivity by increasing the amount of tuna available to the American public by a whopping 30 per cent. Thus canned tuna is readily and reasonably available at your local supermarket.



Canned tuna . . .
. . . priced low

Variety in meal planning is one of the virtues that helps every cook keep her family happy and satisfied. Canned tuna, with its mild flavor, suits everyone. Here is a delicious way to turn a tuna sandwich into a luscious, economical main dish. Make a Tuna Strata. The word strata in Italian refers to layers — and this casserole consists of one delectable layer on top of another.

TUNA STRATA

12 slices day-old bread
6 slices process Cheddar cheese
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
Two-thirds cup mayonnaise
4 eggs
2½ cups milk
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
1 tablespoon minced onion
½ teaspoon salt

Remove crusts from bread slices. Arrange 6 slices in a shallow 8½x14 inch baking dish; top with cheese slices. Blend tuna and mayonnaise in small bowl. Spread tuna mixture on cheese slices. Cover filling with remaining slices of bread. Beat eggs with milk and remaining ingredients; pour over bread. Refrigerate 1 hour. Bake, uncovered, in a 325 degree F. oven about 50 minutes or until puffy and brown. Garnish with lime or lemon twists. Serve at once. YIELD: 6 servings.

Thrify applesauce cake keeps well

Only one egg. . .
. . . needed for batter

By CECILY BROWNSTONE.
Associated Press Food Editor.

With the price of eggs reaching a new high, it's time to revive the old-fashioned, one-egg cake. So here's a reliable recipe for One-egg Applesauce Cake — a favorite of families because it has excellent flavor and a moist crumb. When we tried the recipe we found the cake stayed moist for a whole week. Oats are used in the batter for good nutrition and interesting texture. The frosting that goes on the cake is about the most inexpensive kind you can make.

ONE-EGG APPLESAUCE CAKE

1 jar (15 ounces) sweetened applesauce (1 2-3rds cups)
1 cup quick-cooking oats 1½ cups unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 egg
Frosting, see below

Grease and flour a square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches).

In a 1-or 1½-quart saucepan heat the applesauce until hot throughout; remove from heat; at once stir in oats; cover tightly and let stand 20 minutes.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and cloves.

In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; add egg and beat well. Gradually and gently beat in flour mixture. Add applesauce-oat mixture; stir well. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 50 to 55 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack. Cover top with Frosting and let set. Cut in squares and remove as needed. Tightly cover pan during storage of cake.

If you want to turn out the cake instead of leaving it in the pan, as soon as it comes from the oven let it stand in the pan on the wire rack for about 30 minutes; with a small metal spatula thoroughly loosen sides; turn out on rack; with another rack turn right side up; cool completely. Cover top (and sides if you like) with Frosting. Store in a tightly covered tin box.

FROSTING

Beat together 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar; gradually beat in enough more sifted confectioners' sugar (about 1 cup) to make a good spreading consistency, keeping smooth.

Serve glazed vegetables

Turkey dinner...
...serve brussels sprouts and carrots

Good food and good company are the traditional combination for Thanksgiving dinner. There's no holding back here, as the dining table offers an abundant harvest of the best of everything.

Thanksgiving is probably the most traditional of all our American holidays. It represents a universal feeling of thanks that has been commemorated throughout most of our country's history. And as the first settlers in this country celebrated their good fortune with a grand turkey dinner, so do we follow them with the same main dish.

For this year's turkey, you'll certainly enjoy Raisin-Sausage Stuffing, a somewhat sweet and spicy mixture. In addition to the raisins and sausage it contains bread cubes for bulk and chopped celery, onion, brown sugar and lemon rind for tantalizing flavor.

ROAST TURKEY WITH RAISEN-SAUSAGE STUFFING

- 6 cups toasted bread cubes
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 pound bulk sausage
- 2 cups chopped celery
- 1 cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 12-pound turkey.

In a large bowl combine bread cubes and raisins. In a skillet brown sausage; drain most of fat. Add celery and onion; cook until tender. Add sugar and lemon rind. Add to bread and toss lightly to mix well. Fill cavity and neck area of turkey with stuffing. Secure cavity and tie legs together with cord. Place in a roasting pan. Roast in a 325 degrees F. oven for 3½ hours, brushing occasionally with melted butter or margarine.

YIELD: 12 servings.

Vegetables are an important part of the Thanksviging turkey dinner, too. They represent the abundance of fall harvests and our thanks for this plenty. Here are some exciting ways to prepare holiday vegetables and keep them warm, as well.

Brussels Sprouts Au Gratin is a quick, rich tasting dish with a delicious Gruyere cheese sauce topping the vegetable. The sauce is made with milk for a creamy consistency, chicken broth for hearty flavor and white wine for an aromatic accent.

To keep the russels Sprouts Au Gratin warm and at the peak of flavor, turn them into a chafing dish over canned heat or liquid fuel after mixing the vegetables with the sauce.

recipe sf

BRUSSELS SPROUTS AU GRATIN

- 2 pounds fresh Brussels sprouts or 3 packages (10 ounces each) frozen Brussels sprouts
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¾ cup milk
- ¾ cup chicken broth
- ½ cup white wine
- 1 cup grated Gruyere cheese

Pre-cook Brussels sprouts by boiling in salted water for 10 minutes, or according to package directions. Drain and reserve. In skillet melt butter. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Combine milk, broth and wine. Gradually stir into flour mixture. Add cheese, and cook over low heat until mixture thickens. Add cooked Brussels sprouts. Turn into chafing dish or warming dish over canned heat and keep warm.

YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Sweet potatoes have become a custom at Thanksgiving and here's a dish with a real holiday sparkle. Spiced Sweet Potatoes and Onions can be prepared directly in a chafing dish over fuel. First, the spicy sauce flavored with brown sugar, vinegar and cinnamon is cooked in the chafing dish. Then sweet potato slices and small white onions are added and cooked until the sauce forms a light glaze around the vegetables. They're kept warm at the table in the same dish so that they retain their very best flavor and texture.

SPICED SWEET POTATOES AND ONIONS

- 2 pounds sweet potatoes, cooked, or 2 cans (1 pound each) vacuum-packed sweet potatoes
- ¾ cup packed brown sugar
- ½ cup water
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon cider vinegar
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 pound small white onions, cooked, or 1 can (1 pound) whole white onions, drained

Cut sweet potatoes into 1-inch slices. In a chafing dish over direct canned heat, combine brown sugar, water, salt, vinegar, butter and cinnamon. Cook for 5 minutes. Add sweet potatoes and onions, and coat with sauce. Cook for 15 minutes, stirring frequently, or until sauce forms a light glaze. Keep warm over low flame.

YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Have holidays the happy way

Some people may feel there is no longer time for tradition in our holiday celebrations but others know well it's worth the small amount of time and the traditional ingredients to have holidays the happy old ways. Your own rich fruitcake traditionally made with nature's own sweetener, molasses, isn't just a cake. It's an event, something to make the living of the holidays more beautiful at your house. Here's the traditional recipe:

DARK FRUITCAKE

- 1 cup molasses
- ½ cup water
- 2 packages (15 ounces each) raisins
- 2 jars (1 pound each) mixed candied fruit
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1¼ cups sugar
- 6 eggs
- 2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- 1¼ teaspoons nutmeg
- ¾ teaspoon allspice
- ½ teaspoon ground cloves
- ½ cup orange juice or brandy
- 3 cups coarsely chopped nuts

Blend together molasses and water in a large deep saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until mixture comes to a boil. Add raisins; bring to a boil again. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in candied fruit. Reserve. Cream together butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in eggs one at a time. Sift together flour, baking soda and spices. Add to butter mixture alternately with orange juice. Stir in molasses-fruit mixture. Stir in nuts. Turn into a waxed paper-lined 10-inch tube pan, or 2 waxed paper-lined 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pans. Bake in 275 degree oven. Bake tube cake 3½ hours and loaf cakes 3 hours. YIELD: One 7-pound or two 3½-pound fruitcakes.

EASY COBBLER
Mrs. Paul Long
202 East Jackson

1 stick margarine
1 cup sugar
1 cup self rising or regular flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Dash salt
1 cup milk
1 quart fruit

Melt margarine in 9x12 inch baking dish. Mix together other ingredients and pour evenly over melted margarine. Add fruit, juice and all, and place over batter. Do not mix. Bake at 350 degrees until done, about 40 to 50 minutes. Serve warm or cold, alone or with ice cream. Crust will rise to top and bake brown. Do not stir while cooking.

GREEN APPLES PIE
Mrs. Walter Olson
Hughesville
Green apples

½ to 1 cup sugar
3 rounded tablespoons minute tapioca
1 teaspoon apple pie spice
2 tablespoons butter
2 pastry crusts

Peel and slice enough apples to make a stacked full pie. Add sugar, tapioca, apple pie spice and butter. (Earlier green apples require 1 cup sugar; later apples only ½ to ¾ cup). Stir well to coat all apples. Pack into bottom crust in aluminum pie pan and cover with top crust. Cut slits for air to escape while baking. Wrap in freezer paper and put in deep freeze. Take out 2½ hours before baking time. Bake 1 hour at 375 degrees.

STOLLEN
Miss Kathy Hunter
Route 4

1 pkg. active dry yeast
¾ cup warm water (105-115 degrees)
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 whole eggs
1 egg yolk (reserve white)
½ cup soft butter or margarine
½ cup chopped blanched almonds
¼ cup cut-up citron
¼ cup cut-up candied cherries
¼ cup raisins
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
3½ cups flour

In mixer bowl, dissolve yeast in water. Add sugar, salt, eggs, egg yolk, butter and half of the flour. Beat 10 minutes, medium speed on mixer or by hand. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl frequently. With spoon blend in remaining flour, nuts, fruits, and rind. Scrape batter from sides of bowl. Cover with cloth and let rise in warm place (85 degrees) until double in bulk, about 1½ hours. Stir down batter by beating 25 strokes. Cover tightly with plastic paper and store in refrigerator overnight. Turn dough onto well floured surface; turn to "coat" with flour. Press into an oval, about 12x8 inches. Spread with soft butter. Fold in two the long way. Press only folded edge firmly. Place on greased baking sheet. Brush with mixture of 1 slightly beaten egg white and 1 tablespoon water. Let rise until double, 45-60 minutes. Heat oven to 375 degrees. Bake 30 to 35 minutes, or until golden brown. Frost while warm with Quick White Icing. Decorate as desired with pieces of citron and candied cherry halves to resemble poinsettias. Or dust top with confectioners' sugar. Makes 1 large stollen.

Quick White Icing:
Mix 1½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar and 1½ tablespoons milk with a fork until smooth.

POPULAR MUFFINS
Miss Kathy Hunter
Route 4

1 egg
¼ cup vegetable oil or melted shortening
2 cup flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt

In a mixing bowl, beat egg slightly with a fork. Measure and stir in the milk and the vegetable oil (or melted shortening). Measure and blend the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add all at once to the liquid mixture. Stir just enough to moisten dry ingredients. Remember — no extra strokes to avoid toughness and tunnels. Fill each muffin two-thirds full. Wipe off any spilled batter and place pan in center of preheated oven. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Remove to cooling racks. Loosen and lift out muffins with spatula. Serve piping hot. Makes 12 muffins.

CRANBERRY SALAD
Myloh Eckhoff
Route 1

1 pound cranberries
1 cup sugar
¾ pound miniature marshmallows
1 pint whipping cream
1 cup pineapple, drained and crushed

Combine cranberries with sugar. Let stand 2 hours. Whip cream, add cut marshmallows. Let stand 2 hours. Combine the above and add pineapple. Let stand in refrigerator overnight.

SODA CRACKER PIE
Mrs. Sharon Peacock
2801 Clarendon

¾ cup crushed soda crackers
¾ cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 cup sugar

Combine all ingredients; press into a buttered 9 inch pie pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool and serve each slice topped with whipped cream or prepared topping mix.

DROP SUGAR COOKIES
Miss Carla Jackson

Mix and drop by teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheet. Flatten with glass dipped in sugar and cinnamon. Bake in 350 degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes.

NEVER FAIL PIE CRUST
Mrs. Harry Heimsoth
1500 East Ninth

4 cups flour
1¾ cup shortening
2 teaspoons salt
1 egg
½ cup water
1 tablespoon vinegar

Mix flour, shortening and salt with fork until crumbly. Mix egg with water and vinegar and add to dry ingredients. Stir until ball is formed. Chill 15 minutes before rolling out.

NOTE: This keeps in refrigerator up to three days.

PEANUT BRITTLE
Miss Kathy Hunter
Route 4

2 cups sugar
2 cups raw peanuts
2 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup white syrup
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Bring ½ cup of water to a boil. Then add 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup of white syrup. Stir until dissolved and boil until it will spin a thread. Now add 2 cups raw peanuts and cook slowly over a low fire and add 2 tablespoon vanilla. Stir quickly. Spread on 2 large cookie sheets that have been well buttered. Place in cold area.

BRAN PUMPKIN MUFFINS
Mrs. Maxine Hester

½ teaspoon nutmeg
1¼ cups bran cereal
Two-thirds cup milk
1 cup canned pumpkin
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup soft shortening
1½ teaspoon sugar

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Set aside. Measure cereal, milk, pumpkin and the ½ cup sugar into mixing bowl; stir to combine. Let stand 2 minutes to soften cereal. Add egg and shortening; beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients to bran mixture, stirring only until combined filled greased 2½ inch muffin-pan cups ¾ full. Sprinkle the 1½ teaspoons sugar over muffin batter. Bake in moderately hot oven (400) about 35 minutes or until muffins are golden brown. Serve hot.

YIELD: 12 pumpkin muffins, 2½ diameter.

SUGGESTION: Remaining portion of canned pumpkin can be frozen in tightly sealed container for future use.

APPLE CRISP
Mrs. Maxine Hester
929 North Osage

4 cups, sliced, pared and cored cooking apples (about 1½ pounds)
1 cup all-purpose flour
¾ cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup butter

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Put apples into greased 1½ quart baking dish. Combine flour, sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and butter. Cut in with pastry blender until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle evenly over apples. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until apples are tender and topping is slightly crusty and brown. Serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

MILKY WONDER CAKE
Miss Kathy Hunter
Route 4

6 "Milky Way" chocolate bars
½ cup butter or margarine

Combine candy bars and butter or margarine in medium saucepan and heat over low heat. While candy is melting, prepare batter.

½ cup butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
2½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
1¼ cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream ½ cup butter or margarine and sugar until mixture is light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time beating well after each addition. Add flour and baking soda, alternately with buttermilk, stirring until smooth. Add melted candy, mixing well. Stir in vanilla and nuts. Pour batter into a greased and floured Bundt or 10-inch tube pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and 20 minutes, or until done when tested with a wooden pick. Remove from oven. Cool a few minutes and remove from pan. Drizzle on a favorite icing or frosting.

SALMON CUSTARD
Joanna Lahvie Walker
Route 2

1 cup flaked salmon
½ cup cooked macaroni
1 tablespoon butter
3 eggs slightly beaten
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper

Combine all ingredients and pour into custard cups which have been rinsed in cold water. Set cups in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven (325 degrees) for 30 to 45 minutes, or until custard is firm. Serves 5.

TIGER COOKIES
Miss Kathy Hunter
Route 4

3 cups frosted flakes cereal
2 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels (melted)
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup butter or margarine (softened)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Measure flakes then crush to 1½ cups. Set aside. Sift together flour, soda, and salt. Set aside. Measure margarine and sugar into mixing bowl; beat until very light and fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla, beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients; mix thoroughly. Fold in crushed flakes. Swirl warm melted chocolate lightly through batter, leaving streaks of chocolate. Drop by teaspoon onto ungreased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 12 minutes or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks.

NO KNEAD ROLLS
Miss Carla Jackson
502 Sunset Drive

1 package yeast
1¼ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
3½ cups flour
¼ cup lukewarm water
¼ cup shortening
1 cup boiling water
melted butter

Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Place shortening, salt and sugar in separate bowl. Add boiling water. Stir until ingredients are dissolved. When lukewarm, add yeast mixture and then beaten egg. Stir in flour until it makes a soft dough. (Begin with 3 cups flour and add as necessary. Amounts vary with flours.) Grease a large bowl. Place dough in it and cover. Let rise until double in bulk. Then pinch off dough and shape and place in greased pans. Brush tops with melted butter. Rolls will rise in 2 hours or less in a warm place. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) for 20 minutes. Makes 2 dozen rolls.

VANILLA CREAM PIE
Joanna Lahvie Walker
Route 2

Two-thirds cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2½ tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon flour
3 cups milk
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon butter
1½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix in saucepan sugar, salt, cornstarch and flour. Stir in gradually the 3 cups milk. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir a little of the mixture into the slightly beaten eggs, then blend into hot mixture in saucepan. Boil 1 minute more, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and blend in butter and vanilla. Cool, stirring occasionally. Pour into cooled, baked pie shell. Chill thoroughly (2 hours). If desired, top with whipped cream or sprinkle with shaved nuts, toasted coconut, or fresh berries.

This recipe may be used for making a banana pie (3 or 4), or chocolate cream pie (add 3 squares chocolate (3 ounces) and increase sugar to 1½ cups. Add the chocolate squares to the hot milk. For a coconut pie fold in ¾ cup moist shredded coconut just before filling pastery shell. For an almond cream pie, in place of the vanilla, use ½ teaspoon almond extract and ½ cup toasted slivered blanched almonds to the cooled filling.

PAP STEWART'S PANCAKE RECEIPT
Joanna Lahvie Walker
Route 2

Flapjacks fer breakfast simply kaint be beat
If you use Pop Stewart's pancake receipt.
To make it quite easy
I'll give you the dope.
An' never a failure you'll suffer (I hope)
A cup full of flour will start you off right,
Run through a sifter to make it more light:
Then mix it with milk,
but don't stir it to thin,
An' a well-beaten egg
don't forget to put in;
A dollop of cornmeal to heighten the flavor —
An' jest a few wheat germs to add to the savor;
Baking powder a bit but don't take too much,
An' a gobbet of soda jest
to give the right touch;
A smidgen of butter to shorten the dough, (you'll find it much better to melt it though)
Then bake on a griddle
that's smokin' hot
An' pour on the 'lasses
till it goes plop! plop!
O'brother! there's sompin'
you kaint beat,
Cause you see, it's Pap Stewart's pancake receipt!
An' when the time comes to call it a day
An' I've put all my troubles
an' sorrows away,
An' old Gabe toddles up with pencil and pad
An' says, "What'll you have fer breakfast, my lad?"
I'll reply, "Make it pancakes,
they're hard to beat,
An' special if you're usin'

RED FROSTED SALAD
Miss Kathy Hunter
Route 4

1 13½ ounce can crushed pineapple
2 package lemon jello
1 cup ginger ale or water
1 can jellied cranberry sauce

Topping:

1 envelope topping mix (whipped)
1 8 ounce package cream cheese, room temperature
¼ teaspoon lemon flavor

Drain pineapple, save syrup and add water to make 1 cup. Heat to boiling and pour over jello. Mix well, then cool. Then add 1 cup ginger ale or water. Fold in cranberry sauce and pineapple. Pour into 9x9 inch or 9x13 inch pan. Chill until firm. Prepare topping mix, blend in cream cheese and flavor. Spread over jello mixture. Chill again. Cut in desired pieces and serve on lettuce leaves.

MACARONI SALAD
Mrs. David Henderson
808 East Third

2 cups cooked macaroni, cooled and drained
6 slices cheese, cut up
3 or 4 medium sized sweet pickles, chopped
3 hard boiled eggs, chopped

Sauce

3 teaspoons mustard
½ teaspoon vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients, chill, serve.

BISCUITS
Mrs. Carrie Gay
927 North Osage

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup shortening
2 teaspoons sugar
Two-thirds cup milk

Into mixing bowl, sift together flour, baking powder, sugar, salt and cream of tartar. Cut in shortening till mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Make a well in center; add milk all at once. Stir quickly with fork around bowl. Turn onto lightly floured surface. (Dough should be soft). Knead gently 10 to 12 strokes. Roll or pat dough to ½-inch thickness. Dip biscuit cutter in flour; cut dough straight down — do not twist. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in 450 oven for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 16.

MYLOH'S MIXED-UP-DELIGHT CASSEROLE
Myloh Eckhoff
Route 1

1 medium onion, chopped
1 pound ground beef
1 can green beans, drained
1 can tomato soup
5 medium potatoes, cooked
½ cup milk
1 egg, beaten
Salt and pepper

Brown onion and ground beef in lard. Add green beans, tomato soup. Pour into greased casserole. Whip potatoes, milk, egg; add salt and pepper and spoon over top of casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

AVOCADO SOUP
Joanna Lahvie Walker
Route 2

2 tablespoons butter or oleo
1 cup chopped onion
2 cups chopped celery
3 cups thinly sliced raw potatoes
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 chicken bouillon cubes
4 cups boiling water
1 ripe avocado
½ cup light cream
6 ripe olives, sliced

Melt butter in saucepan. Add onion and celery. Cook over low heat, stirring frequently until vegetables are tender. Add potatoes, parsley, salt, pepper, bouillon cubes and boiling water. Put vegetables through a fine sieve and return to pan. Peel avocado, put through sieve and add to soup mixture just before serving. Reheat to boiling, add cream. Serve with garnish of sliced ripe olives. Makes 6 to 8 servings. Note: the avocado helps to thicken soup, so if it is not used, add one extra cup of potatoes.

MEXICAN CORN BREAD
Joanna Lahvie Walker
Route 2

1 cup corn cream or whole
1 cup corn meal
2 beaten eggs
1 teaspoon baking powder
Two-thirds cup melted butter or melted shortening
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup grated cheese
1 small can green chilies
1 onion-sliced

Mix corn, corn meal, eggs, baking powder, butter or shortening and salt. Put half of batter in pan. Sprinkle with one cup grated cheese, green chilies, and sliced onion.

Put the other half of batter on top. Bake 1 hour in 350 degree oven or until done.

HAM AND CHEESE PASTRIES

Mrs. E. G. Adams
West Walnut Hills

¼ pound butter or margarine
¼ pound cream cheese
1 cup flour
¾ cup ground ham
2 tablespoon catsup
1½ teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon worcestershire sauce
Dash tabasco

Cream together ¼ pound softened butter and ¼ pound cream cheese. Add 1 cup flour and mix well. Chill overnight. Next day mix together ¾ cup ground boiled ham (canned or done on the home base) 2 tablespoon catsup, 1½ teaspoon prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon worcestershire cauce and a dash of tobasco. Roll out pastry, thin on floured board. Work with small amount of dough at a time and keep the rest in the refrigerator so it stays cold. This treatment makes the dough easier to handle and flakier. Cut with a 2 inch round (wet edge with cold water). Put ¼ teaspoon ham on each round, wet the edge and fold over and seal edges with fork, just as you make any turnover. Chill in refrigerator on a greased baking sheet until ready to bake. They can be baked ahead and kept hot in a warmer oven or tray. (If kept in a warm oven, don't allow them to brown). Bake in a hot oven 400 degrees 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 30 turnovers.

CHERRY GELATIN MOLD

Mrs. Harry Heimsoth
1500 East Ninth

1 can cherries, undrained
½ cup water
1 cup sugar
2 3-ounce packages cherry gelatin
1 cup cola
1 large can crushed pineapple

In saucepan combine cherries with water and sugar. Bring to boil and pour over gelatin. Let cool. Add cola and chill until slightly thickened. Add pineapple if desired. Chill until firm.

DOMINO CHOCOLATE CAKE

Mrs. Carrie Gay
927 North Osage

¾ cup softened butter
1¾ cup granulated sugar
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon vinegar
1¾ cup sifted flour
Two-thirds cup unsweetened cocoa
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar together until light and fluffy. Combine milk and vinegar; let stand 5 minutes. Sift together flour, cocoa, baking soda, baking powder and salt; add to creamed butter mixture. Add milk; mix until flour is dampened. Beat 2 minutes at low speed on electric mixer. Add eggs and vanilla; beat 2 minutes more. Pour into two 9 inch layer pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350) 30-35 minutes. Cool and frost.

CORNMEAL COOKIES

Mrs. Florence Stevenson
1307 East Fourth

¾ cup shortening
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
1½ cups flour
½ cup cornmeal
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Mix sugar and shortening well. Beat in egg and vanilla until light and fluffy. Sift dry ingredients together and add to other mixture. Mix well. Roll out dough about ¼ inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut with 2 inch cutter. Bake at 400 degrees for six to eight minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 6 dozen.

PUMPKIN CORN BREAD

Mrs. Maxine Hester
929 North Osage

2 cups pumpkin
1 cup buttermilk or cup milk and tsp. baking powder
1 beaten egg
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
1 cup cornmeal
2 tablespoons warm shortening

Mix pumpkin (fresh-cooked or canned), buttermilk and egg. Add sifted dry ingredients. Add shortening. Pour into greased 8x10 inch pan. Bake 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with butter.

BLACK WALNUT POUND CAKE

Mrs. Maxine Hester
929 North Osage

1 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup milk
3 cups flour
1 cup black walnuts

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs one at a time. Beat well after each to get pound cake consistency. Add baking powder to 2 cups of the flour and add alternately with milk to creamed mixture. Put nuts in last cup of flour and stir into mixture. Add vanilla. Do not add salt. Grease and flour loaf pan. Bake about 1 hour at 350 degrees. It requires no icing.

502 Sunset Drive

1¼ pounds ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
1 can tomato sauce, 8 ounces
1 small can tomato paste
3 small cans water
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cloves of garlic, or garlic powder
1 teaspoon each: accent, chili powder, oregano, comino seed, salt
1 cup cooked rice

Brown together beef and onion. Drain and add remaining ingredients except rice. Bring to a boil and add rice. Cover and simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve buffet style with corn chips, chopped green onions, chopped tomatoes, shredded lettuce, grated sharp cheese, chopped ripe olives, sliced avocados, and taco sauce. Serves 6 to 8.

QUICK-EASY CASSEROLE

Mrs. Verna Aversman
Corder

1 pound ground beef
1 pound frozen "tator tots"
1 can cream of chicken soup

Press ground beef in bottom of 8 x 8 inch pan. Spread soup evenly over meat. Lay tator tots on top and bake 1½ hours in 350 degree oven.

SPINACH DIP

Mrs. Sharon Peacock
2801 Clarendon

2 cups real mayonnaise
1 cup chopped frozen spinach
½ cup fresh parsley heads or ¼ cup parsley flakes
½ cup chopped green onions
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper

Thaw and drain spinach well. Combine all ingredients and chill. Serve with an assortment of fresh vegetables to dip (carrots, celery, cauliflower, radishes).

BACON WRAPPED BEEF PATTIES

Mrs. Sharon Peacock
2801 Clarendon

2 pounds ground beef
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
Two-thirds cup minced onion
¼ cup catsup
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs

Combine ingredients and mix well. Shape into 8 to 10 patties, depending on size preferred. Wrap a slice of bacon around each. Secure ends with a toothpick. Broil at 375 degrees to desired doneness.

SUPPER SALAD

Mrs. Tom Bridges
Otterville

1 No. 303 can very young sweet peas or 1 pint home canned peas
1 cup cubed (small) cheddar cheese
½ cup diced sweet pickles
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ to ¾ cup mayonnaise
½ to 1 cup cubed chicken, ham or any canned meat
¼ cup sliced stuffed olives (optional)
½ cup diced celery (optional)
1 tablespoon diced pimento (optional)

Drain peas completely. Combine all ingredients. Chill thoroughly. Serve on a lettuce leaf. If the last three ingredients are omitted, use the smaller amount of mayonnaise.

RIBBON SALAD

Mrs. Ella Kreissler
Columbia

2 packages lime gelatin
1 package lemon or orange gelatin
2 packages cherry or strawberry gelatin
½ cup miniature marshmallows
½ cup pineapple juice
4 ounces cream cheese
1 cup crushed pineapple
½ cup cream, whipped
½ cup mayonnaise
nuts
marachino cherries

Dissolve lime gelatin in 2 cups hot water. Add 2 cups cold water. Pour into a 14 X 10 X 2 inch pan and chill until set. Dissolve lemon gelatin in one cup hot water and add marshmallows. Stir over low heat until melted. Remove from heat and add pineapple juice and cream cheese. Beat until well blended. Stir in pineapple and let cool. Fold in cream and mayonnaise, chill until thickened. Pour over lime gelatin, chill until almost set. Dissolve red gelatin in 2 cups hot water and 2 cups cold water. Chill until syrupy and pour over the other two layers. When thoroughly chilled, cut into squares and serve on lettuce leaves; topped with whipped cream, nuts and marachino cherries. Serves 12.

BLENDER CHEESE SOUFFLE

Mrs. E. G. Adams
West Walnut Hills

8 ounces sharp cheddar cheese
10 slices buttered bread (crust removed)
4 eggs
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard

Put one half of cheese bread, eggs and milk in blender. Turn on high speed until thoroughly mixed. Pour this into greased 1 and ½ quart casserole. Then add all remaining ingredients into blender and blend on high speed until thoroughly mixed. Pour into casserole and stir a couple of times. Bake uncovered for 1 hour at 350 degrees. This can be made the day before and stored in the refrigerator, covered, or made at the last minute.

SPICY COLE SLAW

Mrs. Paul Long
202 East Jackson

½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon seasoned salt or chili powder
1 cup cottage cheese
4 cups finely shredded cabbage

In a large bowl, combine the mayonnaise with prepared yellow mustard and seasoned salt or chili powder. Blend well. Add cottage cheese and shredded cabbage. Toss to coat well with dressing. Chill. Makes 4 servings.

DUTCH CABBAGE ROLLS

Mrs. Hillery L. Norton
1000 West 14th

1 pound ground round or beef
One third cup rice, uncooked
1 egg
1 onion chopped fine
2 tablespoons shortening
Juice of one lemon
1 can tomato soup
½ cup celery, chopped
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon parsley
6 cabbage leaves
Salt and pepper

Combine meat, salt, pepper, rice and egg. Mix well. For the sauce, saute onion in butter until soft. Add tomato soup and equal amounts of water to onion, celery, parsley, lemon juice, sugar, salt and pepper. Wash cabbage leaves and boil until tender. Put equal amounts meat mixture into cabbage leaves, roll tightly and secure with toothpicks. Place rolls in sauce pan. Pour sauce over them, cover pan and cook very slowly for three hours.

PEPPERED PORK CHOPS

Mrs. William R. Boehm
1119 East 13th

6 pork chops
6 slices onion
12 rings green pepper
dash black pepper
1 can (1½ cups) condensed tomato soup
salt

Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper and brown them in skillet. Place two green pepper rings and one onion ring on each chop. Pour soup over all. Cover and simmer about an hour or until chops are well done. Serves 6.

RICE BALLS IN SOUP

Miss Carla Jackson
502 Sunset Drive

½ pound hamburger
1 cup cooked rice
2 cans tomato soup
2 cans water

(If using instant rice, soak in hot water for 2 minutes and drain.) Mix rice and hamburger and roll into small long balls and drop in tomato soup. Simmer for 10 minutes. Serves 4.

ZUCCHINI

Joanna Lahvie Walker
Route 2

3 small zucchini
1 cup celery, diced small
1 large onion
2 large tomatoes
2 tablespoons butter or oleo
Salt and pepper to taste
Flour to thicken

Cut zucchini into one-inch pieces, including seeds, if zucchini is fresh and tender. Chop onion into small pieces and fry in 1 tablespoon butter until transparent. Add the zucchini, celery and tomatoes which have been cut up. Add enough water to barely cover. Boil slowly until vegetables are tender. Melt the other tablespoon of flour, and blend. Pour this into the slowly boiling zucchini. Boil until slightly thickened. (If desired, finely chopped green peppers may also be added.)

COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

Mrs. David Henderson
808 East Third

1 large box small curd cottage cheese
1 box orange gelatin, dry
1 can mandarin oranges
1 can crushed pineapple
½ cup coconut
1 small box whipped topping, prepared

Mix all ingredients, chill, serve.

PIGS IN BLANKETS

Joanna Lahvie Walker
Route 2

Round steak cut about ¼ inch thick
Bacon, cut in small pieces
Onions, chopped fine
Salt and pepper
1 cup sour cream, optional
Flour

Cut steak into 4 or 6 inch squares and put raw bacon and onion in center of each. Fold ends over and fasten with toothpicks so bacon and onion are covered. Season and roll in flour. Brown in hot fat. Add water and let simmer until meat is tender.

COFFEE CAKE
Mrs. Vernon Bell
Centerview

Cake
- 1 package yellow cake mix
- 1 package instant vanilla pudding
- ¾ cup corn oil
- ¾ cup water
- 4 eggs
- 1 teaspoon butter extract
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Filler
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoon cinnamon

Glaze
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ½ teaspoon butter extract
- Add milk for right consistency
- ¼ cup nuts

Grease angel food or bundt cake pan heavily and sprinkle with nuts. Pour all cake ingredients into large mixing bowl. Beat at high speed for 8 minutes. Place one-third of cake batter in pan, alternate one-third of filler, until all of the batter and filler has been used. (Be sure and have cinnamon mixture on top of cake). Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes. Turn upside down on plate, then add glaze.

SPICED SOUR CREAM COOKIES
Mrs. Maxine Hester
929 North Osage
- 1 cup butter, softened
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 egg
- ½ cup dairy sour cream
- 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

In a large bowl cream butter with soda, salt, nutmeg and vanilla extract. Mix well. Gradually blend in sugar. Beat in egg. Stir in sour cream. Gradually add flour. Mix well. Drop by the rounded teaspoonful onto greased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned around the edges. Cool on wire rack. Makes 5 dozen cookies.

DELICIOUS APPLE CAKE
Mrs. John Ballah
Route 3
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup oil
- 2 eggs
- 2 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 cups raw delicious apples, finely chopped
- 1 cup black walnuts, chopped

Beat sugar, oil and eggs together well. Add vanilla. Sift flour, salt, soda and nutmeg together. Add chopped apples to sugar mixture and beat well. Stir in flour mixture and nuts. Mix well. Pour batter into greased and floured 2-pound can. Place in crock-pot. Cover top of can or mold with four to six paper towels. Cover and cook on high about three and one half hours. Crock-pot lid should not be tightly closed but slightly raised, to allow release of excess moisture. Add no water to crock-pot; and do not peek until last hour.

RAISIN-DATE COOKIES
Mrs. Verna Aversman
Corder
- 1 cup white sugar
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup shortening
- 2 large eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 4 cups uncooked oatmeal
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup pitted dates
- 1 cup pecans, chopped
- 1 cup coconut

Cream sugars with shortening and add eggs and vanilla. In separate bowl sift flour with salt and soda then add to creamed mixture, blending well. Add oatmeal. Grind raisins with dates and add them to dough with pecans and coconut.

Drop by spoonfuls on greased cookie sheets. Bake 10 minutes at 325 to 350 degrees.

NOTE: Grinding the dates and raisins does something that just cutting them up won't do. So don't skip that part, Mrs. Aversman says.

TEXAS CAKE
Marie Lees
- 2 cups sugar
- ½ cup sour cream
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 2 eggs
- 2 sticks butter
- 4 tablespoons cocoa
- 1 cup water

In saucepan combine butter, cocoa and water then bring to boil. Mix in flour, sugar, sour cream, salt, soda and eggs, beating well. Pour into 2 inch deep 9 x 12 inch cake pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Icing
- 1 box powdered sugar
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 4 tablespoons cocoa
- 1 stick butter
- 6 tablespoons milk

Boil cocoa, butter and milk. Pour in powdered sugar and mix well. Pour over cake while still hot.

WALNUT MUFFINS
Mrs. Maxine Hester
929 North Osage
Serve these hot from the oven
- 1½ cups flour (unsifted), stir to aerate before measuring
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- ½ cup milk
- ¼ cup butter, melted
- ½ cup broken (medium coarse) walnuts

In a medium mixing bowl, with a fork, thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. In a small mixing bowl beat the egg and milk until combined; stir in butter; add to flour mixture; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened; stir in walnuts with last strokes. Drop batter into 12 buttered muffin-pan cups (each one-third cup capacity) filling about two-thirds full. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and tops are lightly browned — 20 to 25 minutes. Loosen edges and remove; serve at once with butter. Makes 12.

CHEESE PIE
Mrs. David Henderson
808 East Third

Graham cracker crust
- 1 and two-thirds cup graham crackers (1 package)
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ cup softened butter

Roll cracker crumbs fine. Pour into mixing bowl and add sugar and butter. Blend well. Pour into a 9-inch pie plate, press into pie crust shape. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 minutes.

Cheese pie
- 1 can cherry pie filling
- 1 large package cream cheese
- 3 egg whites
- ¼ cup sugar

Pour pie filling into graham cracker crust. Mix remaining ingredients together and spread on top of pie.

ORANGE CAKE
Mrs. Vernon Bell
Centerview
- 1 package orange supreme or yellow cake mix
- 1 package orange gelatin
- ¾ cup water
- ¾ cup salad oil
- 4 eggs

Mix cake mix and 1 package orange jello (dry). Add water and oil. Add 1 egg at a time, beating well after each. Bake at 325 degrees in well-greased 9 x 13 pan for 35 to 45 minutes. Immediately after removing from oven pierce every inch of cake with a fork to the bottom of the cake pan. Pour the following mixture over the cake:
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 cup sugar

SPICY OATMEAL COOKIES
Mrs. Maxine Hester
929 North Osage
- ¾ cup flour
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 egg well beaten
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup melted butter
- 2 teaspoons molasses
- 2 tablespoon milk
- 1 cup quick-cooking oats
- ¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a cookie sheet with unsalted shortening. Sift together flour, baking soda, salt and cinnamon. Combine remaining ingredients in a separate bowl. Stir to blend. Add sifted dry ingredients and beat until thoroughly mixed. Drop dough by rounded tablespoonfuls about 2 inches apart on the prepared cookie sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes, until edges of cookies are slightly brown. Cool on wire racks. Store in an airtight container. Makes about 2½ dozen cookies.

GRANDMA'S SUGAR COOKIES
Viola Holsten
Stover
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon soda
- Salt
- 1 cup butter or shortening
- 6 tablespoons milk
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in butter. Add remaining ingredients. Stir until all rolls together. Roll out about ¼ inch thick, cut with cutters. Bake until light brown in moderate oven. May be iced or sugared.

COUNTRY APPLE PIE
Mrs. Paul Long
202 East Jackson
- 1 pound, 4 ounce can pie sliced apples, drained
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 4 tablespoons flour
- ¼ cup molasses
- ¾ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 pie crust shell

Streusel crumb topping
- 1 cup flour
- 6 tablespoons molasses

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Combine apples, sugar and flour, molasses, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Mix well. Set aside. Combine flour and molasses. Cut in butter or margarine until crumbly. Turn apple mixture into pie shell. Sprinkle crumb topping over top of pie. Bake on baking sheet 40 to 45 minutes. Serve warm.

How Do Those Beautiful Actress-Models Stay So Thin?

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR KENNETH O'DONNELL,
appointments secretary to President John F. Kennedy

As I understand it, you had much the same job with President Kennedy that H. R. Haldeman had with President Nixon. Could the men around JFK have pulled off a "Watergate" without his knowing about it?—F. X. Sullivan, Atlantic City, N.J.

● I don't see how. I knew about everything that was going on. Nobody near the President could do anything without my knowing about it, and I couldn't do anything without the President knowing about it. He quizzed me every day on many matters, including what the National Democratic Committee was doing, how much money was in the Treasury and how much was being spent in what area, and so on. So my answer is an unequivocal NO.

FOR SALLY STRUTHERS of "All in the Family"*

What do you think of Carroll O'Connor? — E. B. S., Fayette, Iowa

● He's a beautiful man. He's traveled all over the world, he's knowledgeable and intelligent. He's also a gourmet.

FOR JERRY LEWIS

You and Dean Martin were very good together in the movies. Why did you stop working together?—Cathy Brown, Hershey, Neb.

● . . . and the man said, "Those are beautiful shoes you're wearing. . . ." And the other man answered: "Thanks, but I'm the only one who knows they hurt!"

FOR SEN. WILLIAM PROXMIRE (D-Wis.)*

What's got you so riled up about limousines for government bigwigs? Haven't they had them for years?—K. Blake, Great Falls, Mont.

● First, there has been a massive proliferation of these vehicles. Everybody and his brother has one in the executive agencies. Second, they cost too much. In our hearings, we found chauffeurs are routinely paid from $14,000 to $17,000 a year, when overtime is included. The purchase price and the maintenance add up to thousands more.

FOR CHER BONO

Does Bob Mackie design your offstage clothes, as well as the clothes you wear onstage? Do you design any of your own clothes any more?—Karen Smith, Satellite Beach, Fla.

● For offstage wear, I have many of Bob Mackie's clothes, but I spend so little time offstage that I prefer to wear jeans and a blouse. Lately I haven't had the time to design any of my own clothes, I'm sorry to say.

FOR PAT MORROW of "Peyton Place"*

I've read that you've studied law and have trained for politics. What do you think, generally, of actors going into politics?—J. Klein, Grand Rapids, Mich.

● I resent it. People like Ronald Reagan, George Murphy and Shirley Temple entered politics on an identification basis. If they were trained for it, that would be different. But they weren't.

FOR DON RICKLES, comedian*

What do you think the reaction would be if you had been given a role like that of Archie Bunker in a series?—T. L. Moore, Durham, N.C.

● The crowd would have come after me with picks and shovels. They wouldn't have believed I was acting. Two weeks later I would have been in the river, drifting upstream with a slab of concrete tied to my back.

FOR HELEN GURLEY BROWN

What is your magazine, "Cosmopolitan," trying to say to today's young women?—B.M.R., Piscataway, N.J.

● That she's a worthwhile and beautiful person, but she will have a far more wonderful life if she works at it, that she should be passionately interested in improving her life, her job, her love relationships, herself. Yes, we are very much on the level, and yes, the advice we give really does help.

FOR JERRY TAGGE, quarterback, Green Bay Packers*

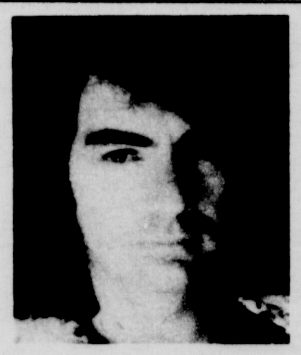
In your championship years at Nebraska you wore No. 14 shirt. How come you now wear No. 17 for the Packers when none of the other players has 14?—Tim Hauber, Ridgeway, Iowa

● The Packers retired the No. 14 in honor of Don Hutson, the great end who played with the team from 1935 to 1945. So I wear No. 17, which also happens to be the number I wore when I played high school football in Green Bay.



FOR NEIL DIAMOND

If you hadn't become a singer, what profession would you have followed?—S.O., Scottsdale, Ariz.

● Composing. From about the time I was 16, that's the only professional ambition I had, though I entered college as a premed major, and with a fencing scholarship! I can't imagine that I would be anything but a composer-performer today, even if I hadn't gained any sort of success. I would still be knocking my head against the wall of publishing firms. I don't consider myself a performer first. I'm a composer who became a performer. And although I love performing, and love contact with an audience, and love the freedom of interpreting my material—that material comes first. Composing is at the center of everything for me. Performing is an extra plus.

IN THIS GRIND-EM-OUT WORLD, IS THERE SUCH A THING AS A QUALITY CIGARETTE?

If the cigarette is Kent there is.

Kent is probably the most quality-tested cigarette made.

We try to get rid of any taste-robbing imperfections before a Kent ever sees the light of a match. (Over 200 different quality checks in the manufacturing end, alone.)

But Kent quality goes beyond that.

We go to 3 continents, 4 countries and 10 states to find the right kind of tobaccos for the milder Kent blend.

To complement this blend, we even invented our own filter, the famous Micronite filter—to smooth the flavor of Kent.

Why are we such sticklers about how Kent is made?

Because, that way we can give you the mild, smooth taste that makes Kent what it is: America's quality cigarette.

How Do They Do It?

Dieting Habits of Some of the World's Most Beautiful Actress-Models

By Helen Dorsey

Hardly a week passes these days without the appearance of yet another miracle diet, guaranteed to cause flab to disappear virtually overnight. There are the one-food diets (ice cream, grapefruit, rice), one-food-type diets (low carbohydrates, high protein), eating-habit diets (skipped meals, four-or-five-times-a-day snacks instead of meals), as well as a variety of other ideas (vegetarianism, fruitarianism).

"If you have a diet problem, get your imagination, as well as your hands, to work in the kitchen. After all, what is a diet? It is eating little or sticking rigidly to certain foods. Exercise a little will power, but know when to stop. The main thing is not to fall into gloom."—Sophia Loren

Nutrition experts admit they are a long way from knowing just exactly how food reacts with the body. But they generally agree that because of different metabolisms, no one diet is right for everyone. A regimen that takes fat off one person may put it on another. Therefore, if you seriously want to diet, you probably should consult your physician.

There is, however, one group of people who have learned how to stay thin successfully: the young model-actresses, whose careers depend on their looks and shapes. Almost all agree that one ingredient is mandatory for a successful diet: plenty of exercise. But beyond this, they offer, predictably, an engaging diversity of ways to keep the pounds from building up.

WILHELMINA

Former top model Wilhelmina stresses that many people's weight problems may be due to a malfunctioning thyroid, which should be checked by a doctor. "I stress this because I've gone through periods when I've done everything wrong. Now, I immediately tell my models to go to a doctor and let him check out their thyroids."

That was Willie's problem, which she found out about when she failed to lose weight even though her daily diet consisted of black coffee or an occasional cup of bouillon, plus a small lean broiled steak every five days. "Finally I went to one doctor who put me on a scale and told me to eat a hamburger. The next day I gained 3½ pounds. It turned out my thyroid was low. Every time I went on starvation binges, my motor would stop running." Now, with a well-regulated thyroid and a well-balanced diet, Willie is able to keep her weight constant.

She says, "There are so many beautiful diets around that let you eat without starving to death. However, in order to look and feel well, you must take vitamins and minerals. I'd probably opt for the classic old-fashioned diet, where you count calories and eat a well-balanced menu of protein, fruits and vegetables. Too often dieters who follow crash or fad diets for long periods find them self-defeating. Their skin begins to sag, fingernails break off and their hair begins to lose its gloss. Most models are very much aware of their diets and spend time finding out exactly what's right for them. You can't survive in our business unless you have beautiful hair, good fingernails and teeth, and beautiful skin."

Willie's own favorite reducing diet is simple: lean broiled steaks and plentiful crisp green salads flavored with lemon instead of salt, to combat fluid retention.

SOPHIA LOREN

Attitude is the most important thing, says Sophia Loren. She avoids the normal diet routine by cooking with imagination. A lifelong pasta fiend, Sophia at 37 is still beautiful and she's now more slender than when she modeled for the fumetti magazines in Italy—before Carlo Ponti rescued her and put her in the movies.

"If you have a diet problem, get your imagination, as well as your hands, to work in the kitchen. After all, what is a diet? It is eating little or sticking rigidly to certain foods. Exercise a little will power, but know when to stop. The main thing is not to fall into gloom. One thing I know is that if you sit down to a bad meal, you leave the table feeling like death, and this creates a psychological atmosphere that is a serious threat to your health."

Typically, Sophia breakfasts lightly on espresso coffee and rolls, lunches on high protein (cottage cheese when she's in America or a small grilled steak), and at night dines on pasta, fixed countless ways—often with low-calorie vegetables (tomatoes, onions, garlic, spinach, mushrooms, eggplant or artichokes)—and salads.

ANNE LOCKHART

Anne Lockhart, June Lockhart's daughter, has no diet regimen—but she avoids rich desserts. Anne relies on simple, almost-no-cooking recipes and keeps "full" by drinking vast quantities of mineral water or fruit juices (also great for the skin). "I don't think I could live without my electric blender. I'm always making crushed fruit drinks and original concoctions for quick snacks or meals. When I cook, I stick to simple foods, mostly vegetables. One of my favorite dishes is a French recipe for ratatouille, a kind of vegetable stew made with eggplant, zucchini, carrots, celery, tomatoes and anything else that happens to be in my icebox!" Her condiments have almost no calories at all: fresh snipped herbs, spices, a few drops of fresh lemon or lime juice, herbed vinegar or Worcestershire sauce.

Not a strict vegetarian, Anne eats broiled and baked fish, chicken or lean meat. "I'm really big on fruit salads made with yogurt and lots of little nuts and crunchy things to surprise you." She relies on honey to sweeten tea or as a sugar substitute in recipes.

CYBILL SHEPHERD

Our cover girl, Cybill Shepherd, snubs people who indulge in fad food fashions. She says: "Many people who are vegetarians are so for all the wrong reasons—social reasons." She burns up her calories doing daily exercises. "I can never go completely without meat. I've always had this problem in modeling—that the people I

...some Snap! Crackle! Pop! into your recipes

All treats shown can be made with the basic Marshmallow Treats recipe appearing on the side of every Kellogg's Rice Krispies package.

Put some Snap! ... into your Marshmallow ...

MARSHMALLOW TREATS

¼ cup regular margarine or butter
1 6-10 oz. package regular marshmallows (about 40)
OR 4 cups miniature marshmallows
5 cups/KELLOGG'S RICE KRISPIES cereal

1. Measure margarine into 3-quart saucepan; melt over low heat. Add marshmallows and cook, stirring constantly, until marshmallows are melted and mixture is very syrupy. Remove from heat.
2. Add Rice Krispies cereal; stir until well-coated.
3. Spread warm mixture in buttered 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Using waxed paper or buttered spatula press firmly into an even layer. Cut into squares when cool.

YIELD: 24 2-inch squares

NOTE: For thicker squares, press warm mixture into a buttered 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Best results are obtained when using fresh marshmallows. About 2 cups marshmallow creme may be substituted for marshmallows. Add to melted margarine and cook over low heat for about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Proceed as directed in step No. 2 above.

Dieting Habits of Actress-Models

work for want a very thin body with no strength. I mean, they want a body that looks like it has wire appendages. But you must have a certain amount of protein or you're going to die, especially, if you are athletic like I am.

"I only diet in the sense that I avoid fried foods. I love healthy foods like fresh fruits and vegetables. I'm mad about watercress and artichokes. Occasionally, I go on crazy binges and have three hot-fudge sundaes. That's fabulous!"

Pictorial Parade

ALI MACGRAW

Model-slim Ali MacGraw is a real health-food fan. "I have a craving for salads, fruits and vegetables and eat them all the time, but I'm what you'd call a semi-vegetarian. I breakfast lightly on half a grapefruit, coffee, an English muffin or a croissant. For lunch I have iced tea and a tossed salad. At night I eat broiled lean steak or lamb chops." Ali avoids extra pounds by shying away from business lunches. During interview lunches, she often nibbles on watercress or toys with a salad in lieu of ordering a cocktail.

JOANNA SHIMKUS

Joanna Shimkus, Canadian-born actress-model, discovered the problems of eating in a foreign country the hard way. "When I first arrived in Paris, I weighed 110. In three months, with all the French bread and great French cooking, I gained 35 pounds. Instead of the usual steaks and vegetables my mother always fixed, I was eating all that wonderful coq au vin and pepper steak with those glorious sauces. They were my undoing. I still eat a lot now, but I eat simpler things—broiled fish, simple dishes without sauces. I love organically grown vegetables and fruits."

GAIL FISHER

Gail Fisher, a former model who's now star of "Mannix," is an on-again, off-again dieter. She likes to joke about the whole diet syndrome. "My latest invention is skinny cameras!" she says. But she admits, "Eating is one of my vices. I have highly cultivated taste buds." Dieting is fairly easy when she's working, but it's a problem when she isn't. "When I don't work, I like to stay in bed for two weeks, sleep and watch late movies. I like to push buttons and yell, 'Bring on the hot dogs with onions.'" She tries to diet on meat, shellfish and water. "Eight glasses of water a day is a drag," she says, laughing. "Sometimes I cheat and have a glass of white wine."

Gail never found dieting a problem when she was modeling because, "I didn't have enough money to eat. To tell the truth, though, when I'm underweight I don't like me. I'm very irritable and nervous. And I'm high-strung anyway." Actually, Gail would rather forgo diets altogether. "If Shelley Winters and Simone Signoret can get away with being a little heavy," she says, "then why can't Gail Fisher?"

This year give $9.50 gifts that won't break, won't wear out, won't shrink, won't rust, won't be the wrong size, and won't need batteries.

TAKING TURNS By Sherl Joseph Winter.
An original situation, portrayed in a traditional style. The subject—a very grown up little girl—is a gratifying reality to sculptor Winter, the father of two daughters. A gift for anyone who enjoys children.

STAR OF WONDER By Marge Viguers.
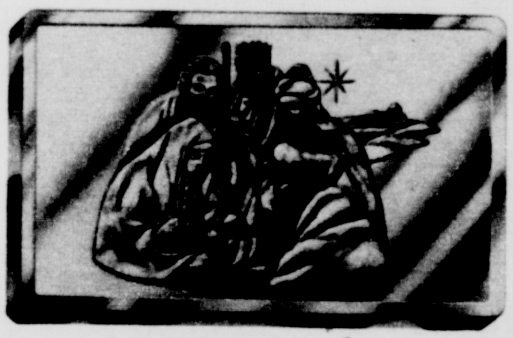
A childlike wistfulness and originality make this work delightful. It takes a moment to relate the words to the design in each square. And then you find yourself singing the popular carol portrayed. A gift of imagination, and sentiment.

ONE WORLD, ONE WISH
By Victor Lasuchin.
A number of art critics could identify this work as a Lasuchin, without seeing the signature on the back. The man who "works wonders with calligraphy" has designed and sculptured something different, yet within the "school" of Lasuchin graphics. An impressive gift for people with a lot of style.

Bars shown slightly larger to show detail.



NATIVITY
By Calvin Massey.
Fine art in its fullest sense. A mood of royalty in a humble setting. This is portraitist Massey's expression of exaltation for the miracle in the manger. A gift of inspiration.

BUILDING TOGETHER By Pierre Lefebvre.
These children may think the goal is to make something, then say "Look what we've done." But their real reward is fun and companionship while doing it. Sculptor Lefebvre reflects his own buoyant personality in this work. A gift of good fellowship.

The First Annual Mount Everest Mint Christmas Bars.

Fine art in fine silver. New works by five gifted American artists. Struck in .999 fine silver. (contains 8% more silver per ounce than sterling.) Only one edition of these bars will ever be minted.

YOU HAVE UNTIL NOVEMBER 10, 1973 TO SPREAD THE WARMTH.

Each of these pure silver bars measures approximately 2" by 1⅛"—an unusually large display area for medallic art—and weighs a full Troy ounce. The title and the artist's signature will appear on the back of each bar, along with the issue date (1973), The Mount Everest Mint mintmark and the bar's weight and purity.

To achieve that rich look of cameolike frosted sculpture set against a flawless mirror-like background, each bar will be struck with Proof-polished dies. And struck again for extra sharpness of detail.

For beauty alone, any one of these works deserves your interest and admiration. Since the bars will be issued in limited edition, their rarity will tend to add to their value over the years.

Each bar will be packaged in a velour-lined presentation case. The bar and its case make a superb gift, or an enjoyable collector's item for yourself. As works of art, their beauty will last forever.

This year, make it a silver Christmas for anyone who deserves an elegant gift. Send us your gift giving list with your order. And we will make your Christmas mailing for you—complete with your name on an appropriate card.

Please be sure your order is postmarked by November 10, 1973. The limit of edition will be equal to the number of orders postmarked by that date.

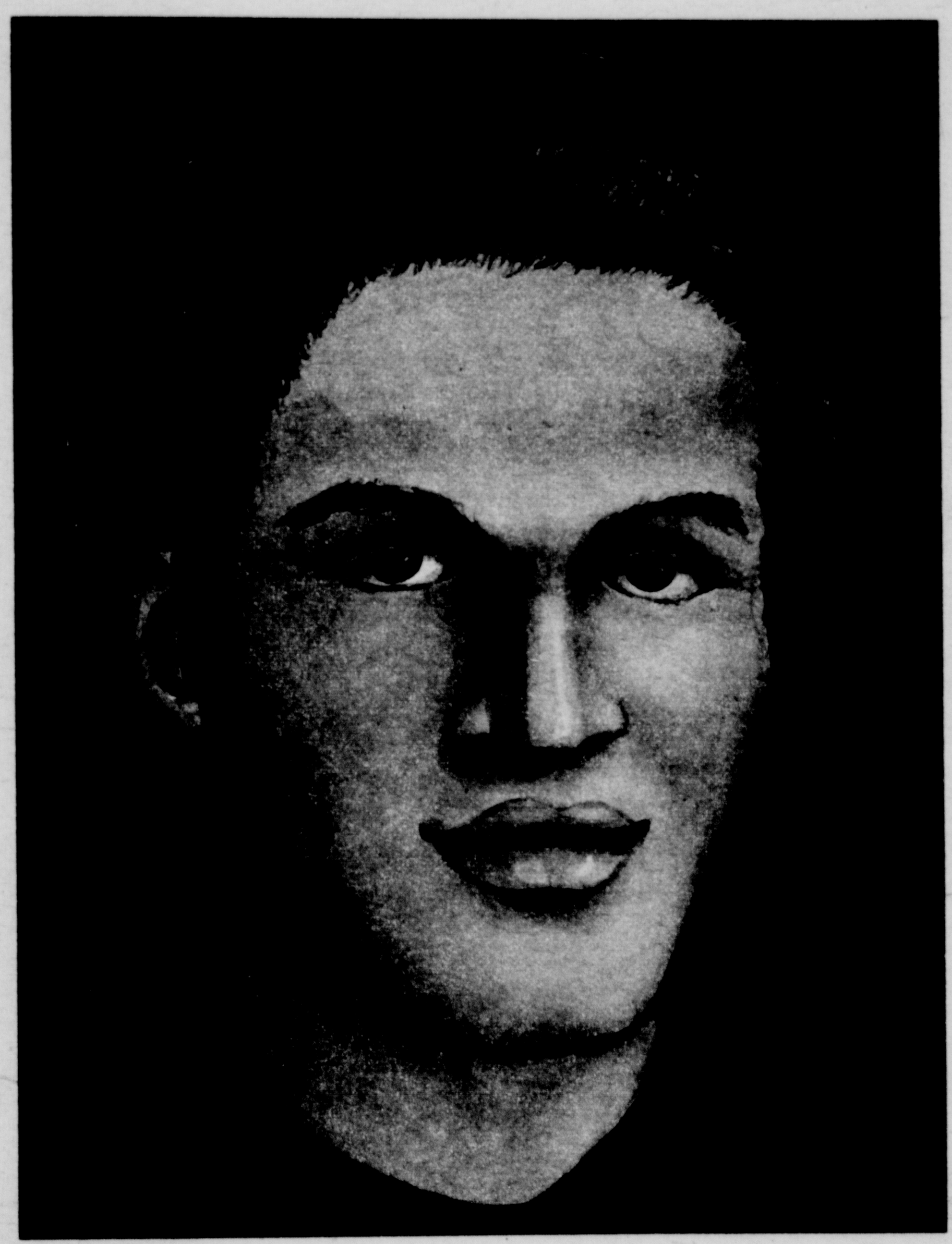
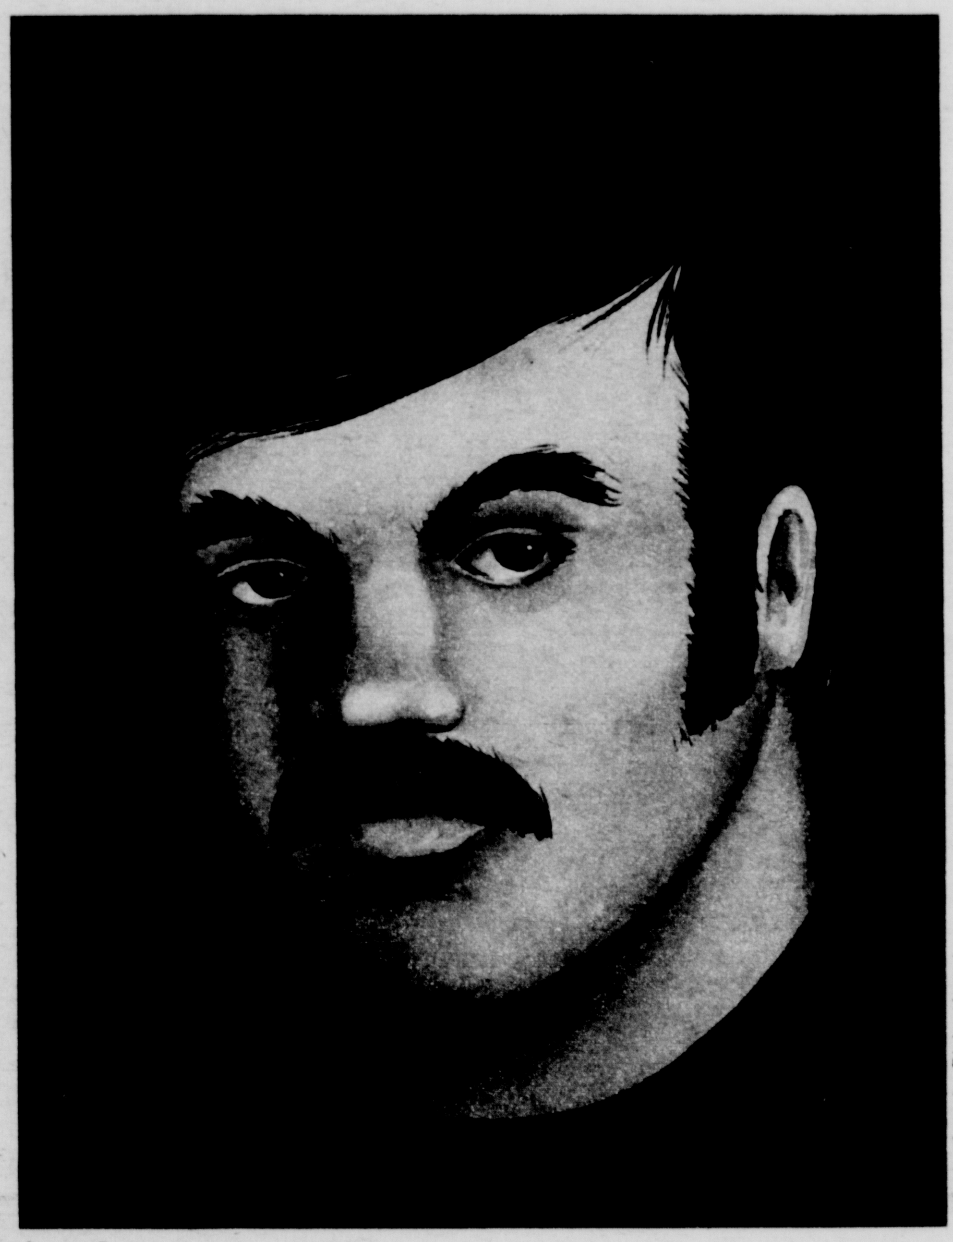
NFL's All-Star Defense Picks Its All-Star Offense:

"These Are the Toughest Men to Stop"–Say the Men Who Have to Stop Them



O. J. Simpson



Larry Csonka

Illustrations by Blake Hampton

O. J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills and Larry Csonka of the Miami Dolphins are the toughest running backs in the business, say the men who have to bring them down. But which is tougher? Joe Greene and Bob Lilly, plenty-tough linemen, give their decision in Larry Bortstein's story—where you can read exactly why our panel of star defensemen picked the 11 men on the next page as the NFL's very best on offense.

Most fans can rattle off the names of the National Football League's All-Star selections as determined by one group of experts or another. But we didn't want our FAMILY WEEKLY team of NFL offensive All-Stars to be based on the testimony of disinterested observers. So we went straight to the most interested observers of all—the men who star at defensive football in the NFL.

Each member of a select group of defensive All-Stars, all pictured on a following page, was asked to name the offensive players he considered the toughest for him and his team to oppose and stop. Though the defensive stars were polled individually, several overall conclusions emerged from their selections. They include the following:

• Larry Csonka of Miami and O. J. Simpson of Buffalo are the best running backs in pro football right now.

• Joe Namath of the New York Jets, although he was injured in the second game of the season, is the game's most feared quarterback.

• Rayfield Wright of Dallas may be the finest offensive lineman, regardless of position, in football.

• The tight end, growing in importance in the scheme of most pro teams

Joe Namath, 30, 6-2, 200, from Beaver Falls, Pa., changed the face of pro football when he signed with the New York Jets for an estimated $427,000 in 1965. In seven pro seasons prior to 1972, his chief accomplishment was leading the 1968 Jets to the 1969 Super Bowl title over Baltimore, 16-7. A college All-America at University of Alabama.

Larry Csonka, 27, 6-3, 235, from Stow, Ohio. In his sixth season with Miami, which drafted him on the first round in 1968. Gained more than 1,000 yards in 1971 and 1972. Holds all-time career rushing record at Syracuse University, which has produced many fine runners.

O.J. Simpson, 26, 6-1, 206, from San Francisco, Calif. In his fifth pro season with Buffalo, led entire NFL in 1972 with 1,251 yards, his first 1,000-yard season. Won Heisman Trophy in 1968 for brilliant season as running back at University of Southern California. Led major colleges in rushing in both of his varsity years at USC.

Otis Taylor, 31, 6-3, 215, from Houston, Texas. In his ninth year with Kansas City, which drafted him fourth in 1965. Led NFL in receiving yardage in 1971 and consistently among the leaders in other years. Attended Prairie View A&M College.

Paul Warfield, 31, 6-0, 188, from Warren, Ohio. Came to Miami in 1970 and is now in fourth year with Dolphins after spending first six pro seasons with Cleveland, which drafted him first in 1964. Led NFL in touchdown catches in 1968 and 1971, has averaged more than 20 yards per reception throughout career, an all-time record pace. Attended Ohio State University.

Ray Chester, 25, 6-3, 220, from Cambridge, Md. In his fourth pro year but first with Baltimore after three at Oakland. The Raiders drafted him on the first round in 1970 after his brilliant college career at Morgan State College in Baltimore.

Bob Brown, 32, 6-4, 275, from Cleveland, Ohio. In his tenth pro season, third with Oakland. Also played for Philadelphia five years, and Los Angeles for two. Eagles drafted him on first round in 1964 after his All-America career at University of Nebraska.

Larry Little, 28, 6-1, 265, from Groveland, Ga. In his seventh pro season, fifth with Miami. Spent two seasons with San Diego, after being signed by Chargers as free agent in 1967. Has a bachelor of arts degree in sociology from Bethune-Cookman College in Florida.

Forrest Blue, 28, 6-5½, 255, from Marfa, Texas. Now in his sixth pro season with San Francisco. Had All-America college career at Auburn University.

Tom Mack, 30, 6-3, 250, from Cleveland, Ohio. In his eighth pro season with Los Angeles, which drafted him on the first round in 1966. Attended University of Michigan and earned an engineering degree from that institution two years after he had originally left to join the pros.

Rayfield Wright, 28, 6-6, 255, from Griffin, Ga. A seventh-round draft choice in 1967, this is his seventh season in pros, all with Dallas. Graduated from Fort Valley State College in Georgia.

with each passing year, may have more outstanding players than any other position.

Larry Csonka, the powerhouse fullback of the world-champion Dolphins, is in his sixth season of pro ball, while Simpson, the former Heisman Trophy winner who doubled in football and sprinting for the track team at the University of Southern California, is a fifth-year pro. Csonka is the epitome of what the fullback should be, grinding ahead relentlessly for yardage every time he has the ball. He gained 1,117 yards last season.

O. J. Simpson, who makes much of his yardage by sweeping around the ends and through tackles, led the entire NFL in 1972 with 1,251 yards —even though he was operating behind a mediocre offensive line.

Although both Csonka and Simpson were hailed by most of the defensive stars polled by FAMILY WEEKLY, the two defensive tackles – Joe Greene of Pittsburgh and Bob Lilly of Dallas–agreed that they would rather face a Csonka type than a man like Simpson. "No matter how strong he is," says Lilly, "it's always easier to stop a man when he's coming straight at you than when he's running away from you and you have to chase him." Greene, who weighs 270 pounds, says he prefers "to face men my size or close to it, no matter what position they're playing. When it comes to my strength and size vs. their strength and size, I figure I'm gonna win."

Every top defensive man in our poll said that Joe Namath of the Jets was the quarterback they least liked to see across the field. "Joe has an extremely quick release and is excellent at reading defenses," says Miami's strong safety Dick Anderson. "You've got to have good coverage to stop a quarterback who can read as quickly as he does." Willie Brown, Oakland's veteran corner back, a star for many years, says of Namath, "He throws the ball hard and fast, and on target. These things make him the toughest quarterback around."

The Cowboys' splendid tackle, Rayfield Wright, was rated most immovable force on the offensive line. "Rayfield is probably the toughest man I face all year," says Jack Gregory, the New York Giants' top defensive end. "He's real strong and agile. He was a tight end before the Cowboys moved him to tackle, so you see how quick he is. You just can't get past him."

Even Joe Greene, who as defensive tackle usually opposes the offensive guard and is rarely deployed opposite an offensive tackle, recalls his meetings with Wright. "I've been lined up in front of him a few times," says Pittsburgh's "Mean Joe," "and he was very tough. I don't know what it would be like if I had to face him during a whole game. I'd have to use more than just my strength on him, I know that. He's so quick and agile that you have to work hard to beat him."

The youngest man who made the squad of offensive greats in our poll of defensive stars was Baltimore's 25-year-old tight end, Ray Chester. Traded to the Colts from the Oakland Raiders before the 1973 season, Chester displayed so much ability and potential in his three seasons as a regular

FACTS ABOUT OUR PANELISTS

Jack Gregory, 29, 6-5, 245, from Okolona, Miss., is in his seventh NFL season, second with the New York Giants. Played for Cleveland five years, traded to New York in summer of 1972. Attended Delta State College in his home state.

Joe Greene, 27, 6-4, 270, from Temple, Texas. In fifth pro season, Pittsburgh's first-draft choice in 1969. Nickname "Mean Joe." A college All-America at North Texas State.

Bob Lilly, 34, 6-5, 260, from Olney, Texas. A 13-year pro, selected by Dallas on first round of 1961 draft. Graduated from Texas Christian University as college All-America, many times decorated All-Pro in NFL.

Bill Stanfill, 26, 6-5, 250, from Cairo, Ga. In his fifth pro season, all with Miami. A college All-America at University of Georgia.

Chris Hanburger, 32, 6-2, 218, from Fort Bragg, N.C. Ninth pro season with Washington. Has achieved stardom despite being lowly 18th-round draft choice in 1965 after college career at University of North Carolina.

Andy Russell, 32, 6-2, 225, from Detroit, Mich. Came to Pittsburgh as 16th-round choice in pro draft. Spent 1964 and 1965 seasons in military service. Now in his ninth season of pro football.

Dave Wilcox, 31, 6-3, 241, from Ontario, Ore., has been with the San Francisco 49ers since 1964. A third-round draft choice from the University of Oregon.

Paul Krause, 31, 6-3, 200, from Flint, Mich. In his tenth pro season, sixth with Minnesota. Spent first four seasons with Washington after being drafted on the second round in 1964. Played college ball at University of Iowa. Ranks high on all-time list of interception leaders. Led NFL in his rookie year of 1964 with 12 interceptions.

Dick Anderson, 27, 6-2, 200, from Midland, Mich. A sixth-year pro with Miami, who was drafted on the third round in 1968. Led league twice in interception return yardage, in 1968 and 1970. Graduated from the University of Colorado.

Lem Barney, 28, 6-0, 190, from Gulfport, Miss. In his seventh season with Detroit, which drafted him on second round in 1967. Led NFL with ten interceptions, 232 interception yards, and three touchdowns on interceptions in 1967. Graduated from Jackson State College.

Willie Brown, 33, 6-2, 190, from Yazoo City, Miss. An 11-year pro veteran who has achieved stardom in the last seven years with Oakland. Played first four seasons with Denver, with whom he signed as free agent in 1963. Attended Grambling College.

tight end that he won the nod in a spirited battle that drew more nominations for excellence than any other position.

The tight ends who were cited, in addition to Chester, were Ted Kwalick of San Francisco, Bob Tucker of the New York Giants, Charlie Sanders of Detroit, Jackie Smith of St. Louis, Jim Mitchell of Atlanta, Bob Trumpy of Cincinnati, Marv Fleming of Miami, and Tom Mitchell, a teammate of Chester's at Baltimore.

But of all these, Chester drew the most raves. "He is probably the best all-around tight end," says Miami's Anderson. "He's a very big guy, he runs pass patterns very well, and he is an excellent blocker."

Pittsburgh's fine outside linebacker, Andy Russell, has the opposing tight end as one of his primary defensive responsibilities. He lists Chester as the best tight end he's faced. "If you're not really thinking out there," says Russell, "Chester will kill you with his pass patterns. He's extremely fast for a big man. You can look very bad if you let him get past you and the ball goes to him." Adds San Francisco linebacker Dave Wilcox: "Chester is a real clutch receiver."

Joining Chester as pass catchers on our special offensive All-Star team are wide receivers Otis Taylor of Kansas City and Paul Warfield of the world-champion Dolphins. These were the names that emerged from interviews with corner backs Lem Barney of Detroit and Willie Brown of Oakland, and Minnesota free safety Paul Krause.

"Otis is extremely tough to handle," says Brown, "because he's so big and strong that he just muscles you around. Paul has tremendous moves and great speed. A few years ago, corner backs would usually have to cover him one-on-one. Now a lot of teams use zone defenses, and they take a lot of pressure off the corner back."

Barney says, "I've always considered everybody I have to cover tough in different games, depending on who the quarterback is. But guys like Taylor and Warfield really make a corner back's job difficult."

Krause, who also cites Gene Washington of San Francisco and Charley Taylor of Washington as especially talented wide receivers, says the best pass receivers have certain traits in common: "They can catch the ball on you short or deep, can muscle past you once they have the ball, and aren't afraid to catch the ball with a lot of defenders around them. The very best guys, like Warfield, Otis Taylor, Charley Taylor and Gene Washington, are tremendous in all these categories."

Joining Dallas' Wright on the consensus squad of offensive-line stars are Oakland tackle Bob Brown, guards Larry Little of Miami and Tom Mack of Los Angeles, and center Forrest Blue of San Francisco.

Of Miami's Little, Joe Greene says, "He's big and strong and can hurt you physically. We've come out just about even the few times we've played against each other."

Bill Stanfill, Miami's all-pro end on defense, rates Brown along with Kansas City's Jim Tyrer and Winston Hill of the New York Jets as the toughest foes he's encountered in the American Conference. "But Art Shell, Oakland's other tackle and the guy I usually take when we play Oakland, is a real fine young tackle too," says Stanfill.

Los Angeles' Mack draws special praise from Bob Lilly, who has dealt with many great offensive linemen in his 13 years as a Dallas Cowboy. "Tom's very aggressive, a tough competitor, and always difficult to handle," says Lilly. "I'd say he's as tough as any of the guards I've played against since I've been in the league. Jim Parker of Baltimore, who's now in the Hall of Fame, was probably the toughest, and Gale Gillingham of Green Bay, who's still playing, also rank right up there."

Though both Chris Hanburger and Russell mentioned Forrest Blue of San Francisco as the center who is possibly the toughest pivot man in the league to handle, Blue's own teammate, linebacker Wilcox, offered the most glowing tribute to the 49er middle man. "Even in practice Forrest fires right out on every play," says Wilcox, "and goes after you. Seeing him in practice all these years, I can imagine how tough it must be for the guys who have to face him in games."

It's the best present I ever got.

At our house Christmas was roaring fires and red-faced, blue-nosed relatives who came trooping in from the cold with armloads of gifts. Aunt Nel always made us kids save the wrappings. Christmas was me racing coatless through the snow to fetch more of the firewood I'd chopped while pretending to be Abe Lincoln, Paul Bunyon ...anyone but me chopping wood all day on the day before Christmas.

I remember how Christmas was. How I'd rip, tear, yank open the biggest, most promising gift. Only to find a doll for Sue or a tablecloth. Inevitably someone got the cards confused.

But this year after 38 years of hoping and opening the biggest gift and finding it meant for somebody else—this year the biggest gift really was for me. How did they know I wanted a McCulloch chain saw?

Not just any chain saw, a McCulloch Mini Mac 1 (for only $99.95*). Because one chain saw is not just as good as another. And unless you happen to be an expert on chain saws, how do you know which is which?

You look at the manufacturer. For over a quarter of a century professional loggers have depended on McCulloch chain saws for their livelihood. Obviously, McCulloch really knows how to build fine chain saws.

Mini Mac 1 is no exception. It's the original lightweight, the power unit only weighs 6.9 pounds. It cuts fast and sure whether firewood, building projects or tree pruning. Even cuts through a 20″ log.

Mini Mac 1 is all the chain saw Dad needs.

Why settle for just any chain saw, when you can get a McCulloch for only $99.95.* Give Dad the quality he deserves. Give him a McCulloch this Christmas.

Mini Mac 1 only... $99.95 why pay more!

What the Defensive Stars Said About The Men They Picked

Here's what our panel of defensemen said about the offensive stars who were their own personal choices for FAMILY WEEKLY's team. A few of the players they praised didn't make the consensus team, but we thought you'd want to hear those comments, too.

ABOUT JOE NAMATH:

"He has the quickest release of any quarterback I've faced."
—Lem Barney

"He gets rid of the ball so quickly it's hard to get in a good lick without a flag dropping."
—Bill Stanfill

ABOUT LARRY CSONKA:

"Csonka's one hellacious runner. You can't get him down without his hurting you."
—Dave Wilcox

"He's very tough to bring down. He'll drag you along for a few extra yards before he's finally stopped—and even then, you might not have him."
—Paul Krause

"If he gets an open hole and you try an arm tackle, he's gone for ten yards." —Bob Lilly

ABOUT O. J. SIMPSON

"Runners like Simpson, Franco Harris of Pittsburgh, Larry Brown of Washington, and Ron Johnson of the Giants tend to give our defense trouble. Our defense uses wide spaces between the linemen. These runners can get outside very quickly, and they also have the ability to change direction on you after you think they're headed through one hole."
—Bob Lilly

ABOUT RAY CHESTER:

"A tight end can humiliate a linebacker. Chester can do this more often than any other tight end I've seen."—Andy Russell

ABOUT BOB BROWN:

"You take for granted that an offensive tackle can block for running plays. That's a basic part of his job. The way to compare offensive tackles is how good they are at blocking for the pass. If they can keep a defender away for three seconds, the quarterback has a chance to throw the ball. Brown has always been able to protect his quarterback about as well as any man who ever lived."
—Jack Gregory

THESE MEN ALSO COMMAND RESPECT . . .

ABOUT BOB TUCKER:

"He may be the best tight end at running with the ball after he catches it."
—Dick Anderson

"I've faced a lot of great tight ends—men like John Mackey and Mike Ditka, who have retired. Tucker is as good as any of them. His speed is deceptive; he's an excellent blocker and a great receiver."
—Chris Hanburger

ABOUT BOB TRUMPY:

"He's very big and quick, and executes very well."
—Andy Russell

ABOUT JACKIE SMITH:

"People don't think of tight ends as fast, but he's very fast. He gets most of his yardage after he catches the ball because he outruns the defender."
—Chris Hanburger

ABOUT RUNNING BACKS:

"Marv Hubbard, the Oakland fullback, is extremely strong and almost in Csonka's class as a power runner. Jess Phillips, who used to be with Cincinnati and now is with New Orlean, is a fantastic blocker. Essex Johnson of Cincinnati is a little guy, but extremely quick off the ball. He's also a great blocker."—Andy Russell

"Two of the strongest runners we face are Walt Garrison of Dallas and Art Malone of Atlanta. Garrison really blocks. He comes at you real strong, whether he's running the ball or blocking you. Malone is explosive and very strong. He's gonna gain a lot of yardage one of these years."—Dave Wilcox

The rust fighters.

Morton® Super Pellens®—a pellet salt that contains a rust remover. To prevent rust problems in softeners that use pellet type salt, simply recharge them with Super Pellens, newly formulated to be even more effective. Your softener will stay clean and function at top efficiency.

New Morton® Rust-Rout® Brine Block—a salt block that contains a rust remover. Should be used instead of ordinary brine blocks where iron is present in the water supply. The rust remover automatically prevents rust build up by removing rust accumulations during each recharging cycle.

Morton® Rust-Raze®—to remove accumulated rust and maintain rust-free softener operation. Rust in your softener reduces its efficiency. You can remove it quickly from any type of water softener with Rust-Raze, and keep rust out of softeners that use rock salt with regular use of Rust-Raze as directed on the package.

Today, at 90, he looks years younger than he is, is in excellent health, intends to keep his regular job another 25 years, and attributes it all to this wonderful healing method!
- ELAINE W., a nurse, suffering from swollen arms and legs, and puffiness in her face (edema). You'll see how she got rid of her ailment in less than 24 hours with this remarkable method!
- HARRIS S., a doctor who suffered from dizziness so that he was unable to walk unassisted. After a single treatment, the man shouted with joy. He could walk again by himself. The dizziness had magically disappeared!
- LARRY G., aged 56, who had been unable to bend his legs at the knees for twenty-eight years. You'll see how he received a single treatment and is now able to use his legs normally.

These and all the other true stories of real people in real life situations, reported in full in this new book of mine, prove the remarkable effectiveness of what I call NATUROPATHIC HEALING. Surely what has worked for so many others must work for you. It's all spelled out for you, step-by-step, in plain English, with complete easy-to-follow directions.

Simple And Easy To Use!

One of the most astounding things about Naturopathic Healing is the ease with which it works for you! It's all accomplished so pleasantly and enjoyably that it's actually an exhilarating experience in itself!

Now you can use this revolutionary new method for growing younger right in your own home FREE for 10 full days. Yes, if you can read a few simply-told, easy-to-follow instructions, you should achieve your goals of new youth, new health, new vigor, and see startling results in the first 10 days alone!

I'll tell you how to get my book in just a moment, but first I want to tell you about the wonderful help it can give you, how you'll smooth away aches and pains, relieve tensions, and seemingly rejuvenate every muscle, gland and organ in your body.

How To Re-Vitalize Your Entire Body, Cell By Cell!

So new that a new name had to be coined for it, Naturopathic Healing should make you look and feel fresher, younger, far more attractive —almost overnight!

You'll discover how it can . . .

- Help restore skin tone, wipe away wrinkles, give you a youthful jawline!
- Improve digestion and elimination, end constipation troubles!
- Stimulate the vital organs!
- Help relieve painful backaches, foot ailments, unsightly varicose veins!
- Cleanse and purify the bloodstream!
- Activate the glands!
- Help restore and sharpen eyesight and hearing!
- Protect you from colds, flu, and respiratory troubles!
- Soothe the nerves, free you from tension, stress and insomnia!
- Help restore youthful circulation!
- Make unwanted pounds begin to tumble away with NO dieting and NO strenuous exercises!
- Rejuvenate your diet so that your body extracts, to the last drop, every tiny nutrient it needs from food!
- Give you the highest degree of natural immunity from current epidemics!
- A reserve of power that enables you to do all that needs to be done during the day with energy and ambition to spare!
- Help slow down the aging process in muscles, glands and organs to keep them at their peak!
- Help RETAIN and RESTORE your youthful health and appearance—put a feeling of new youthfulness in your body!

Now! Win Back Years Of New Youth, Retain And Restore Your Youthful Health And Appearance!

Let me show you this tested, proven technique that has helped so many men and women maintain or regain their youthful health and appearance! For in this book, I give you the Naturopathic Healing method that saved my life and—for over a quarter of a century—has kept me hearty, fit and vigorous, despite the fact that doctors had given me only one week to live!

The reason this Naturopathic Healing is so successful is that it stimulates certain glands and organs in your body, which otherwise tend to "slow down" and cause premature aging. But this wonderful health method has the effect of reaching deep into your body, giving these glands and organs an effortless internal massage!

And what happens?

HEALTH is what happens! Often instantaneously. In a typical case of backache, for example, within 2 to 15 minutes, pain most mysteriously disappears! You feel more alive, more alert—and a roaring tide of youthful energy floods in to wash away tiredness and fatigue for good!

Naturopathic Health Secrets REVEALED!

I have been using this same technique to help thousands of men and women regain new youth and obtain immediate relief from aches and pains that had been bothering them for years. So effective that even I have often been startled at the results. In this book I give you the full details of this method, and show you:

- A natural remedy for heart and blood vessel conditions which I feel is actually superior to drug therapy. I used this method myself when, in my middle years, doctors gave me one week to live. I could barely stand up, and with dragging feet managed to get around slowly. One month later, I felt stronger than at any other time. I could run and play with the younger set. I felt like shouting to the world about this true panacea. As to the condition of my heart, all pains disappeared like magic and have never returned!
- A special herbal tea which has been used with great success in treating bladder and kidney stones, causing some varieties to dissolve and be eliminated naturally!
- A common tree bark, available in most herbal food stores, which has been used with great success in the treatment of arthritis and rheumatism!
- A delicious and popular "miracle" food, rich in enzymes, ionized minerals, and antibiotics—a source of quick pep and energy, and a proven aid for youthful long life!
- Natural manipulative muscle treatments which I recommend to relieve painful muscle spasm and muscle fatigue; special soaks and tranquilizing baths that also give amazing results!
- Wonderful stretching exercises that should relieve backache, straighten your shoulders, and make you look slimmer, younger, far more attractive!
- An amazing food substance—which you can purchase for pennies without prescription—which is able to stimulate the MANUFACTURE of vitamins IN THE BODY. The amount of vitamins produced naturally in the body this way is said to be from 3 to 50 TIMES the usual amounts taken with our food. And it has been learned that this substance plays an important part in the replacement and rejuvenation of body cells!

And still that's just the beginning! You'll learn of certain foods which have been demonstrated to me to cause hardening of the arteries, kidney disease, wear out the intestinal tract, and speed up the ageing process. And you'll see at long last how to avoid them for a whole lifetime of sparkling good health!

Startling Results!

In this book, I give you the full details of this method, and show you how it has brought instantaneous results to men and women in all walks of life. To people like . . .

- BILL C., who was hospitalized and on the verge of nervous collapse, in such constant agony—due to neck and hip sprain—that sleep was practically impossible! You'll see how he received a single treatment, and in seconds the pain disappeared!
- ETHEL G., a dancer, suffering from excruciating pain in her lower back, and who, in addition, was slightly short of stature and extremely sensitive about her height. In minutes she nearly cried for joy as she felt the instant relief of pains. When her height was checked again, it was found she had grown over one inch!
- LAWRENCE S., suffering for 20 years from pains in neck, spine and hip. After two simple treatments, such as you can give yourself, he was completely relieved of all pain!

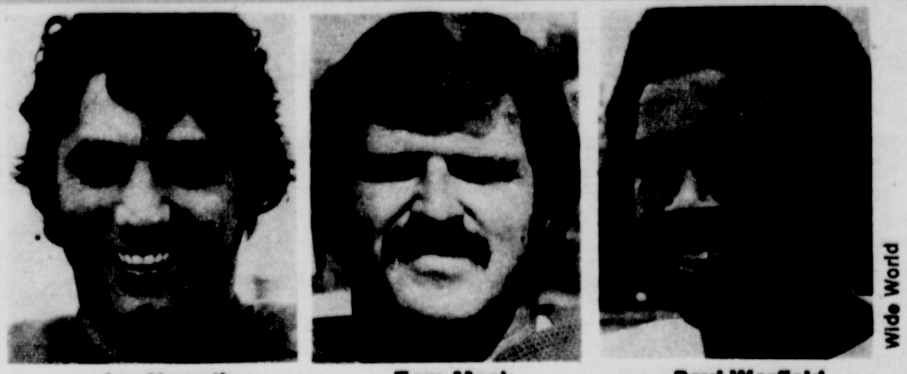
How Well Do You Know Our All-Stars? (A Quiz for NFL Fans)



Joe Namath — Tom Mack — Paul Warfield

Wide World

By Larry Bortstein

The answer to each of the following questions is the name of a player on the NFL All-Star Offensive Team selected by our team of NFL Defensive All-Stars. Match the question to the appropriate name on the list.

1. Which great offensive-line star came to his pro team as a tight end?

2. In 1967 he established an all-time record for pro football by passing for 4,007 yards. Who is he?

3. Which outstanding pro guard is the son of a former major-league baseball player?

4. In the first game of the 1973 pro season, he established a single-game rushing record. Who is he?

5. Which top receiver was traded from one American Conference team to another just before the start of the 1973 season?

6. Name the outstanding line star who missed only two of his team's plays on offense in 1972.

7. This outstanding wide receiver was a great track man in college, specializing in the long jump. Name him.

8. He is one of the all-time great blockers, and has the same last name as a defensive All-Star player on the same team. Who is he?

9. For the past three seasons he has been voted the outstanding offensive lineman in the American Conference by the NFL Players Association. Who is he?

10. Which wide receiver was one of the winning team's stars in Super Bowl IV?

11. This man is called a throwback to the old fullback types. Name this great runner.

---

1. Rayfield Wright, now one of the best tackles in football, came to the Dallas Cowboys in 1967 as a tight end, the position he played at Fort Valley State College in Georgia.

2. Joe Namath of the New York Jets passed for 4,007 yards in 1967 to establish an all-time pro record. He completed 258 of his 491 passes that season and 26 of his passes went for Jet touchdowns.

3. Tom Mack of the Los Angeles Rams is the son of the late Ray Mack, who played second base for the Cleveland Indians from 1938-46.

4. O. J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills set a new single-game rushing record for pro football when he gained 250 yards in leading his team to a season-opening 31-13 victory over the New England Patriots on September 16, 1973.

5. Raymond Chester, who established himself as one of the finest tight ends in the game in his first three seasons with the Oakland Raiders, was traded to the Baltimore Colts before the 1973 season. The Raiders received defensive tackle Bubba Smith in exchange for Chester.

6. Forrest Blue, the fine center of the San Francisco 49ers, missed only two of his team's offensive plays in 1972 despite shoulder and ankle injuries.

7. When he was at Ohio State, Paul Warfield, the star wide receiver of the world-champion Miami Dolphins, achieved a long jump of more than 26 feet and ranked among the world's best in that event.

8. Bob Brown, the huge offensive tackle of the Oakland Raiders, who has been an NFL star since his rookie year of 1964, has the same last name as Oakland corner back Willie. The two are not related.

9. Though he was cut by the San Diego Chargers in 1969 and signed by Miami, Larry Little has achieved greatness as a Dolphin offensive guard. In 1970, 1971 and 1972, he was voted the top lineman in the AFC by the NFL Players Association.

10. Otis Taylor of the Kansas City Chiefs played a key role in their 23-7 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in the 1970 Super Bowl. He made a sensational catch of a pass from Len Dawson to complete a 46-yard scoring play for Kansas City's last points of the game.

11. Larry Csonka, who stands 6-2 and weighs 237 pounds, specializes in straight-ahead power running as the star fullback for the Miami Dolphins. He ran for 1,051 yards in 1971 and 1,117 yards in 1972. Csonka's style reminds old-timers of Bronko Nagurski, who starred for the Chicago Bears in the 1930's.

Florentine Tuna: A Great New Taste

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a tuna casserole with a new twist: spinach. Says Marilyn: "Did you know that 'Florentine' means 'with spinach'? I think your family will enjoy this variation of the familiar tuna casserole. Close out the meal with a delightful new pie: Applesauce Custard Crunch."

Applesauce Custard Crunch Pie features two layers: one a spicy cinnamon-applesauce layer, the second a creamy custard layer topped with crunchy brown sugar.

MARILYN'S MENU

Hot Vegetable Juice Starter
Cheese and Crackers
Florentine Tuna-Noodle Casserole*
Tossed Greens and Tomato Salad with Seasoned Croutons
Breadsticks
Butter or Margarine
Applesauce Custard Crunch Pie*
Coffee Tea Milk

*Recipe given

FLORENTINE TUNA-NOODLE CASSEROLE

Salt
3 qts. boiling water
4 cups (8 ozs.) ¼-inch-wide noodles or fettucine noodles
⅓ cup margarine or butter
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
⅓ cup all-purpose flour
1 packet instant chicken bouillon or 1 cube
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon paprika
3 cups skim milk or skimmed evaporated milk, diluted
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen chopped spinach, cooked and well drained
2 cans (6½ or 7 ozs. each) tuna, drained and flaked
½ cup grated process American or Gruyère cheese
Paprika

1. In 6-8-qt. kettle add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered 7 minutes, stirring occasionally. Drain in colander.

2. Meanwhile make Florentine Sauce: In 2-qt. saucepan slowly melt margarine. Remove from heat. Stir in instant minced onion, flour, bouillon, ¾ teaspoon salt, pepper, nutmeg and paprika until smooth.

3. Gradually stir in milk. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring. Reduce heat; simmer 1 minute.

4. Preheat oven to 375°F. Lightly grease a shallow 2-qt. casserole.

5. Layer half of noodles and all of spinach and tuna in casserole. Top with remaining noodles.

6. Pour Florentine Sauce over casserole. Poke gently with spoon to allow sauce to spread. Sprinkle with cheese and paprika.

7. Bake 40-45 minutes, until sauce bubbles and cheese is melted. Makes 4-6 servings

APPLESAUCE CUSTARD CRUNCH PIE

½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
⅔ cup light-brown sugar, firmly packed
1 can (16 ozs.) applesauce
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1 pkg. (3 ozs.) egg-custard mix
2 cups milk
1 (9 inch) baked pastry shell
⅓ cup finely chopped walnuts

1. Combine cinnamon, nutmeg, gelatin and ⅓ cup brown sugar in 2-qt. saucepan. Stir in applesauce and lemon rind.

2. Heat to boiling, stirring. Reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes. Cool.

3. Prepare egg-custard mix with milk as directed on package.

4. Spread cooled applesauce mixture over bottom of pastry shell. Top with hot custard. Chill in refrigerator until set.

5. Sift remaining ⅓ cup brown sugar evenly over custard top. Sprinkle with nuts.

6. Place pie on rack in preheated broiler 3-4 inches from source of heat. Broil 1-2 minutes, or until sugar melts. Refrigerate until thoroughly chilled. Makes 8 servings

People Quiz

Some Reasons People Vote the Way They Do

By John E. Gibson

TRUE OF FALSE?

1. People tend to be prejudiced in favor of candidates whose height is similar to their own.

2. If your political beliefs differ radically from your boss's, it will be hard for him to overlook the fact when you ask for a raise or special favors.

3. Youthful voters are the most cynical about government and the most skeptical of politicians.

4. You can tell a lot about the way people in your neighborhood feel about various issues – and how they are likely to vote on them – just by scattering "lost letters" around.

5. The older you get, the more likely you are to vote Republican.

True or False: People tend to be prejudiced in favor of candidates whose height is similar to their own. (See number 1)

ANSWERS

1. True. Since research has shown that people tend "to choose friends closer to themselves in height than would have been expected by chance," a team of behavioral scientists interviewed hundreds of voters in a metropolitan mayorality election to determine the extent to which a candidate's height might influence a voter's preference. The subjects were questioned on their own height, occupation and background, favored candidate and perception of the height of each candidate. Findings: "The hypothesis of the study, that people tend to vote for candidates of relatively similar height, was generally supported by the data." It was also noted that taller people preferred the taller candidate by more than three to one.

2. True – as shown by findings of a university study of the effect of political views on personal behavior. The investigators found that a person is not only "less favorably perceived" by another when his political views differ appreciably, but that the other person is often not at all adverse to inflicting discomfort or embarrassment upon him when circumstances offer a reasonable excuse for doing so.

3. False–as indicated by a recent survey conducted by the Center for Political Studies, a unit of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. The study findings show "that it is not the younger but rather the older age groups that are the most politically cynical." People over 50, the researchers found, have been the most politically estranged in each election year in the last 15 years.

4. True. What psychologists term the "lost letter" technique has proved a most intriguing – and sometimes remarkably accurate – method of determining how people really feel about, and intend to vote on, various questions. The technique is described as follows: "It consists of dispersing in city streets (and other locations) a large number of unmailed letters, enclosed in envelopes that have addresses and stamps on them. When a person comes across one of these envelopes, it appears to have been lost. Thus he has a choice of mailing, disregarding or destroying the letter. By varying the name of the organization (political or otherwise) to which the letter is addressed, it is possible to obtain a return rate specific to the organization." The percentage of letters returned provides an index of popularity or disfavor.

5. False–according to a study of the political-attitude pattern of American adults over a 24-year period, sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the University of Texas Research Institute. The conclusion of the investigators: There is no evidence for the popularly held belief that "the process of aging leads to Republican party identification." On the contrary, the findings strongly suggest that as individuals grow older, they generally become less conservative in their attitudes.

SEN. FRANK CHURCH
Erosion of a godsend

Medicare may have been a godsend for the elderly, but they're still paying more than before for their health care, according to a study by the Senate Committee on Aging. "Perhaps the most significant finding," says Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), chairman of the committee, "is that the elderly, on a per capita basis, now pay more for medical care than in the year before Medicare became law. In fiscal 1966 they paid $234 from their own resources. By fiscal 1972, that figure had risen to $276, or 18 percent higher than in 1966.... Valuable as it is, Medicare still only covers about 42 percent of health-care costs of the elderly. This figure, however, represents a decline when compared with fiscal 1969. At that time, Medicare covered almost 46 percent of the aged's medical expenditures. However, inflationary pressures and gaps in coverage have steadily eroded this coverage."

"Children have unique patterns—i.e., they differ from each other from birth. ... The child is not infinitely malleable clay to be pushed and pulled according to the unsympathetic demands of unaccepting parents. Rather, the child has a drive to live and do things his own way. When the parents support, guide, educate, and correct in a warm, kindly way, the child flourishes.... When, however, the parents and schools try to mold the child to fit the preconceived notions of how he should act, when they shove here, press there, shape over yonder, then the child responds with resistance, compliance, and unhappiness." From "Emotional Common Sense," by Rolland S. Parker, Ph.D. (Harper and Row, $6.95.)

RODDY McDOWALL
Aping isn't easy . . .

Is it easy to play an ape? Actor Roddy McDowall, who has played an ape in four of the five "Planet of the Apes" pictures, answers: "It takes 3½ hours to be made up every morning. That means that by noon I've had a full day behind me. And when the makeup is on, I can't eat and I can't talk, which means I am very irritable. My voice has to be dubbed when the film is completed. Even then I have to wear a gizmo to make it sound like I am talking like an ape. Nourishment? Fruit juice is all I can take while I have makeup on. But if I didn't enjoy playing the part I sure wouldn't go through all that trouble!"

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

INFANT ASIDE

Babies should be allowed a certain amount of crying. It is good for development of their lungs and throat.
—News Item

When they've the need, by day or night,
Let babies cry with all their might.
Of course attend them—they may hunger—
But let their lungs grow while they're younger.
Yes, check to see if they are dry,
But stifle not that strident cry.
The food they ate may make them sick,
An opened safety pin may prick.
But on the other hand, or throat,
They may wish merely to emote.

So for the sake of their developing,
Just let them have their time of yelloping,
And know, when they've grown big and strong,
You helped those little lungs along.

My wife really doesn't know much about politics. We went down to vote in the primary and someone asked her which party she was affiliated with. She said, "Tupperware."
—Robert Orben

A visitor to the city had lost his way and stopped to ask a police officer for directions. "Take the first turn to your left. You'll find you're on a one-way street going the wrong way. But don't let that bother you—you're doing that now."

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

While driving around one Sunday afternoon, my children and I stopped at an old cemetery. We all got out of the car and walked around, checking the dates on the worn markers. I was engrossed in an old tombstone, very beautifully carved, when suddenly my eight- and ten-year-old daughters came running to me, their eyes wide with fright. My ten-year-old tugged frantically on my arm and said breathlessly, "Let's go!" She turned and pointed to a grave: "See that grave over there? The sign by it says, 'She is not dead—she is only asleep.' Let's leave right now!"

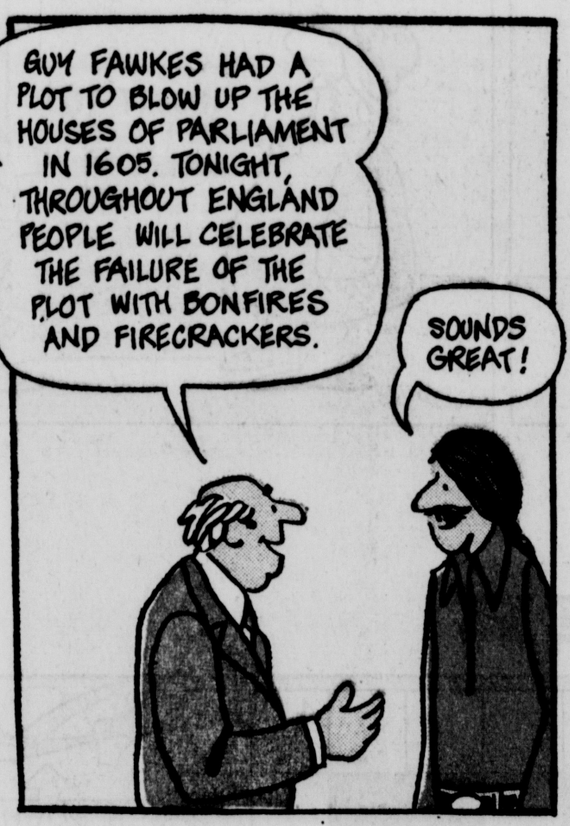
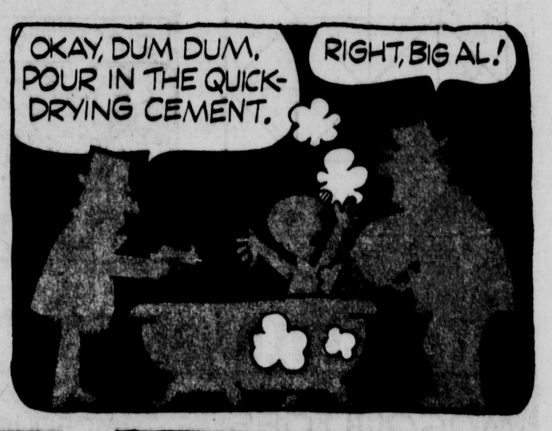
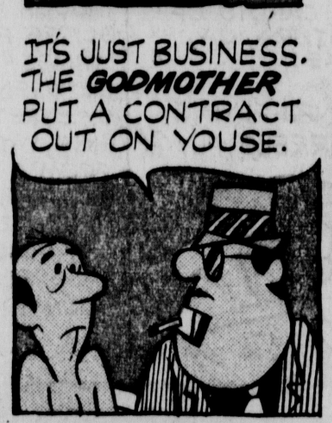
BERRY'S WORLD







Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Instead of throwing rice at a departing bride and bridegroom, try using wild birdseed. The birds love to eat it and there will be no waste to sweep up. — VERA.

DEAR POLLY — Try using a grapefruit spoon for removing caps from strawberries. The serrated tip makes the job easier and neater. When mashed berries are desired, use a pastry blender to make that task a breeze. — SHARRON.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — A foam-backed furniture throw makes an excellent cloth for a picnic table. The backing adheres to the table, especially at the corners, and practically eliminates any need for an anchor to keep the cloth in place. A big sofa throw would doubtless fit for an entire table, but we use a chair throw for a small section of the table. — MRS. R. A.

DEAR POLLY — Cup hooks are ideal to fasten climbing roses or vines to the side of a building. The plants remain stationary and do not blow down even in a strong wind. — ROBERT

DEAR POLLY — Use torn or worn sheets to make undercovers for your bed pillows. Make them to fit snugly and just long enough for the open ends to lap over each other, or tuck in and place a snap in the center to fasten together. This saves laundering the pillows. These covers can be changed and washed as often as needed. — MRS. E. S. B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for other teen-agers who want to keep their jeans long, as that is now the style. To keep mine long without having to let the hems down I step on the bottoms of the legs and then stretch the jeans upward after they are washed and still wet. I do this a couple of times and the jeans stay nice and long. — GINGER.

DEAR POLLY — I use little cotton swabs with soap or a cleaning solution on them for several things. One is for cleaning artificial flowers, as they reach into the crevices. The swabs do not disturb delicate arrangements. — CHERYL

DEAR POLLY — I have a few tips that will prove useful on moving day. As you pack, do one box for each cupboard or closet shelf and then label the outside with crayon or a marker as to contents. Wrap my wash cloths, towels, etc., around breakables. Put a big, red "X" on boxes with essentials that need to be unpacked right away. — X-MOVER.
